TIMOTHY HAY TO BE SCARCE

T. A. Coleman Also States That Oats Harvest Will Be a Bumper.

CUTTING WHEAT IN SOUTHERN INDIANA

Automobile Business is Benefit to Agricultural Conditions.

Timothy hay will be very scarce this year while clover hay will be plentiful. T. A. Coleman, of the agricultural extension department of Purdue university, who was in Fort Wayne Tuesday morning, made this statement. He says that the city's demand has caused this result in the hay crop.

The automobile trucks which have taken the place of many horses is benefitting agricultural condtions, stated the Purdue man. He said that clover hay was a better feed for city horses than timothy, and consequently the farmers are raising those products which will have an easy market.

Timothy hay, according to the expert, is detrimental to the soil while cloves rebuilds the soil and makes it more productive. For this reason he states that the auto business is a benefit to the conditions in the country.

In speaking of the outlook of the crops for 1917, Mr. Coleman stated that oats at the present time gave appearance of a bumper crop. He said he did not remember the time when oats looked better.

While traveling through the southern part of the state the latter part of last week, Mr. Coleman saw much wheat being cut. The crop will be good. He told of one county where there was nearly 10,000 less acres of wheat, but that expectations were that the number of bushels would be just as large as in former years.

The corn crop in most parts of the state has already acquired a height eighteen to thirty inches, Mr. Coleman stated. He regards this as an exceptional height for this time of the year. The corn fields in nearly all sections of the county are in need of cultivation as the recent numerous rains, followed by warm weather have formed a hard crust on the surface of all fields.

Will Reccommend Man.

Mr. Coleman went to Columbia City Tuesday afternoon, where by appointment he was to meet with the Whitley county board of education relative to the appointment of a county agent. Mr. Coleman will reccommend B. L. Mummel.

Monday he met with the board at Bluffton and it was voted to retain County Agent Harry Gray another year.

At the present time there are 41 county agents in the state and 14 counties who want agents are on the waiting list. It is said that Indiana leads all other states in the union in regards to the number of county agents. Pennsylvania is second.

Silo Demonstrations.

County Agent A. J. Hutchins announces that everything is in readiness for the silo and silage demonstrations which are to be given in Allen county Thursday and Friday by J. W. Schwab. Thursday afternoon a demonstration will be given at the farm residence of A. O. Hadley, near Poe and Thursday evening at 8:30 one will be given on the farm of Frank Pfeiffer. The county agent is particularly anxious to have Ft. Wayne men interested in this work attend.

Friday afternoon Mr. Schab will speak at the farm of A. H. Knight near Zanesville.

BUTLER PROFESSOR IS DEAD.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 3.—Prof. Charles E. Underwood, aged 42, head of the department of old testament language and literature at Butler college, died at his home here today after an extended illness of stomach trouble.

LEAVES FOR WALLOON LAKE.

Henry Beadell, of more or less notoriety as the great money raiser for civic and patriotic campaigns, left Tuesday for Walloon lake, Michigan, to be gone until Sept. 1, to give the public a much needed rest, but look out when he returns.

A pedro party will be given Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Unity hall by the Loyal lodge No. 85, L. A. to B. of R. T.

USE OF PENCIL MAY RUIN REMONSTRANCE

Thousands of Dollars at Stake in Decision of Attorney.

Thousands of dollars worth of improvement hangs upon the power of a pencil mark. Whether the full length of Rudisill boulevard is to receive a top coat dressing, at cost of many hundreds of dollars, depends upon the validity of signing a remonstrance with a lead pencil.

Park board rules state that names attached to all remonstrances must be signed in ink. A part of those who signed the objection to the improvement of the boulevard wrote their names with a lead pencil. The city attorney will be called upon to decide whether their signatures can be held as valid. If the penciled names are rejected the remonstrance will be lost. If the right of those who wrote with a pencil is sustained the remonstrance will over ride the improvement plan.

If joint deeds are to be considered as entitled to two votes there are 24 objectors to the improvement out of 40 property owners along the way, counting the names enrolled by lead pencil. If all deeds get one voice only there are 15 remonstrators from 24 property owners along the boulevard.

The seal coat dresing will cost about 27 cents per front foot, along both sides of the boulevard. A part of the property owners are objecting to the added expense of the beautiful drive. If their remonstrance is overruled by the city attorney the improvements will be made as the remonstrating period has expired, park board members say.

GETZ MAY REMAIN.

Special Council Session Will Determine Salary Increases.

If Carl Getz is paid a salary of $2,000 a year he will remain in the employ of the city, he has given members of the park board to understand. The matter of raising that amount for the efficient city forester and park superintendent will be placed before a special council session, meeting as a committee of the whole, later in the week.

The resignation of Getz from the employment of the city was not accepted by the park board Monday afternoon. Getz was asked if he would remain in his present position for $2,000 a year. He stated that he would. Park board members will appear before the council body and ask that an increase be granted him.

An applicant for the position of city forester and park superintendent presented himself before the park board, Monday. He offered to serve the city for the amount now paid Getz. He will probably be employed in case the increase of Getz's salary is refused by the council.

"We prefer to retain a man who is familiar with local conditions," said Colonel D. N. Foster, Tuesday. "We do not want to break in a new man when we have found our present superintendent to be efficient. We think we should keep him."

The matter of raising the salary of Charles J. Steiss, secretary to the park commission, will also be laid before the council members at the special session.

ATTACK FLY BASE.

Kill Life Germs of Pests, Say Health Officers.

Now is the time to wage the war on the devastating fly hosts, say members of the city health board. A fly killed now means 100,000 less of the pests next August, it is pointed out.

Kill the fly germs, is the urgent appeal of all city health deputies, who are visiting every part of the city in their inspection campaign. All manure heaps have been ordered removed. Housewives are warned not to throw waste into the back yards and alleys. Removing the feeding and breeding places for flies is the most important part of the insect eradication campaign, it is shown.

WIRE PAVILION.

Workmen for the city lighting department are engaged in wiring the pavilion in Lakeside park. Several large lamps will be placed in the building. The lights will be placed on a meter to be maintained by the park board. The maintenance fund for lights for the city has been drawn upon to its limit, city officials state.

On Vacations.

Miss Louise Scherer, clerk in the water works department, is on her vacation this week. John Dowling, ledger clerk in the water works department, has gone to Rome City to visit over the Fourth.

Sell Valuable Mineral.

The Schiefflin Drug company, of New York, will get the 300 pounds of potassium permanganate which has been the property of the health department for ten years. The eastern drug firm will pay $3.40 per pound for the mineral. The health department paid 9 cents a pound for the permanganate. The chemical which cost $27 is to be sold for $1,020, making a neat price profit for the city department.

Three Generations.

Grandmother, mother and daughter registered at the same time Monday afternoon for the coming city election. Mrs. Rachel F. Grodian, 2809 Hanna street, born in Jackson township in 1850, was the grandmother. The second generation was represented by Mrs. Clara Brouwer, 2519 Hanna street, born in Allen county in 1876. The youngest was Gladys Brouwer, born in Fort Wayne in 1896.

Ponies Are Coming.

Gentry Brothers' dog and pony show has signed up for an all day stand in Fort Wayne soon. The well known animal show is billed or July 16.

Paying Off Early.

Because Wednesday, the regular pay day, comes on the Fourth this week the water works employes were paid off on Tuesday. Water works workmen will have use of two weeks' pay on Independence day.

Plans for Sewer.

Plans for a sewer in the alley south of Riverside avenue, from Spy Run avenue east, were ordered prepared by the board of works Monday afternoon. The works board also approved the plat for Sunny Acre, south of the city, and petitioned for by H. G. Keegan.

Scarlet Fever.

Ray Williams, 1234 Boone street, has scarlet fever, the health board has been notified.

Building Permits.

Building permits were issued to E. E. Zimmerman, to build frame house, 1710 Lantz avenue, $2,000 and J. C. Noll, 1417 Barthold street, $400.

Birth Record.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George J. Alter, 1418 Eliza street—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ueber, St. Joseph hospital—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ora Clare Ormsby, 918 Nelson street—a girl.

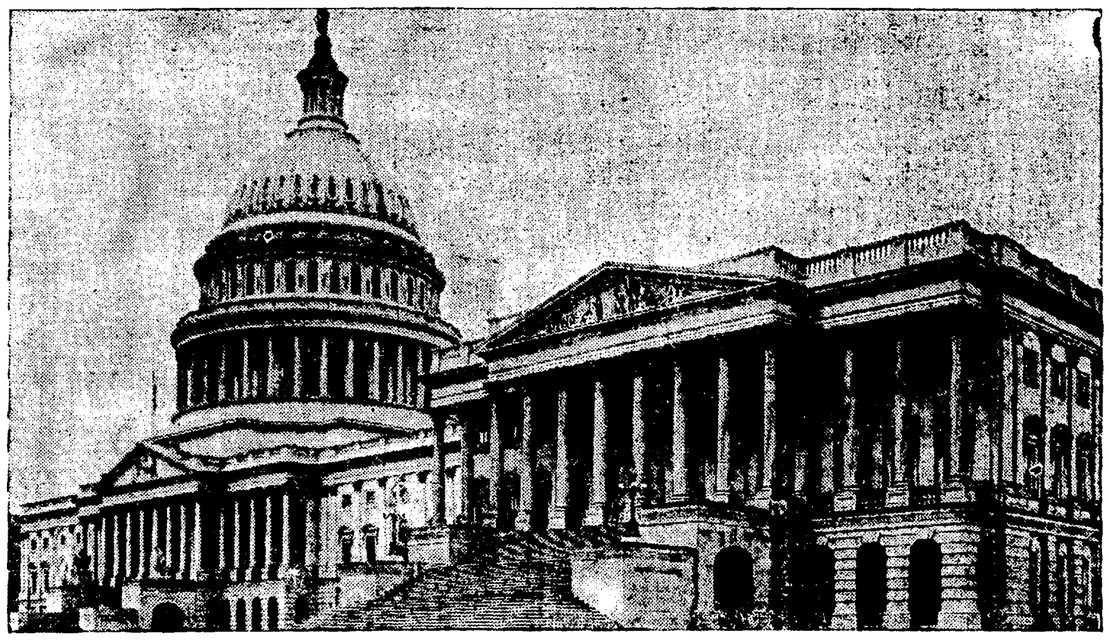
Noted English Actress to Wed

NOTED ENGLISH ACTRESS WILL WED SOON.—Margery Maude, actress, will soon be married to Joseph Warren Burden. The engagement has just been announced but the marrage will be hastened, as Mr. Burden expects soon to be called into army service. Miss Maude is a daughter of Cyril Maude, the English actor. Miss Maude came to the United States with her father in "Grumpy" and later appeared in "Paganini" with George Arliss.

AT PRESENT THE CENTER OF THE WORLD'S ATTENTION.



CHRISTIAN VONDERAU PLAYS GOOD FELLOW

Buys Five Gallons of Cream to Treat Employes of Court House.

Christian Vonderau, county recorder, played the part of a good fellow Monday afternoon and treated every employe of the Allen county court house, abstractors and women employed in the abstract offices of the city to a dish of delicious ice cream.

Mr. Vonderau purchased a five gallon can of cream and at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon everyone was invited into his office to partake of the treat.

About Shoe Shining Parlor.

Mike Arger and Mike Anastas have begun suit against John Prosu and the First and Hamilton National bank asking for $120 damages, injunction and cancellation of notes. The plaintiffs state that they purchased a shoe shining parlor from John Prosu at 110 West Berry street, and that it was very much different from the way he represented it to them. They gave two notes in part payment which are held by the bank.

Did Not Provide.

Cleatus Blake complains that Charles Blake did not properly provide for her since her marriage to him and consequently wants a divorce. She also states that she has been forced to make her own living and that he finally deserted her.

Court House Closed.

The court house will be closed Wednesday on account of Fourth of July. All employes with the exception of a few will enjoy a day's vacation.

Wants $1,500.

Adam M. Plank has sued J. L. Morgan and Ralph L. Corey for $1,500, alleged to be due on a promissory note.

Wants Separate Support.

Eliza Davis has sued John M. Davis for separate support. She states that they were married March 13, 1905, and that three children have been born. She alleges that on June 30, the defendant told her to get a divorce as he wanted to be free. She also alleges that he has threatened to take her life. She asks that the court grant her twelve dollars a week for the support of the children and a restraining order enjoining him from molesting her at her home, 401 Poplar street.

Wants Support Money, Too.

Elimer Cragwall, who says she was married to Charles Cragwall on March 13, 1917, wants support money. She states that without reason or cause the defendant deserted her on June 19. She further asks that the court restrain the Pennsylvania company from paying him his back wages.

Suit on Promissory Note.

Frank Brenneman has begun action against Jesse E. Collins for $350.30, alleged to be due on a promissory note.

Mechanic's Lien.

On complaint for foreclosure of a mechanic's lien, the Wolf Furnace company has begun suit against Peter Boegli asking for a judgment of $50.

Marriage Licenses.

Lowe E. Meredith, expressman, to Agnes Vanover.

Edwin H. Martin, tinner, to Hazel F. Gidley.

John D. Burton, steel worker, to Ethel M. Fisher.

Walter W. Underwood, waiter, to Bessie G. Foreman.

Boyd C. Kavanaugh, brakeman, to Louise M. Johann.

Worden W. Sturm, clerk, to Eestella C. Girardot.

PATIENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED FRIDAY

According to announcement made Tuesday afternoon by A. G. Burry, president of the Hope Hospital association, the new Hope hospital on Lewis street will be ready to accept patients Friday. He stated that no patients had been accepted for the reason that some time has been required to perfect an organization. There are still a few patients at the old home of the Hope hospital at Washington and Barr streets. These will be moved, the most of them, to their homes within the next day or two.

I. W. W. PLOT TO TIE UP ALL COPPER MINES

Charlts H. Moyer Hints at Money Used by the Nation's Enemies

Denver, Colo., July 3.—The Industrial Workers of the World are charged by Charles H. Moyer, president of the International Union of Mill, Mine and Smelter Workers, with participation in a nation-wide conspiracy to shut down the copper mines of the country.

Mr. Moyer in a statement issued last night said strikes would be called by the Metal Mine Workers' union, a branch of the Industrial Workers of the World, in Utah copper mines. He called attention to the recent succession of strikes in other copper mining sections of the west and continued:

"The Industrial Workers of the World has had no money in its treasury. It seems to have plenty of money now. Where it got this money I cannot say. The public may speculate as to the source of it."

Summary of the Day's War News

The great offensive of the regenerated Russian army, initiated under the leadership of Minister of War Kerensky in person, is being successfully pushed. Advices to the Russian government declare it is developing "in an absolutely favorable manner."

The success of the initial thrust in the new drive by General Brussiloff in Galicia was beyond question. Costly as it probably was to the Russian personnel, the taking of more than 10,000 prisoners by the attacking army in the comparatively narrow sector affected shows how disastrous it must have been to the enemy.

There remained the question of whether the drive could be kept up with sufficient force to reap the full advantage of the victory. While this question does not yet seem to have been definitely decided, the indications today are admittedly encouraging. Ground has been gained beyond the line of the original attack and the Russians are advancing in the direction of Zlochoff.

Beyond this, today's Russian official statement shows further heavy losses inflicted upon the Austro-German forces, including the capture of some 6,000 additional prisoners and twenty-one guns.

Zlochoff, towards which the Russians are pressing, is almost directly east of Lemberg and slightly more than thirty-five miles distant from it. It lies on the important railway line from Tarnopol to Krasne, at which latter point it links up with the Brody-Lemberg railway line. It is slightly west of a north and south line running through the important Teutonic stronghold at Brzezani, twenty-five miles to the south. The Russian artillery is plentifully supplied with ammunition for the important work it has in hand. The supply department was the weakest of any during the old regime, causing many a break-down for which the fighting forces were not responsible.

The deficiency in this respect now seems to have been thoroughly remedied. Petrograd advices declare the preparations as regards munitions and equipment were better for this offensive than any preceding operation in the whole war.

Military movements on the other war fronts are dwarfed in importance by the Russian drive. There is nevertheless considerable activity on the Aisne and Verdun fronts in northern France, where the Germans are continuing their persistent attacks.

General Petain's forces are holding firm, however, and all the crown prince's attempts of last night, including a sharp drive between hill 304 and Avocourt wood in the Verdun region, were completely checked.

Additional details of the Galician fighting show the Austro-German forces to have retired across the Little Stripa, southeast of Lemberg. Here the Russians have occupied Zboroff on the Tarnopol-Zlochoff-Krasne railway, twelve miles southeast of Zlochoff. Their main push thus appears to be up this railway line. Two other villages in the vicinity also have been taken by the Russians.

Berlin's official report confirms Petrograd's account of the Russian progress in this region. It admits the success of the Russians in extending northward the gap there opened in the Teutonic lines in the original assault from the heights on the western bank of the Stripa. The throwing in of German reserves halted this advance and Russian attacks elsewhere failed, it is claimed.

Signs of a British attack in prospect in Belgium are reflected in the German statement.

The artillery fire in the Ypres district is reported increasing, indicating the probability that General Haig is preparing for another thrust in force from the lines won in the Messines attack last month.

"GATLING GUN" OF THE BUSINESS WORLD

H. L. Fogelman, Efficiency Expert, Part of Redpath Chautauqua Program.

The University club is bringing to Fort Wayne, Harry L. Fogelman, the great lecturer on Business Efficiency, who is said to have the "Billy Sunday Punch." "Gatling Gun Fogelman" is the greatest efficiency expert in the United States. He has recently been designated "Gatling Gun Fogelman" because of his ability to speak three hundred words a minute and to be distinctly understood.

Mr. Fogelman has been called in by the heads of our largest factories to straighten out their business affairs. To show that his lecture was practical he worked one year for the Baldwin Locomotive works and sold more locomotives than any man that company had ever had. Mr. Fogelman has been with the Redpath chautauqua for the past three months. In all the large southern cities big business men have bought tickets for the employes to hear Fogelman as a business proposition.

The Woolworth chain stores have notified all their employes to hear Mr. Fogelman's lecture at the company's expense. The same is true of the Kresge stores. Mr. W. D. Brown, of the Brown Paint company, sent the following letter to his employes:

"Please hear Mr. Fogelman's lecture when he appears in your town. It will not only be to our company's interest but to your interest to hear this man. He has a great faculty of helping one to discover his hidden possibilities. Charge the expense of hearing Mr. Fogelman to me.

"Sincerely yours,
"W. D. BROWN,
"Birmingham, Ala."

Every business man in Fort Wayne would do well to have all his employes hear Mr. Fogelman as a business proposition. Mr. Fogelman will appear in the big Redpath chautauqua tent at the circus grounds, Tuesday evening, July 18.

AN OPEN MEETING.

Robin Hood lodge, No. 216, Order Sons of St. George, will hold an open meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at App's building on Calhoun street, at which time Organizer Ernest Waldrom, representing the supreme lodge, will be present and explain the aims and objects of the order.

NEW CONGRESSMAN IS IN.

Washington, July 3.—Richard Elliott, republican, of Connersville, Ind., today was sworn in by Speaker Clark as successor to the late Representative Comstock, republican, of the Sixth Indiana district.

FURTHER DROP IN FLOUR.

Chicago, July 3.—A further drop in the price of flour was announced here today when family brands of spring wheat flour were cut $1 to $12 a barrel. This is $5.80 a barrel below the high point in May.

Mrs. Harry C. Offutt, of Wildwood avenue, entertained a few friends in a delightful manner this afternoon at her home to compliment Mrs. Olive Doud Ellis, of Wilmington, Del., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Doud, for a few weeks. Bridge was the amusement and details of appointment were extremely pretty.

Dr. Frances H. Turner is in Grand Rapids, Mich., attending the funeral of Mrs. Clark Slocum. She will return the latter part of the week.

Adah Price hive No. 926, Ladies of the Maccabees, will not meet Wednesday evening on account of it being the Fourth.

QUIET FOURTH IS ASSURED

Good Citizens Picnic Will be Big Event of the Day.

MONSTER PARADE IN THE MORNING

Strict Orders Given by Police Regarding Firecrackers.

HOW FORT WAYNE WILL SPEND FOURTH

Picnics galore.

Good citizenship celebration at Swinney park, with parade in the morning.

Red Cross events at Country club.

All-day picnic of socialists at Lawton park.

Members of Robin Hood lodge, Sons of St. George, will picnic at Harry Grosvenor's country home.

St. Peter's indoor picnic.

Horse racing at Centlivre park.

Two ball games, morning and afternoon, at League park, between South Bend and Fort Wayne.

While Fort Wayne will celebrate the glorious Fourth, it will not be in the boisterous manner of former years. Since the agitation of a safe and sane Fourth inaugurated some years ago, Fort Wayne has been disposed to celebrate in this manner. This year, however, it will be safer and saner than ever before. There will be fewer fireworks and firecrackers.

With the future filled with so much uncertainty, now that the country has been plunged into the world war, the celebration will be carried out with heavier hearts than has marked the observance of this holiday since the days of the civil war.

Merchants bought fireworks this year very sparingly. Many of them are not handling them at all. They rightly figured that there would be no great demand and they also wished to abide by the request of those in authority that the usual display of fireworks and the firing of firecrackers be dispensed with as much as possible.

Police Orders.

No firecrackers over two inches long will be allowed to be discharged in Fort Wayne, Police Chief Lenz ordered Tuesday afternoon. Patrolmen will be ordered to arrest all persons who make use of cannon crackers.

No revolvers, no cannons, no shotguns will be permitted in the celebration of Independence day.

No firecrackers can be shot in crowds or on picnic grounds, it is ordered. Police will be dispatched to all grounds where celebrations are slated and arrests will follow any violation of the edicts, Chief Lenz announces.

At Swinney Park.

The big feature of the celebration of the Fourth in Fort Wayne will be the Good Citizenship picnic at Swinney park. Various organizations have combined to give this celebration for which a program of unusual merit has been arranged.

The day's festivities start with a monster parade in the morning at 10 o'clock. At 12 o'clock a free dinner will be served to the enlisted soldiers by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. Short addresses will be delivered by Col. D. N. Foster and Captain W. A. Kelsey, veterans of the civil war.

At 1 o'clock a concert will be given by the Citizens' band followed by addresses on the work of the Red Cross by Postmaster E. C. Miller, Hon. Alvin J. Rucker, of Indianapolis, on "The New Indiana Constitution," and Mrs. C. S. Ridenour on "Why Women Should Vote."

At 3:30 o'clock there will be a thrilling demonstration of Red Cross work, showing the work of the Red Cross workers on the battlefield and in the field hospitals. The atheltic events will take place at 4 o'clock. During the afternoon there will be a drill by civil war veterans and demonstrations of first aid work by the boy scouts.

The evening program includes a concert by the Citizens' band and address by Rev. T. M. Cole, on "Good Citizenship," and others. There will also be special musical numbers.

Other Events.

Many other events have been arranged as indicated by the list published at the head of this column. There will be many picnics by churches, lodges and families.

The socialists are planning for a big time at Lawton park. Socialists from all parts of the Twelfth congressional district are expected to attend. Able speakers will be present and a general good time is assured.

Practically all stores and factories will be closed throughout the entire day.

HON. JOHN W. FOSTER ILL.

Watertown, N. Y., July 3.—The condition of John W. Foster, former secretary of state, ill at his summer home at Henderson Harbor, was reported as improved today. No hope is entertained, however, for his recovery.

The Volunteer Circle class will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Vena Currant, 1234 Fletcher avenue, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Kate Wilds will assist the hostess.

Husband is Told of Wife's Death at Funeral of Daughter

While attending the funeral services Tuesday morning of his daughter, Helen, who died last Sunday, Thomas Gorman, an employe of the Pennsylvania company, received word of the death of his wife, Mrs. Anna Gorman, 45 years old. In less than two days both wife and daughter had been taken from him, leaving only one daughter, Katherine. The Gormans lived at 513 Masterson avenue.

The death of Mrs. Gorman, however, was not unexpected. She had been ill for ten months and the attending physician had given little hope for her recovery.

However, it came to him as a terrible blow, the taking from him half of his little family in the short period of but a few hours. The daughter, whose funeral was held Tuesday morning, died Sunday after an illness of five weeks. She was nine years old and a pupil of the St. Patrick's Catholic church school. She was also a member of this year's first communion class.

Mrs. Gorman was born in Ireland and came to Fort Wayne thirty years ago. She was a woman of many charming traits and was loved by all whose privilege it was to know her.

The deceased was a devout member of the Catholic church and was also identified with the Catholic Benevolent league and the St. Patrick's Rosary society. Her death occurred at 9:20 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Chiefs Allow Benders to Even Up Series by Losing, 4 to 2

CLUBS SWAT EQUALLY BUT OPPOSITION WINS

Two Fort Wayne Runners Are Cut Down at the Plate During Game.

South Bend, Ind., July 3.—Fort Wayne played the unselfish act yesterday, allowing South Bend to even up the series and make things interesting for the last game. They lost 4 to 2, although they had hit just as often as the locals. Two visiting runners were caught in the very act of scoring just as they were about to cross the rubber.

The real work of the game was started early, the Benders scoring one in the first inning when Collins gently lifted one over the right field fence and then went through the formality of jogging around the paths and touching all three sacks. In the third Baschang started with a walk, Laross singled and Collins beat out an infield hit, filling the bases. Hoffman was out on a long fly but Baschang came in on the throw. When Aaron singled to left Laross started hom ebut was thrown out on a perfect liner by Brown.

In the fifth inning Roberts hit safely but Higbee struck out. Norton then walloped one to center field which Baschang let go through his legs. Roberts scored and Norton landed on second. Siegfried went out on fly, ending the inning.

In the sixth Smith started with a two-base blow, and was followed by Gleich's single. Kelly walked and Brown singled, scoring Smith. Powers grounded to Willis, who caught Gleich at the plate. Roberts was out and the inning ended.

A Short Game.

Cleveland, July 3—Chicago won a seven-inning game from the Indians here yesterday 4 to 3. The game was called to allow both clubs to catch trains. Score: R.H.E.
Chicago ..... 0 4 0 0 0 0 0—4 6 2
Cleveland ..... 2 0 0 0 0 1 0—3 7 0

Batteries—Danforth, Faber and Lynn; Boehling, Lambeth, Klepfer, Morton and O'Neill.

Equal Rights for Women on Links

Suffrage has won a remarkable victory.

Women have been granted equal rights with men at the Calumet golf course at Chicago.

The club will move into new quarters in the near future and the new rules give women a right to play over the course every day.

Under the old rules they were barred from playing on Saturday, Sundays and holidays.

The Calumet is the first club in the Chicago district to grant full privileges to women.

JIM AND HOWARD, TAKE OFF YOUR HATS TO THIS JAPANESE BOY, HE'S GOT YOU BOTH BEAT

(By Paul Purman).

Even Jim Thorpe and Howard Berry, all round athletes de luxe, will have to doff their chapeaus to this Japanese youth who claims Cleveland as his home, and who doesn't balk at anything in the athletic line except auto racing and poker.

He is Arthur Matsu and he's 13, and he has all the boys in his neighborhood hanging on behind when it comes to athletics.

Here's a partial record of his achievements.

Plays first base on a boy scout team.

Plays first base on an undefeated indoor baseball team.

Plays halfback on a high school football team.

Plays forward on an amateur basketball team.

Has pole vaulted 7 feet 3½ inches, more than a foot higher than any boy of his class.

Star sprinter, holds Cleveland junior record for the 100, 50 and 75 yard dashes.

Plays a fair game of tennis.

A fair broad jumper.

Champion boy swimmer at Cleveland Y. M. C. A.

Caddies at a golf course.

Then when Arthur gets through doing all these things he goes home and cultivates his war garden.

How about it, Jim and Howard? Some boy, what?

SHAMROCKS SLATED TO PLAY AT PAULDING, O

The Fort Wayne Shamrocks will leave at 10:18 o'clock on the Wabash tomorrow afternoon for Paulding, O., where they will meet the semi-pro club which represents the latter place. Freese will pitch for the locals and Hoffer will do the receiving. A hard game is expected as the Paulding outfit always presents a formidable lineup.

Lord Byron has chased 22 players this year. If an umpire's ability was measured in that way the Lord would have them all discounted.

Benny Leonard has threatened to enlist in about every branch of the service. He'll probably wind up by joining the home guards.

Trench life ought to be pretty soft for Byron if he chantes to be drafted.

One proof of Jawn McGraw's unpopularity is that the Giants draw the biggest crowds in the big leagues.

With Jack Johnson fighting bulls in Spain, maybe we will next hear of Jess Wilard wrestling the bears in his circus.

Speaking of Jess, it is reported (unofficially) that when Tom Jones heard Jess had dispensed with his valuable managerial services he forgot himself so much that he bought.

Halo for Heine? Yes, He Earned It

John McGraw might make good use of the halo left in New York by Matty by hammering it down so it would fit the lordly brow of Heine the Zim.

Zim is entitled to a halo this year.

Playing with the worst rowdies in the league, Heine, with all his reputation for baiting umpires, fighting and generally making himself a "hard guy," has not had a fight this year, and has not had a run-in with an umpire.

He almost dented this record the other day when he turned hotly on Umpire Bill Klem, but Fletcher got between them and restored peace.

A new road skate with pneumatic tires and provided with ball bearings and automatic brakes, is being tested by its inventor. The wheels of the skate are nine inches in diameter, and are placed on opposite sides of the skate, instead of at the toe and heel. The balancing and steering properties are aided by the inside wheel being set slightly ahead of the outside. Whether running on smooth or rough roads, the pneumatic skate is noiseless and speedy.

INDIANA KNOWS HOW TO RAISE WORLD CHAMPION PACING HORSES

Le us consider Indiana.

Indiana, oh yes, that's where all the spring poets come from, isn't it? But what's Indiana got to do with getting out the sport page?

Indiana has a lot to do with the sport page if the reader happens to be interested in pacing horses, for Indiana produces more good pacing horses than poets and that's going some.

When they raced the Board of Trade Commerce stake at Detroit last year Indiana got right up and shouted, for the winner, Miss Harris M., was Indiana bred.

The year before Single G., a Hoosier side-wheeler, wiggled away with the same classic. In 1914 King Couchman, who claimed the banks of the Wabash as his birthplace, romped home ahead of the other entries of the B. of C. and if Dick McMahon has luck he will drive a Hoosier wiggler for the big money in that stake this year. Dick will start Peter Look, champion three-year-old pacer last year, and has a very good chance to cop.

And, before all these Dan Patch, the greatest pacer of them all, was born and raised in Indiana pastures and William, the fastest living pacer, also hails from the land of poets and politicians. Alcyfras, who holds the records for mares on twice-arounds, was also Indiana born.

Altogether, Indiana is "there" when it comes to raising side-wheelers.

EIGHTEEN CARS WILL START RACE AT LIMA

Have Five Events Starting With One Mile Time Trials by All.

Lima, O., July 3.—Every detail incident to the third annual auto derby to be staged at the Lima Driving park on July 4 has been attended to and all that is awaiting now is the bomb which will send the eighteen or more drivers after the $1,500 purse money and the silver loving cup offered by the Lima chamber of commerce to the fastest car that day.

Herb Rudy, Lima speed boy, present title holder of the Ohio state championship, is again a favorite, but not so to such an extent as in previous races. He will have a hard time retaining his title on the Fourth than at any time since he won it.

The safety of the drivers as well as the safety of the spectators has been taken into consideration by the management on a bigger scale than ever before owing to the large number of entries. Arrangements are being made to remove the inside fence so that the driver will have a chance to regain control of his machine should it skid into the fence.

Although the entry list is not closed it is believed that enough cars have already entered to stage eliminations for the big events. All cars will drive one mile against time in the last event. The fastest car to be awarded the silver trophy and presented by Mayor Simpson.

Event No. 2 wi. be a ten-mile fast car race. Cars starting this will have to qualify in a mile in 1.14. Event 3 will be a ten-mile consolation race for cars not in event 2. Event 4 will be an Australian pursuit race run by the four fastest cars in the time trials. Event 5 will be a fifteen-mile free for all for the largest purse of the day.

Entries include a Stutz Special; Knipper Special, Lightning Comet, two Chevrolet Specials, Sheets Special, three Maxwells, 2-16 valve Ford Specials, two Buicks and a Cole. In all sixteen cars with more are expected. Some of the entries come from St. Louis, Mo., Fort Wayne, Ind., Indianapolis, Cleveland, Toledo, Pittsburg, Paris, Ill., and other cities throughout Ohio and Indiana.

When the races start at 2 p. m. the largest crowd that ever witnessed an automobile race on a half mile track is expected.

Bugsville Notes

(By G. Whiz).

O'Toole, the $25,000 sensation of a few years ago is now with Omaha and pitching good ball. Last week he had two wins to his credit, both six hit games.

Three former Central League stars are in the Denver Western League lineup. They are Kelleher, short stop formerly with Springfield, and Outfielder Butcher and third baseman Wuffli of Evansville.

When President Dickerson took up his new job in the Western League he found some unfinished business to be looked after. The first thing he had to do was "set on" Umpire Mike Jacobs, a former Central League player and umpire. Mike is, or was umpiring in the Western until "Dick" arrived and relieved him of the responsibility of falling by the wayside.

On June 17,, Coney, second baseman for Omaha made a triple play unassisted. Kelleher was on third, Oakes on second, Butcher on third and McCormick, hitting sent a line drive to Cooney, who tagged Butcher coming from first and stepped on second before Oakes could get back. It is said to be the first unassisted triple play ever made in the Western league.

Tutwiler is playing first for Providence and in eight games last week landed 12 hits, three of them for extra bases. Channell and Jack Onslow, two other Ft. Wayne favorites are with Buffalo. Channell is hitting as of old getting eight hits in as many games last week.

Pitcher Tipple, tht American Association sensation that went up to the big league is still going "up" in the International. He is pitching for Toronto and in three games last week, lost two and was knocked out of the box in the third.

Washington is said to be after Lajoie, now with Toronto. Why? Like grapenuts "There is a Reason." Look at the big Frenchman's record for the week. In ten games he landed 18 safe ones and in 57 chances he booted one. Going some for an old man.

Everett Booe, the little outfielder who went up from Wheeling to Pittsburg is now with San Antonio and had a record of 61 games without a wobble until June 17th, when he missed his first one.

General Dickerson is proving the same good General in the Western League that made a name for him in the Central. The St. Joe Club has been in the rut for a long time and was about to give up the game when Dick arrived on the job, called a meeting of a few business men and in a short time raised $3,000 and put the clug on a business basis.

Williams of Ardmore in the Western Association on June 19th, in nine times at bat got a homer, two doubles, and four singles.

To clean the inside of a water bottle or any glass that is too small to insert the hand into, put into the bottle a small quantity of tea leaves, pour in about one-third of a teacupful of vinegar, shake well, empty and rinse with cold water. A perfectly clear glass will result.

REAL RACING CARD FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Two Pacing Numbers Planned for Classics; Warren Has Races.

The "sport of kings" will be at its heighth at the historic Centlivre training track Wednesday afternoon. The Fort Wayne Amateur Driving club has planned the best sporting card offered in many a day for the matinee affair. Women will be admitted free.

The 2:25 pace is expected to be the feature event of the four-race program. Georgiene Swain, by King Arlington; Alfredo, by Copa De Oro and Black Venus, by Councilman, are as evenly matches a trio as ever turned around together. They are all well along with their work. They divide honors in the Memorial day event.

Can Ebony King repeat? This is a question which will draw many horse race fans to the Centlivre track. The aging pacer has been able to step out and win the special racing numbers for the past three years. There are four good horses to put up a battle in the special Blue Ribbon event on Independence day.

A beautiful race was that of the 2:20 trot which The Reaper won by a nose on Memorial day. The same field, with much developed speed, will race it out on Wednesday. There are six entries in the class D number, a mixed pace and trot. The entries follow:

Class A, 2:20 trot, mile heats:

The Reaper, by Early Reaper. Driver, Chas. Ahr.

John Linwood, by John R. Kurtz. Driver, W. Sperry.

Portia Monbar, by Monbar. Driver, A. J. Compton.

Class B, 2:25 pace, mile heats:

Black Venus, by Councilman. Driver, W. Harber.

Georgiene Swain, by King Arlington. Driver, G. Swain.

Alfredo, by Copa De Oro. Driver, R. Ellson.

Class C (special Blue Ribbon pace, one-half mile heats):

Ebony King, by Atlantic King. Driver, W. Geary.

Beautella, by Red Bell. Driver, C. Freistroffer.

Rossie King, by Rossie W. Driver, M. Laughlin.

Fox, by Red Bell. Driver, T. Finan.

Coasterina, by Coastman. Driver, A. Compton.

Class D, mixed pace and trot:

Mary Alma, by Louisville. Driver, C. Freistroffer.

Moletah, by Elastic Pointer. Driver, H. Hoffman.

Mable Wilkes, by Amber Wilkes. Driver, W. Stapleton.

Miss Hunter, by Inline B. Driver, R. Ellson.

Jennie O, by Notice. Driver, F. Oetterman.

Panda, by Poem. Driver, E. Ufheil.

Will Race at Warren.

Warren, which boasts one of the best half mile tracks in the state, is set for a racing matinee on the Fourth. The entry list includes fifty horses to start in the four events of the afternoon. Three of the races will be mile heats. The free for all pace, the 2:30 trot and the 2:30 pace are all for $100 purses. The green road race, half mile heats, is for $50.

INSURANCE MEN PLAY AT CONVOY TOMORROW

Mart Cleary's Lincoln Life club will be the big Independence day attraction at Convoy, O. A celebration is being held in the Buckeye town and the ball game will be a large part of the festivities. A large crowd is expected to witness the game. The club will leave on the Ohio electric at 12:30 o'clock, eastern time.

Next Sunday the insurance men play at Lima and one week from that a double-header will be staged here. The Kendallville Reds and the Fort Wayne Colored Giants will meet in the first game and the winner will play the Insurance men.

Balloon ascension July 4th at Robison park. 2-2t

Two hundred carloads of farm machinery have arrived at Savannah, Ga., from the works of the International Harvester company, and will be sent by steamer to Norway and thence overland to Russia. The value is placed close to $1,000,000. The shipment includes reapers, binders, tractors and motor plows. This is the second shipment of this kind by the company via Savannah, the last going to Liverpool.

Bakhmetieff Gives Pledge of Aid in War

In a stirring address at the capitol, Ambassador Bakhmetieff, of Russia's diplomatic mission, gave a solemn pledge that the Russian people and army, "convinced that a separate peace would mean the triumph of German autocracy," are prepared to fight on beside America until the world has been made safe for democracy. The ambassador spoke before the senate, and his reception was almost as enthusiastic as that accorded him in the house.

How A Woman Can Protect Herself upon the Street

AL NIEST

Girl in white is Miss "Bobby" Le Mar, and other is Miss Alice Lee.

By Louise Le Noir Thomas.

WHAT would you do if a man were to attack you on the street and try and steal your purse? If you are a man, you would answer, "fight him, of course!"

But if you are a woman? Well, why not fight him anyway?

Learn wrestling if you are a girl—you may need it, and it is a jolly good sport at that.

WERE Hector of Troy or Achilles of Greece to rise from their sarcophagus today, and, looking about them, ask:

"Well, what are the most mooted questions of the present age?" our answer would, doubtless, be, "Woman and war."

"Jove!" those valiant warriors would answer: "Haven't those questions been settled yet?"

And they would be content to return to dust again, where they would rest another 3000 years before recovering from the shock enough to rise a second time.

It is doubtful, however, whether, in still another 2000-year cycle, we shall be any nearer to a solution of the problem than we were in the Golden Age. The poor, defeated Hague may come into its own some day—if human nature changes, but the question of woman must remain the question of the ages, and if there were one Helen in 3000 B.C., there are many Helens today who are equally as coveted and quite as much fought over, but these maidens of our own age, although a vastly different sort from the maidens of Troy, are, none the less, a mystery. Perhaps it is that charm of mystery that makes them ever interesting.

There has been a lot said in the last few generations about "woman's place in the world."

There also have been a lot of followers of the feminist cult who have said that "woman is getting out of her place and usurping the place of man."

Now, just what woman's place is in the world has not yet been determined throughout all the ages that woman has been one of the all-important creatures of earth, and if she is at length put into a groove and labeled, "Woman in her own place," doubtless she will cease to become interesting.

The Question of the Weaker Sex.

Since the law of evolution and reversion are the laws upon which the scheme of the universe was conceived, it must follow that all things and all beings moved in that universe perforce obey that law. Now, in the first place, woman was made less virile than man. It is only reasonable to suppose that hers is the weaker sex since Adam was endowed with twenty-four ribs and poor little Eve didn't even have one of her own, but had to appeal to the generosity of man—and since Eve was made from one of Adam's "false ribs" who can blame her if she is less truthful than her benefactor?

Because of the physical prowess of the man there are many who still believe that his prowess extends into the realm of mentality and idealism. It is true that woman's strength has been latent for many years because of the "place" in which she has been automatically put, and even as late as the nineteenth century Mary Ann Evans-Cross took the name of George Eliot because women writers were not received in the literary world as being on an intellectual par with men, and for the same reason Mme. Dudevant, the great French novelist, used George Sand as her pen name.

Women have traveled the cycle the same way as the men—they have been alternately puppets and slaves throughout the generations until they are at last in a state of rebellion and have declared their so-called "rights" in a more or less militant form. Having declared themselves on a par with their opponents in sex, man's attitude has gradually been changing, and instead of the chivalry of the Rococo period there has developed an altogether different feeling between the two sexes.

In the revolutionary period, the woman belonged to the "protected sex," and her duty was to make herself as charming and as dainty for the gratification of her "protectors" as possible. Our grandmothers were more or less versed in all the gentle arts according to their talents. They sewed "samplers," "tidies" and dainty caps and embroideries; they played the harpsichord and the flute—they sang in a sweet, parlor voice that did not rise to the volume of the opera hall-star of today; they knew something about how to cook and how to do other little homely things that the girl of the present generation considers a "bore."

The athletics were vastly different from the strenuous games that the girl of today indulges in. Croquet was the most popular out-of-door sport, and horseback riding was an accomplishment that most "young ladies" enjoyed—not astride a polo pony, to be sure, but on a gentle creature that bore a side saddle, and did a smart canter through the parks and lanes.

Basket ball, tennis, hockey, polo, baseball and golf were not at that time considered "proper" for the young lady to enjoy; indeed, no one gave her credit for being physically able to join in such a boisterous sort of play. Today there is no game, no sport, no form of athletics known in which the woman is not an enthusiastic participant.

Because of her turning toward athletics, she is becoming much stronger physically than she was a generation or two ago. It used to be "the thing" to faint gracefully, and, incredible though it may seem, the more delicately constituted and anaemic a woman was the more she was admired by men and envied by her sister. Headaches were the most popular ailment, and to lie about on silk cushions in a beautiful languor was truly an accomplishment that was sought after assiduously by the fair and fragile sex, a young girl with the natural lusthood and vitality of youth was not the popular type; indeed, she was almost thought of as a monstrosity.

All of this change in the activities of women has a deeper significance than the mere physical exertion and strengthening of the sex. It has a moral influence that is growing along with the popularity of the sports.

In this feminist rebellion that has been occurring since suffrage was introduced in England, women have been drawn more and more into the business world. They have accepted every sort of remunerative position that take them upon the streets at all hours of the day and night—they have formed clubs that they attend at night sessions and they have innumerable activities and interests that take them out of the snug seclusion of the home and make them subject to the dangers that exist on every highway.

They have refused to be called the "weaker sex," and the "pampered sex," and have shown such aversion to the "protection of the male," so-called, that men have almost begun to take them at their word and treat them as equals in not only intellectuality, but in physical strength.

Athletic Training Needed.

On the street, then—the woman needs her athletic training if she would be efficient in self-protection. That it is unwomanly for a woman to use fists when the necessity arises or to know how to vanquish an attacker by simple movements in wrestling is ridiculous in the nature of the thing. Surely there is no honest man who would not admire a woman who could, by a clever move, overpowor an assailant were the occasion to arise. It is not unwomanly to protect herself—rather it is unwomanly to be overpowered by the assailant.

To handle a chance opponent is not, however, an easy thing to do. The hatpin has served in its day, but where the hatpin fails there must be other means of protection from the thief or ruffian. Woman was not, at the beginning of things, a fighter. She left all the battles to the men while she worked the gardens, made the garments, and if she were a mother cared for the children. It is not, then, instinctive for the woman to fight, and so she must get her training in schools if she would learn to defend herself against an overbearing ruffian.

Albert J. Neist, a former wrestler, has established a gymnasium and training school in St. Louis where he trains women in boxing, wrestling and physical culture. There he has trained several of the "weaker sex" in such strength and agility that they are not afraid to meet the roughest vagabond that ever molested a law-abiding citizen.

His star pupils are Miss Naomi Kerber, who has chosen to call herself "Bobbie La Mar" in the ring, and Miss Alice Lee. These two women wrestlers have shown such skill as to prove that a woman is even more agile than a man at the game, and that physical strength is not at all necessary when one has a quick brain and a knowledge of the holds and the results that one can accomplish with each.

Miss Kerber, or Bobbie La Mar, as she prefers to be called when one speaks of her in fighting terms, has studied under Neist for two and a half years, and is now ready to meet any 122-pound woman wrestler in any state or country that will challenge her. She is going a little beyond the limit that is set for the woman who is merely using a knowledge of wrestling as a means of protection, and is making that form of athletics a profession. Miss La Mar has wrestled in several cities and invariably comes out victor.

Learned to Wrestle When a Child.

Miss Lee has been practicing wrestling with Niest for only a few months, and has not yet become bold enough to challenge any other woman to a match.

When asked why she happened to take up that ancient sport, she said:

"Well, perhaps, the real explanation of the case is that I have six brothers and I learned to wrestle when a child with them. I was pretty good at it, too, and have always been interested in the sport."

In the gymnasium the sportswomen wear woolen athletic tights, so that there is no restraint on the freedom of any part of the body when they exercise. However, both of the young women showed that they could throw a man with as much ease when they were dressed in the extreme of feminism with many a frill and feather as they can in the athletic costume which they wear in the privacy of the gymnasium ring.

"One can never be sure that he is safe on the street or in the home—anywhere, in fact, and it is absurd that one should think a woman less capable of coping with any situation than a man," said Miss La Mar. "There is danger of housebreakers—perhaps there is no man on the place to protect a woman in the case that a burglar selects her house—she surely is not going to stand by and let her treasures be stolen, or, in the instance that she is attacked, to allow herself to suffer at the hands of an unscrupulous fellow. It is wise for every woman to be prepared to meet with such a situation, whether she will ever need it or not—there is no harm in preparedness."

And Miss La Mar proceeded to show how she would deal with a man who dared disturb her peace.

To Throw a Person Down Quickly.

The simplest way of throwing a person down and the quickest way is:

1. The aggressor (being in this case the one who is defending himself against an assailant) grasps the wrist of the defendant with one hand and the arm above the elbow with the other hand.

Brace with one leg back and bend the other at the hip and knee.

Throw the defendant headlong over the leg.

2. After the defendant is thrown to the floor the assailant drops with one knee on the stomach of the downed man and pins his arms to his sides. It is impossible then for the thrown man to rise as long as this position is maintained.

It may seem to those that do not know the rules of wrestling that it would be impossible for a woman to throw a man down. With this grasp, however, and a quick wrenching of the arms, it requires but little strength to hurl a great weight over the knee, braced as one is with one leg behind.

"Which arm do you grasp, the right or the left?" is a question invariably asked.

"Well, you've not got time to make a selection," Neist answers. "You just grasp whatever arm that presents itself first, and brace with your right or left foot, as the case demands. It makes no difference in the position that you take, except that it is the right or the left hold that one deals with."

Miss Lee and Miss La Mar showed a very simple hold that is none the less effective, and one which a woman can use without any training in the ring or gymnasium.

When an assailant clenches a person around the waist:

1. When an assailant grabs his victim around the waist, standing in front (the victim becomes the aggressor and the assailant the defender). The aggressor takes the chin of the defender between the first and second fingers and places the thumb under the nose. With this simple hold she can easily push the head of the defendant back until he must release the hold in order to protect himself from his aggressor.

2. When the attack has been made from the rear and the assailant grasps the victim around the waist the victim can easily become the aggressor by bending the body forward, reaching between the legs and grasping the foot or leg of the assailant, throwing him backward.

When Man Yelps for Mercy.

In either case, when a woman has a man down by these two simple holds, the hatpin can then be used in conjunction with the feats of wrestling, and unless the ruffian draws a gun, she will, in nine case out of ten, have her fellow yelping for mercy.

If, again, a footpad seeks to attack a woman while she is going on any of a dozen of her necessary missions, and grabs her by putting his arms about her throat, she need only grasp one of her assailant's arms and drop to her knees, the weight of the fellow himself will send him headlong over the woman's shoulder, and she need not exert any great strength in throwing her assailant to the ground.

On one occasion, when the two star pupils of Neist's woman's class in wrestling were having a friendly little bout in the gymnasium, Battling Nelson, whose record as a fighter has been so long and so brilliant, came into the room. He was a bit doubtful as to the ability of the "weaker sex" until he was "attacked" by one of them, and he soon took off his hat to the fair champion of the bout.

"After all, it takes a woman to whip Bat," he said facetiously, but with more than a grain of truth.

Neist explains that a wrestler has more power of endurance than a boxer, for the reason that all of his muscles are developed and that he is not subject to blows that often injures a boxer, internally.

"If a wrestler and a boxer met in a fight in the street," he says, "the wrestler will, in practically every instance, whip the boxer. And the life of the wrestler has been proven by statistics to be longer than the man who fights with gloves."

Wrestling is one of the most primitive of the sports, and it has had a more universal popularity than any other game. Even as long ago as 3000 years B. C. it was a highly developed sport, and ancient sculpture that has been found in the excavations in Greece and Asia depict scenes of wrestling matches in which all the holds that are known today were then used. But wrestling for women has not been known until the present day, when the demand for more athletics for women has led them into every field of sportsmanship.

According to the law of supply and demand, women would not be entering into this field today if there were not a need for it. More and more women are going into the gymnasiums every day and more strength and vigor is being developed in their sex than it was ever considered necessary, or even womanly, for a woman to possess.

The law of the survival of the fit demands that woman be fit today if she would not be outdone, and it should be the aim of every girl to cultivate this strength and grace of body as well as to make herself ready for the occasion on which physical agility and a knowledge of wrestling will be of more value than any so-called woman's accomplishment.

"Battling" Nelson happened to be in the room when Miss Le Mar decided she would show how to knock out a man on the street by lifting her elbow to the chin. "It takes a woman to do it," said Bat.

DR. J. M. KELLS DIES IN COLUMBUS

Five Years Medical Examiner for Pennsy Relief at Fort Wayne.

Dr. J. M. Kells, one of the early medical examiners in Fort Wayne for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, died in Columbus Sunday and will be buried Wednesday. Dr. Kells had been sick over two years, but gave the office of medical examiner for the relief department personal attention until a few months ago, when sickness prevented. Last winter he went to the Mayo brothers' sanitarium at Rochester, Minn., expecting to undergo a surgical operation, but his condition was such that the surgeons refused to operate and he was taken back to his home in Columbus. He is survived by a widow, a son, Charles Kells, soliciting freight agent for the Pennsylvania at Columbus, and a grandson, J. M. Kells, Jr., son of Charles.

Dr. Kells resided in Fort Wayne about five years, coming here when the relief association was less than three years old, and remaining until he was called to Columbus, O., to take charge of the association affairs in that city. He formed many acquaintances in this city and managed to keep in touch with his friends here after he moved away by frequent visits in the capacity of member of the examining board and in a social way. When he was located in Fort Wayne the office of the medical examiner of the relief department was in the west end of the freight house, which was also the home in those primitive days of the ticket receiver, the claim agent and the passenger conductors and brakemen. Some years ago the department moved into new quarters in the old depot building and the rooms vacated were remodeled and fitted up for offices and are now occupied by Cashier C. M. Jones and his clerks. Several of the old friends of the Kells family will go to Columbus to attend the funeral. The wife of Charles Kells, it will be remebered, died about two years ago.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

Transformer Engineers Move to New Factory Office.

Every part of the transformer engineers department of the General Electric works is now in the new quarters in building No. 19, second floor, on the south side of Wall street. The move there commenced last night and was completed before noon today. E. A. Wagner is the chief engineer of the transformer department and with him are twelve or fifteen other engineers and a number of stenorgraphers and clerks, the latter mostly women. Lyman Garman, engineer of the transformer department, with six or eight assistants, and Harry Gargett, of the transformer cost department, with his four or five assistants, also moved this morning the offices being grouped so as to be easily accessable to the employes of each. The vacated room in the big office building on Broadway will now be fitted up for some other department.

NOTHING DOIN' AT SHOPS.

All Will Observe the Fourth of July Tomorrow.

Nothing but "emergency" work will be in progress at any of the shops in Fort Wayne tomorrow, on account of the holiday. All local freight trains on the roads will also be annulled and as far as practicable no work will be done in the freight yards. The freight houses will also be closed to business during the entire day. The employes will welcome a chance to "lay off" a day, for they have been working steadily and hard.

STARTS ON TRIP THURSDAY.

I. Fred Walters, the member of the advisory committee of the Pennsylvania Relief association for the western and Chicago terminal divisions, will start upon the quarterly trip over the territory Thursday morning. He will first go over the western division, finishing up the work on the Chicago terminal division. The membership of the two divisions is over 8,000 and Mr. Walters will aim to meet the greater number of members, consuming about two weeks on the trip.

HAS THE BEST GARDEN.

At least that is the claim of William M. Horstman, chief electrician at the Pennsylvania passenger station. His garden is located on Lafayette street, near St. Martin's, and it is certainly a masterpiece in the way of a "truck patch." Mr. Horstman is proud of it and all who pass that way are attracted by the unique manner in which the various plants are arranged and their advanced stage.

EXCURSION TO CAMP HARRISON.

Agent Roy Phillips, of the L. E. & W., announces a special train to Fort Benjamin Harrison Sunday morning to accommodate those who wish to visit relatives and friends in the camp who have enlisted or are training in the officers' reserve corps.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Pennsylvania Tender Repairman R. J. Hughes is off duty on account of sickness.

E. R. Wadington, teamster at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

W. Ganser, tool room machinist at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

George Albert Reuss, a machinist, is a new employe at the Pennsylvania shops.

A. J. Sordlet, a cabbuilder at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

Motive Power Superintendent T. W. Demarest has gone to Pittsburg on business for the Pennsylvania.

E. Boedecker, an inspector at the General Electric works, is out on a two weeks' vacation.

William Hull has taken employment as a lathe operator at the General Electric works.

J. Diddier, of the small motor department of the General Electric works, is at Lake James for an outing.

James A. Foster, who was out on a vacation last week, resumed charge of the Pennsylvania air brake room yesterday.

New men at the Pennsylvania shops are Tom Mike, a boilermaker's helper, and O. Chebellot, a flue welder's helper.

Gerald Traxler, the Pennsylvania lineman, is still very ill as the result of a paralytic stroke some time ago. It is feared that he cannot recover.

Joseph Gans, a machine operator and a base ball enthusiast, is in Chicago "taking in" the base ball game today.

John J. Muir, superintendent of the engine department of the Bass Foundry and Machine company, is in Chicago on business for the company.

L. R. Little, engineer at the Pennsylvania power plant, has returned from Pittsburg where he spent three or four days with friends.

D. B. Schwarz, who had a foot injured by a car wheel rolling on it last week, reported for duty at the Pennsylvania car machine shop this morning.

E. W. Zimmerman, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop and his wife, have gone to Mansfield, O., to spend the Fourth with her parents, who reside there.

C. M. DeBee, a laborer in the Pennsylvania machine shop, had a foot painfully hurt yesterday by a casting falling upon it. He is at the Lutheran hospital.

Machinist W. C. Tagtmeyer and his wife have returned from Crooked lake, where they spent Sunday. The trip was made in an automobile. Mr. Tegtmeyer resumed work at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning.

William Kellermeyer, of the production department of the General Electric works, is out on a two weeks' vacation, starting this morning for Indianapolis. Later he will visit in Chicago.

C. A. Sweeney, a G. R. & I. train dispatcher, entered upon his annual vacation today, when he left for Grand Rapids. Later he will go to Chicago and will be out of the city two weeks.

Ed Koehl, stenographer for General Foreman M. W. Kemp, of the Pennsylvania shops; Paul Meyers, of the tool room, and William Freiberger have planned a motor trip to Rome City tonight and boating and fishing outing tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Flynn, of Chicago, will arrive in the city Saturday to be the guests of Machinist and Mrs. P. E. Bresnahan over Sunday. The trip will be made in an automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn are the parents of Mrs. Bresnahan.

H. H. Lankenau, of the cost department of the Pennsylvania, and Eno Lankenau, general machine shop foreman at the factory of the Wayne Tank and Pump company, have returned from Decatur, Ind., where they attended the funeral of their uncle, yesterday.

A. U. McClain, foreman of the electric welding department of the Pennsylvania shops, is on the job again after three weeks' absence during which he assisted in taking care of his father, a prominent resident of Columbia City, who was recently stricken with paralysis, and who is still quite ill.

The announcement here that the funeral of the late Clark Slocum, foreman of the tin and copper shop of the G. R. & I. at Grand Rapids, would be held Tuesday afternoon caused a number of his old shopmates and friends in Fort Wayne who had arranged to attend it to fail. The funeral was Monday afternoon. A dozen or more of the friends had arranged to go to Grand Rapids this morning to attend it and they were shocked to learn that it was held Monday.

IN THE CHURCHES

FAREWELL RECEPTION GIVEN YOUNG PRIEST

Rev. Vurpillat, Assistant at St. Peter's Church, Honored by Parish.

In honor of Rev. Edward H. Vurpillat, assistant of St. Peter's Catholic church for the past three and one-half years, who has been appointed rector of the church at Portland, a reception was given Monday evening by the parishioners and friends of the young priest. A program of vocal and instrumental selections was given.

Following the program Rev. Charles Thiele, rector of the parish, made a very beautiful speech praising his assistant for the work which he has done, and expressing his appreciation of Father Vurpillat's untiring efforts. Following this he presented the departing priest with a purse, the gift of the various organizations of the church. Father Vurpillat responded to the speech, acknowledging the gift and at the same time bidding his friends good-bye.

Another gift was a beautiful napkin embroidered by the school sisters of Notre Dame, teachers in the school. The napkin was folded and when opened a ticket to Portland and "change to meet his first immediate needs and assure future trips to Fort Wayne."

CAROLL HARRIMAN

Miss Harriman will become the bride of R. Penn Smith, jr., of Philadelphia. She is the youngest daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, financier and railroad magnate, and has been in the forefront in social and charitable activties. Smith is a wealthy horseman, member of the Bryn Mawr Hunt and Chester Valley Hunt. He breeds and exhibits fine horses.

CHICAGO'S COAL COMING AT THE RECORD PRICES

Chicago, July 3.—Despite the agreement for the reduction of coal prices recently consummtaed by the mine operators in conjunction with the commission on coal production, the highest prices for soft coal that have prevailed with one exception, since the civil war, are in effect in Chicago, it was asserted today. The only reductions that have been made apply to coal from the mines in West Virginia and Kentucky, it was asserted. Illinois coal is selling at from $2.25 to $3.00 a ton at the mine and and $3.05 to $4.60 a ton delivered in Chicago.

BIG STRIKE AVERTED.

Lafayette, Ind., July 3.—The threatened strike of allied crafts at the Monon railroad shops in this city has been averted by an agreement reached between P. L. McManus, general superintendent, B. M. Squires, an official from the department of labor at Washington, D. C., and Chas. P. Burgman, superintendent of motive power for the railroad. The company agreed to put Richard Davis, the boilermaker who was dismissed, into the service again and pay him for the time lost. The six hundred employes at the shops threatened a walkout.

Weisser Park Addition Attracting Favorable Attention

The Entrance to Hamilton Avenue, Looking Across Hanna Street.

Many people are now being attracted to the South Side's newest development, Weisser Park Addition, to see the progress of the paving on Hamilton Avenue, the principal thoroughfare. Others are coming with their friends to show lected, and many others came to make them choice lots which they had selected, and many others came to make a selection before someone else decided on the lot they had picked out.

Weisser Park Addition has a number of features that appeal to those who want improved lots well situated for the east side industries, close to schools and churches, and far enough away from the crowded portions of the city to enjoy Nature's loveliness and fresh air. It is evident, from the number of those who have made selections of lots, that every reservation will have been made within the next week or ten days.

Reservations may be made with the L. F. Curdes Realty Company and other members of the Fort Wayne Real Estate Board.

CLOTURE IS THE THREAT

Nevertheless, the Senate Still Refuses to Set Time for Vote.

FOOD CONTROL IS STILL HELD BACK

Penrose Objects to Having a Vote on Measure at Once.

Washington, July 3.—Holding the new cloture rule in reserve, administration senators today made another futile attempt to get the opponents of the food bill to voluntarily agree on a time for a vote.

Senator Chamberlain in charge of the bill, warned the senate that more than two weeks have already been used up in discussion and that he believed all senators who intended making speeches had done so. He asked for a vote on the bill today at 5 p. m.

Senator Penrose at once objected, declaring that he favored "free and fair discussion" and objected to "the use of the steamroller" in forcing the bill.

Senator Chamberlain replied that it was not his purpose to urge the use of the "steamroller" and he had no desire to "imply that there had been a filibuster."

Senator Jones of Washington, interrupted to say that he hoped the press of the country would not say "that the friends of temperance are opposing the progress of the bill."

A Provision Added.

The provision in the food control bill prohibiting sale to the government of supplies by government agents, employes, officers or those acting in an advisory capacity in which they have a personal interest was added by unanimous endorsement of the senate agricultural committee in response to widespread demand and frequent debate in congress.

At the suggestion of Herbert C. Hoover, the committee agreed to a modification, which would not prohibit employment of persons in an advisory capacity in selling to the government products other than those in which they have a personal interest. With the modification, however, the clause still would prohibit persons acting in an advisory way from selling their own supplies to the government. It may be modified further.

TENER HAS REOPENED THE M'GRAW MATTER

Rehearing to Begin Next Friday and it Will be a Moving Trial.

New York, July 3.—President John K. Tener, of the National league, has notified the chairman of the local chapter of the Gaseball Writers' association that there will be a rehearing of the McGraw case on Friday, July 6. The meeting will be attended by all the members of the board of directors of the National league and the writers' association has been notified to have present all those necessary in the capacity of witnesses.

Every league club president, who is also a member of the board of directors, has announced his intention of being present and their attendance will in some cases necessitate traveling several thousand miles. According to the report it is the intention of the directors to sift the case to the bottom.

MRS. MYRTLE FOSTER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Daughter-in-Law of Col. D. N. Foster Passes Away Friday.

After an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Myrtle Schofield Foster, 449 years old, widow of the late Frederick R. Foster, and daughter-in-law of Col. D. N. Foster, died Tuesday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Schofield, 411 East Jefferson street. Death was due to a tumor on the brain.

Mrs. Foster was born in Elkhart, Ind., in 1868, and had been a resident of Ft. Wayne for about 20 years. The husband died 19 years ago. The only son, Bryan Foster, died in 1913, shortly after his graduation from the Howe Military Academy.

Mrs. Foster had a wide acquaintance in this city, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her.

ROSENWALD COMPLAINS OF MEDDLING CONGRESS

Points to Graft-Free Work of Defense Council in Buying Things.

Chicago, July 3.—Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the committee on supplies of the council of national defense, has issued a statement in which he charges that legislation pending in congress putting members of the council upon the same footing as congressmen in the matter of accepting contracts for the government would practically put the council out of business. He said:

"Congressmen under the constitution cannot be interested in any contracts with the government, and congress now, it appears, has tacked a rider to the food bill, the effect of which, if passed, and not vetoed by the president, would be to legislate the committees of the defense council out of business by putting the members in the same class with congressmen and senators.

"This is stupid, short sighted, nonsensical and foolish. It means a return to the old slipshod days of unloading on the government—the days of rotten contracts in a time of great national emergency."

Mr. Rosenwald said if it had not been for the council "the government would not have been able in this short time to provide supplies for a million soldiers without the slightest suspicion of graft."

PAIR OF OIL INSPECTORS

Indiana Has, State Geologist Discovering, Right to Appoint One.

GOVERNOR NAMED ONE FEW DAYS AGO

Adam Felker, a Lebanon Democrat, Latest to Take Job.

Indianapolis, July 3.—Indiana now has two oil inspectors where a few weeks ago there was none. Acting on advice of his own attorney, Edward Barrett, state geologist, today appointed Adam Felker, of Lebanon, a democrat, state oil inspector, and also named a long list of deputy inspectors for the various districts in the state. Governor Goodrich, a few days ago appointed Marion Caldwell, of Indianapolis, a republican, state oil inspector. The governor acted on a legal opinion given him.

The differences of opinion which resulted in a suit in the United States district court here in which oil companies successfully sought an injunction to prevent the operation of the oil inspection law, as it has been during the last few years. Democrats immediately said the oil inspection in this state should continue under another law.

Because the federal court enjoined the collection of fees to pay the inspector and deputies none probably will receive pay until further legal steps are taken. It was said today that court proceedings of some kind probably will be taken to determine whether Caldwell or Felker is the inspector.

COAL PRICES AGREED ON ARE AN ENORMITY

Iowa Authority Declares People Will be Stung for $700,000,000.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—Clifford Thorne, representing the Iowa league of municipalities, told the senate interstate commerce committee today that if tentative coal prices arranged last week between the operators and the council of national defense became permanent they would cost consumers $700,000,000 over last year's soft coal bill.

Should the tentative prices be made permanent, he said, "prices which operators in the Indiana field have been receiving in the last six months would be increased over fifty per cent."

Mr. Thorne declared the tentative coal prices are from 50 to 100 per cent greater than voluntary contracts entered into within the last three months between aperators and railroads for the ensuing year.

"We are protesting against even a tentative price fixing agreement," said Mr. Thorne. He wanted prices fixed by a government agency.

DEATH OF SIR HERBERT TREE.

London, July 3.—According to the moring newspapers the death of Sir Herbert Tree was not caused by the recent operation, but it was a case of collapse so sudden that he died in a few moments. Sir Herbert had discussed business affairs daily with Mr. Dana, his business manager, during the last few days. They were thus engaged for some time Monday afternoon. When Mr. Dana left Sir Herbert was in a cheerful mood as he expected to leave his bed soon.

The Greatest Time and Money Saver

We think of railroads, telephones, the telegraph, the wireless—but how about want ads?

They are in the same class. It used to be when a man wanted help he had to ask among his friends where he could get a good stenographer, bookkeeper, etc. TODAY he puts in a want ad and tomorrow he has only to choose from a dozen or more.

He has furniture to sell—a want ad brings many buyers.

He has a house to rent—a want ad rents it—he has a house to sell—a want ad sells it.

They ARE a great convenience, aren't they?

RAILROAD NEWS

TO INCREASE CAR SUPPLY OVER 200,000

Pennsy and Nickel Plate Tell How it Can Be Accomplished.

Plans which are now being worked out in final detail, and will shortly be put into actual operation, will effect a complete change in the methods of receiving, loading and forwarding less than carload freight, of all descriptions, upon all portions of the Pennsylvania railroad lines east of Pittsburg.

The new arrangements will constitute probably the most far-reaching improvement that has ever been attempted, on a large scale, in freight transportation practices. The present custom of receiving less than carload freight indiscriminately, at all stations, at any time of the day, for all destinations, which has been followed since the early days of railroading, will be abolished. In its place there will be substituted a carefully devised plan whereby the acceptance and loading of freight, in less than carload lots, will be conducted according to a regularly established system, and such freight will be automatically concentrated into full loads at the point of shipment.

The two most important features of the new plan for handling less than carload freight are: The inauguration of shipping days—or substantially "sailing dates"—on which cars will depart from various points of origin to specified destinations; freight will be accepted on the proper shipping days, only, and the cars will "sail" as specified.

The designation of particular stations at which freight will be exclusively received for specified destinations; freight for such points will be accepted at the stations named only.

Purposes of Plan.

The purposes of the new method are the elimination of the delay incident to the rehandling of freight under the present methods; the conservation of car supply by effecting better average loading; a reduction in the number of car and train movements required to transport a given volume of freight, and an improvement in the regularity of the freight service by systematizing and simplifying operation.

Under the present method of handling less than carload freight, a shipper having a small consignment to transport from City "A" to City "B" can take his goods to any freight station in City "A" at any time during the ordinary working hours. In the course of the day, or perhaps the next two or three days, the freight will be loaded into a car and run out to a transfer station, which may be a few miles or more than one hundred miles distant. There it will be unloaded and trucked into another car, in which numerous small shipments, from many other points, for City "B" are being consolidated in the effort to make up a full car.

Under the proposed plan, there will be certain days on which less than carload freight for City "B" will be accepted at one or more specified stations in City "A," and such freight will be accepted only on the days, and at the particular station, or stations, named. On the days specified, a car for City "B" will leave the originating station or stations. The service will be daily, tri-weekly, semi-weekly or weekly according to the average volume of the traffic, and freight for City "B" will be taken only in such cars. Under this method there will be no subsequent transferring or re-handling of the freight, and the car will move straight through to City "B" without breaking bulk.

Effects of the Plan.

One important result which the plan is expected to bring about will be a reduction in loss and damage to freight, owing to the greater promptness with which it will be loaded and dispatched.

The simplification of railroad operation, as well as the elimination of rehandling of less than carload freight at transfer stations, will also diminish the amount of freight going astray.

The proposed plan is being worked out on scientific lines. A most careful and elaborate study has been made of the movement of less than carload freight to and from stations.

A conservative estimate shows that the adoption of the proposed plan will result in the saving of at least 1,000 box cars per day in the handling of less than carload freight on the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie.

Fort Wayne is a transfer station for freight moving over the line and something like 125 men are constantly employed in handling the business.

Nickel Plate Makes Statement.

The Nickel Plate has issued to its freight agents a circular bearing upon this question also. In it E. W. Mitchner, superintendent of transportation, makes the assertion that by loading and unloading cars promptly and by loading them to their maximum tonnage or space capacity would be equivalent to adding 200,000 cars to the equipment of the country. Mr. Mitchner urges the company's agents to endeavor to lay this matter before the shippers in the proper light, believing that they will co-operate, and in so doing, render a great service to the whole country. "Hundreds of thousands of cars will be required to move freight for military uses," says Mr. Mitchner, "and the necessities of life must be supplied to the civilian population at home," he continued.

Improvements—Hanna street, bordering the addition on the west, is paved. Hamilton avenue is now being paved. All other streets are to be graded. With water, sewer and electric connections, beautiful entrances, ornamental boulevard lighting, shade trees, parkways and homes uniformly located, everything the home-owner could desire is here to be found.

For the Children—Weisser Park, (from which the addition receives its name) forms a great playground for the children. This, together with the nearness of the James H. Smart school makes the place ideal for the family blessed with boys and girls.

Prices—Lots in Weisser Park Addition are to be secured for as low as $475, and on the most attractive terms. You will be astonished to find how much your money will buy here.

Decide Now!—With many lots now being selected, even before the improvements are completed, it is evident that the opportunity to buy will soon be gone. The first thing to do is to see Weisser Park Addition and then make a quick selection of your choice of the lots.

If you would like to have us take you to the Addition, Telephone 622 or 274 and we'll respond promptly.

HANG DRESSES IN BAGS TO KEEP AWAY THE DUST.

If you live in small quarters and your closet is a narrow one, perhaps a space behind curtains, dress bags are very important to keep clothes from becoming dusty.

Making these bags is very simple, takes little time and little money. Buy six and a half yards of white cheesecloth. This will make two bags, one for dresses and one for skirts and suits.

Take half the piece of material, fold it together end to end and cut open one-third down the center. On either side of the opening make a firm facing and put on snappers. Now stitch up bot hsides and the top. Add bits of tape for hanging straps.

Some People Do Find Good Servants

They may be "lucky," of course. But perhaps it's more like good management than good luck.

Most of the good servants are found through "WANT ADVERTISING" or through answering ads. The patient advertiser, who tries again and again—is sure to find, as a reward of persistence, a servant who will be all the trouble of the quest!

THE MARKETS

HAY RECEIPTS LIGHT AND PRICES GO UP

Eggs Are Also Higher in Both Wholesale and Retail Marts.

Receipts in hay have fallen off considerably around here in the last few days and as a result the prices took a little flier Tuesday morning, advancing $2 and coming to rest at $14.00 to $16.00 per ton. Oats also increased and two loads that were weighed at the city scales sold at 72@75c per bushel. There was no corn and only fourteen loads of hay.

Eggs have also advanced in both wholesale and retail circles. In the former the price is now 30@32c a dozen, an advance of 3 or 4c having been made. The retail prices are from 34c to 36c per dozen. Potatoes are falling steadily and are selling at 70c a peck retail. There is little call for the spuds in bushelslots because of the persistent decrease in value.

Wheat and flour are remaining steady, the former at $2.20@2.22 per bushel, while the bread making substance made by local millers is selling at from $13.60 to $15.60 per barrel. There is practically no wheat coming into the city at all just now, partly because of the fact that the cereal is far from plentiful just now, and partly because the producers are too busy with the new crop to bring in what they have on hand.

WALL STREET STILL IN UNCERTAIN MOOD

Leading Issues of Stock Market Are Yet Under Much Pressure.

New York, July 3.—Leaders were under further pressure at the opening of today's market. United States Steel was the only stock to change hands in more than ordinary amounts, 4,000 shares being offered at an extreme loss of half a point. Studebaker and leather yielded large fractions to over a point. Rails were rather mixed.

The activity of the morning was accompanied by a succession of rallies and fresh declines. Many important stocks fell to lowest quotations of the current movement. Chief among these were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible and Lackawanna Steels, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio, the prominent metals and American Sugar.

From surface indications the setback was mainly caused by short selling.

Bonds were irregular, Liberty 3½s holding firm at par to a premium.

Internal Revenue Receipts Fall Off $11,000, However.

There are no slackers in the army of internal revenue payers, says E. B. Thumma, deputy revenue collector, in the Federal building. The first of July found the revenues on all taxed articles neatly tucked away in the office safe. Payments were the most prompt since Thumma has been a collector. He knows no reason why there has been a tendency to hang back on payments in several past years and why taxes are met so promptly this season.

There is a decrease in the amount of revenues collected, however, of $11,000, as compared with the figures of last year. In 1916, $43,472.64 were paid in. This year the receipts show $32,397.17. The falling off comes from the columns of figures for liquors and tobacco. Beer has been the greatest loser, although the revenues from cigars are much below the sums turned in a year ago.

"Spiritual Bride" in "Soulmate" Case

MRS. CHAS. R. HAMSLEY

Mrs. Hamsley is one of the principals in an unusual "soul-mate" case. Her home is in Chicago. Her husband has agreed to divorce so she can wed Elwood V. Matlack, of St. Louis, in the regular way. Just now she is his "spiritual bride" by virtue of a ceremony performed by Prof. David Seabury, Culver Military academy psychologist, after he had decided theirs was a real "soul-mate" case. Mrs. Matlack isn't so cheerful about the matter. She threatens to call in federal prosecutors. Matlack is reported wealthy.

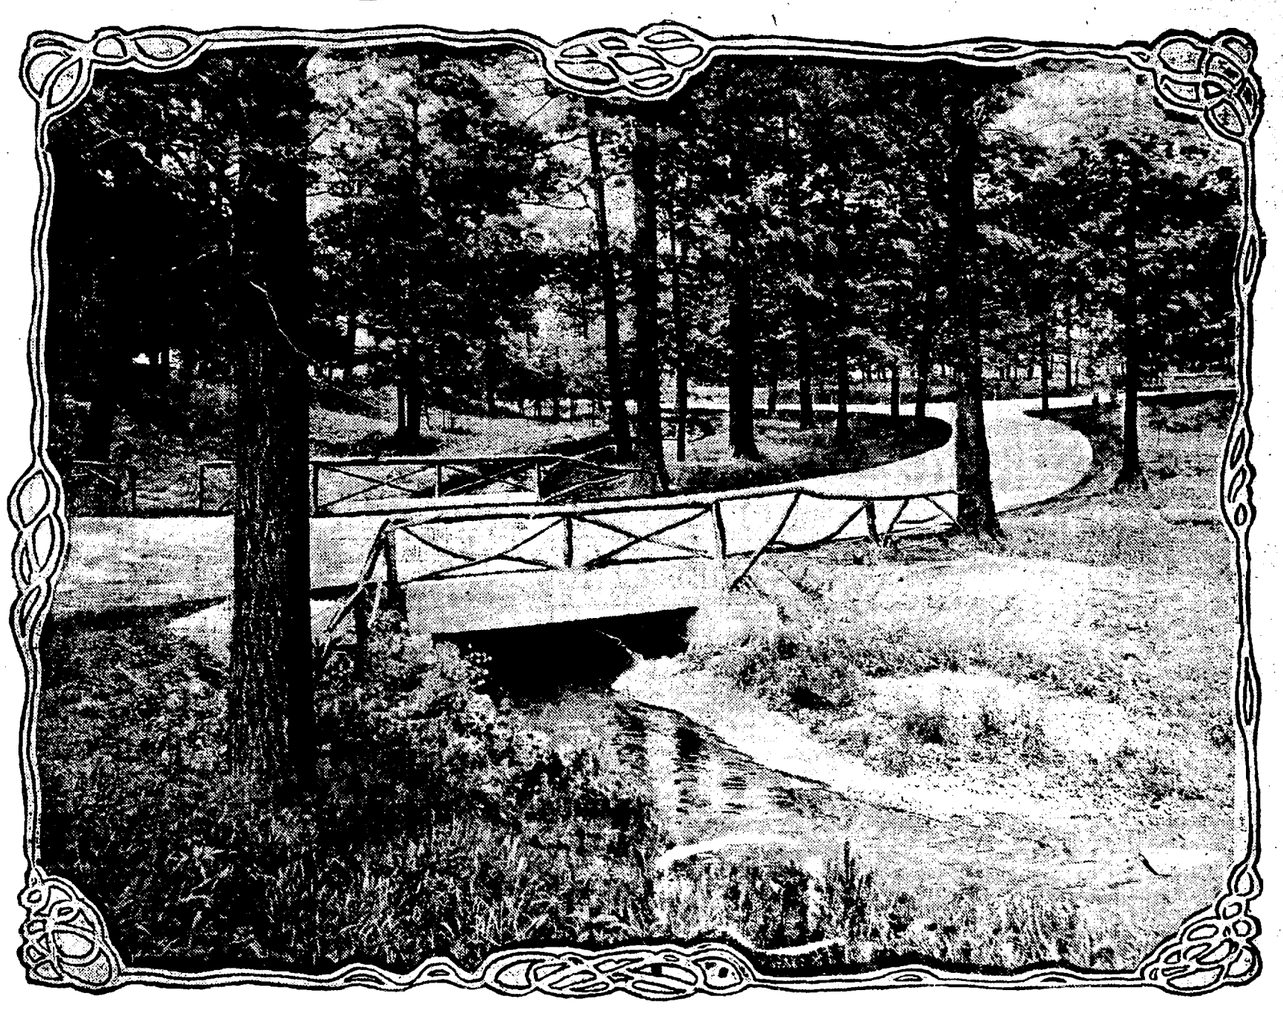
FREE RIDE ALL DAY JULY 4th

TO FORT WAYNE'S BEAUTIFUL NEW RESIDENCE DISTRICT

Shady Brook Park



THIS IS A TYPICAL VIEW IN SHADY BROOK PARK, THE IDEA L PLACE TO LIVE.

SHADY BROOK PARK is the handsomely wooded district lying directly south of the handsome residence properties of Prof. William Miles and Dr. G. A. Ross, on the New Haven Road which is now being paved with concrete (like the Lincoln Highway) to form a new connection with New Haven. Shady Brook Park is twelve minutes from the downtown district either by automobile or electric line—the Ohio Electric Line.

We will not go into detail here, further than to say that we want everyone to see Shady Brook Park July 4, AT OUR EXPENSE.

Call at any time at our ground floor office and receive a free ticket on the interurban line, or, if you prefer, we will take you in an automobile. We don't care whether you are thinking of buying a lot or simply "want a ride." But be sure to call and get your ticket.

REDUCE ICE BILL.

To keep milk without ice, fit a fine wire gauze lid to a tin pail, cover with carpet or other coarse cloth and set in a raised shady window. This will be found purer and sweeter than milk kept in majority of refrigerators and will also reduce your ice bill.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

An unsettled condition occupies the St. Lawrence valley and another depression overlies the Rocky mountain region, but under the influence of a high which covers the Missouri valley the weather is assuming a more settled aspect in the sections to the eastward of the Rockies. During the last 24 hours showers occurred in the Atlantic states and in widely separated areas in northern and western districts. While the temperature changes of the last 24 hours have been unimportant, the weather is somewhat cooler in the far western districts and in the sections to the eastward of the Mississippi, but in the northern Rocky mountain states the temprature has risen slightly.

SCHELL BOY'S LIFE HANGS IN BALANCE

Horse Trader to be Charged With Murder if the Lad Dies.

The life of Alfred Schell, the boy who was shot through the head while automobile riding Sunday night, is held by a delicate thread. Attendants at the St. Joseph hospital state that the youth is resting better, Tuesday afternoon. Dr. J. Frank Dinnen, in charge of the case, states that the lad has slight chances of recovery.

Louis Franklin Daniels, 61, held in the county jail, will be charged with murder if the Schell boy dies, Deputy Prosecutor John Hoffman states. Daniels, a horse trader, is held on a charge of assault and battery with attempt to kill at present. He denies any knowledge of the shooting of the lad.

Sheriff Gille and his deputies, who have been informed that the shooting victim has but small chance to recover, are making careful investigation of the case. They have questioned the wife of Daniels, who remains at the trader's camp, established near Hesse Cassel. The woman also denies that her husband shot at the members of he automobile party, of which Alfred Schell was one.

Officers have been unable to find any cartridges for the empty chambered revolver which Daniels tossed from his wagon when aroused by the sheriff early Monday morning. It had been expected that the shells would be picked up on the school lot.

There is a theory, which has no substantiation as yet, that some other person, hiding along the side of the Decatur road, fired upon the youthful members of the auto party, Sunday night. The boys were shooting fire crackers along the way. They state that they believe Daniels did the shooting because his horses were frightened by the explosion of the cannon crackers.

NEGRO IS NINETEEN.

Journal Person, the colored youth, who "jes growed," he told in police court last Friday and who had no idea how old he is, has been declared to be nineteen by relatives in Kentucky. A letter was directed to Sturgis, Ky., by Sheriff Gillie last Friday, after Person appeared in court and stated that his folks had lived in Sturgis. A reply is supposed to come from an aunt of Person's. It is an almost unreadable hand. It states that the youth was born in 1897.

CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS UNDER WAY

Woodburn Auxiliary Added to Local Chapter of Red Cross.

Members of the Fort Wayne chapter of the Red Cross are all ready for the demonstration and membership campaign to be held at Swinney park on the Fourth of July, as a part of the patriotic celebration to be given by different organizations of the city. The Red Cross girls who will march in the parade and canvass the park for new members will meet at headquarters on East Berry street. Dr. A. H. Macbeth will be in charge of the first aid demonstration. The recently purchased ambulance will be used in the exercises. The crowd will be canvassed for new members, and all joining the society will be provided with a tag bearing the words, "I have joined the Red Cross, July 4." The loving cup to be donated by Mrs. A. E. Fauve for the girl getting the most members must be won in three campaigns before becoming the permanent possession of the winner.

The membership booth for the Red Cross at the park will be handsomely decorated and provided with shelves for the accommodation of packages and wraps belonging to Red Cross girls.

An auxiliary to the Fort Wayne chapter was established at Woodburn, Monday night, and the people of that town are reported to be very enthusiastic and eager to start their work.

New Classes Formed.

Three new classes in the home care of the sick have been formed by the woman's committee of which Mrs. A. L. Johns is chairman. Others are in process of organization. All told there have been fourteen home care of the sick classes, which are being taught by Miss Frances Ott, expert Red Cross nurse.

A class was formed Monday afternoon at a meeting of the colored Mothers' club at the home of Mrs. Lena Jackson on Holman street. Mrs. A. L. Johns and Mrs. W. S. Morris spoke at the meeting.

MONARCH OF THE AIR!

DENIES HE INTENDED TO STEAL SUIT CASE

Carl Haines, Signal Corps Member, Says He Had Only Borrowed It.

Carl Haines, signal corps member, had only borrowed the suit case from one of his comrades, he tearfully told in police court Tuesday. With a voice choked by sobs he explained that he only expected to make use of the carrier, which was left at the signal corps headquarters, third floor, Old National bank block.

Haines has been in petit larceny difficulties before, explained Detective Sergeant W. F. Pappert, who has been engaged in the case. The young man was once convicted of stealing a bicycle and is now on parole from the circuit court, having pleaded guilty to taking a watch.

Haines claims that one of the other signal corps men obtained the gold watch which has also been missed from the headquarters. He is held until Wednesday for more thorough investigation of the case.

Fined for Speeding.

Charles J. Niswander, 1118 Columbia avenue, was taking his wife home from a trip to the doctor's Saturday night. He started to turn his automobile on to Dearborn street from Columbia avenue. There was a flash of light. A crash followed. Niswander's automobile was carried across the curbing on to the lawn, at the northwest corner of the intersection.

Citizens, hearing the smash of the two cars, ran from their homes. Niswander says that they prevented Frank Farra, 1416 Lewis street, from making a get-away after the accident. Ferra was charged with speeding, on the docket, Tuesday morning. He pleaded guilty. He said he was not traveling over twenty miles an hour and did not know that Niswander was going to make a turn. He was fined $25 and costs.

Client is Tidy.

"The cleanest woman in town," said the attorney for the defense in speaking of his client charged with throwing garbage in the alley near her home. Mrs. Mary Kindall is the defendant in the city case. The trial was postponed until July 10.

Got Wrong Man.

"You got the wrong man," spoke up Frank White, charged with intoxication, after Station Master Degitz had said that many complaints had been registered against White. The case is held over until the Fourth. White is held under $50 bond.

Day of Independence.

Prosecution in the case of Chancy Brokaw, brought back from Decatur to answer a child neglect charge, asked that the trial be postponed until after the Fourth. It was intimated that Margaret Brokaw, the wife, does not wish to have her husband sentenced until after Independence day. Brokaw is at liberty under $200 bond.

Not the Banker.

John Shuler, Paine, Ohio, farmer, had explained to the court Monday that he knows all the bankers in Paine. He referred Judge Kerr to one of the prominent real estate men of the town. Paine authorities were notified that the farmer is held here. The town marshal came for him Saturday morning.

Other Police Court Cases.

Ed Cahill, charged with begging on the streets, said he had not partaken of nourishment since he left St. Louis, several days ago. The judge disbelieved the story. Cahill was fined $5 and costs. So was his companion, George McCaffrey. Bud Owens, another member of the band, is held until July 7.

Cases of public intoxication are: Jesse Felger, fined $1; Herman Bishop, released, and Harry Bassett, too drunk to be tried, the court was told.

William Burton, colored, who has a registration button, but no registration card, is held for investigation.

Case against Earl Nussbaum, charged with issuing a fraudulent check, was dismissed.

MARKET PIRACY MUST NOT LIVE, SAYS JUDGE

Will Stamp Out Every Effort at Short Weight in City Stalls.

Market piracy must not be allowed to prey upon the buying public, at this time of war forced economy and conservation, Judge Kerr made plain in police court, Tusday morning.

The case which called forth the expression from the city judge was that of Max Fichman, 802 East Lewis street, charged with giving short weight on the city market. Harry Payne testified that Fichman sold him a pound and a half of cabbage and represented the vegetable as weighing two pounds, last Saturday, on the the city market.

Fichman explained that he had cabbage at 8 cents a pound and an inferior grade at 6 cents a pound. He charged Payne 12 cents because the citizen took the eight cent grade, Fichman said.

Payne stated that Fichman had told him definitely that the head of cabbage weighed two pounds. Fichman was found guilty and fined $10 and costs. He gave notice of appeal. Sam Fields, merchant, signed his appeal bond of $50.

EXAMINING OFFICER ARRIVES IN THE CITY

Captain G. D. Kimbler of the Second Indiana Ambulance corps arrived in Ft. Wayne Monday night to examine the recruits for Battery B and Company E. Those who have made out applications and who have not been examined are ordered to report to the court house immediately. Battery D has ten men awaiting examination.

Drills were held Monday night for both the artillery and infantry and the greatest part of the membership was in attendance. The officers of the battery believe that they will follow Battery D within the next ten days.

Frank Dunham, a member of Compny E, who was discharged last spring, upon hearing that the company was soon to be called into service again came to this city all the way from Colorado to enlist.

Mrs. Lavina B. Wood Had Lived in Angola for Over Half Century.

The aged mother of Judge Sol A. Wood, of this city, Mrs. Lavina B. Wood, passed away late Monday afternoon at her home in Angola, death being due to the infirmities of old age. Mrs. Wood was 84 years old and had been a resident of Angola for over half a century. She was the widow of Dr. W. A. Wood, who died at Angola in 1866.

The deceased was born May 26, 1833, and moved to Angola when 32 years old. She was a member of the Christian church at Angola and had always taken an active part in church work.

By reason of her long residence in Angola and her genial disposition she had many friends and was well known. All who knew her esteemed her highly. She was a woman of an unuually strong personality and in her younger years particularly was an important factor in the growth and development of the community in which she resided. Judge Wood is the only surviving child.

AN AIR ATTACK ON BRITISH COAST

SAILING TIME OF TRANSPORTS IS GIVEN U-BOATS

Attack of German Submarines on the Pershing Expedition to France Was Completely Foiled.

SINKING OF ONE OR MORE IS CLAIMED

Washington, July 4.—An air of satisfaction today pervaded administration circles over the safe arrival of the first American overseas expedition after a voyage in which submarine attacks were twice repelled with the loss of one of the undersea raiders. The forces landed intact at a French port without the loss of a man, ship or animal.

The first encounter, on the night of June 22, was a complete victory for the convoying destroyers, whose accurate gunfire directed on the enemy craft, as revealed by the roving rays of the searchlights, speedily routed the attacking force.

American gunnery told effectively in the second skirmish a few days later. A protecting screen of destroyers thrown around the transports held the raiders at a safe distance while the presence of oil and wreckage on the surface of the sea after the battle indicated the destruction of one and probably more of the undersea vessels.

Both attacks were made far out on the Atlantic beyond the ordinary range of submarine activities. This is taken to indicate that the German admiralty had been furnished with information regarding the precise route to be taken by the American contingent. Every effort is being made to run down the spies who are believed to have furnished this information to the enemy.

The navy department has issued a statement giving details of the submarine attack and the success with which it was countered and one or more of the attacking U-boats sunk.

Ed C. Miller is Made a Director of Hoosier Automobile Association.

The Hoosier State Automobile association will devote its principal efforts for the next year to the organization of a comprehensive system of automobile trails in Indiana, according to a decision reached at the second annual meeting of the association at Indianapolis this week.

A committee headed by Martin H. Luecke, as chairman, was named to work out the details. The selection of roads between towns which are to be part of the trails will be left to the highway superintendents and motor clubs in the counties through which the trails pass.

Mr. Luecke was also elected first vice president of the state association and Postmaster Ed C. Miller was made a member of the board of directors. Other officers named were: President, A. G. Lupton, of Hartford City; vice president besides Mr Luecke, M. O. Reeves, Columbus; D. M. Peck, Crawfordsville; W. C. Hand, Union City; treasurer, Thomas A. Wynee, Indianapolis; secretary, M. E. Noblet.

Officials of the local motor clubs are requested to work along the following lines:

To get county commissioners to erect road signs under the provisions of a law passed by the last general assembly.

Watch automobile theft cases and endeavor to have convicted persons adequately punished.

Encourage enforcement of the new state dimmer law.

Urge the passage of muffler ordinances and obtain adequate parking regulations.

Fourteen Hundred Soldiers Enforce Order in East St. Louis Today.

ORDERS TO USE NECESSARY FORCE

Number of Troops Will be Increased to 2,000 During Day.

East St. Louis, Mo., July 4.—With approximately 1,400 Illinois national guardsmen in East St. Louis today and details patrolling the streets with orders to "use all force necessary" to enforce order if an attempt is made to resume rioting, all danger of further trouble seemed to have passed. Fourteen companies now are on duty here and six companies of the Second Illinois infantry are expected to arrive from Chicago early in the day, increasing the number of guardsmen to about 2,000.

Aside from numerous small fires, involving but slight loss, there were no disorders last night and the death list remained at twenty-eight. The number of white men killed in the roting was increased to four by the death last night of Detective Frank Wogley, who was shot Monday night.

FOOD RIOTS IN GERMAN CITIES MET BY TROOPS

Copenhagen, July 4.—A semi-official German report reaching here says that food riots occurred not only in Stettin and Dusseldorf, but also in two Silesian cities, Gleiwitz and Hindenburg. Troops had been called to restore order, which was accomplished without actual firing. Hindenburg is the city which discarded its Polish name and assumed the field marshal's as a mark of loyalty to the state. The siege of Dusseldorf has been raised but an extraordinary court martial is still sitting to try participants in the riots, some of whom received sentences up to six years.

GERMAN SQUADRON OF AIRPLANES IN ATTACK ON A PORT

Harwich Attacked by Swarm of Sky Battlers and a Number of the People Are Killed.

DEFENSE GUNS BREAK UP THE ATTACK

London, July 4.—From twelve to fourteen German air raiders today dropped bombs on Harwich, a seaport town in Essex, it was officially announced today. Eight persons were killed and twenty-two others were injured.

The text of the official statement follows:

"A squadron of some twelve to fourteen enemy airplanes attacked Harwich from a northeasterly direction about 7:05 o'clock this morning. A number of bombs were dropped and the latest reports state that eight persons were killed and twenty-two injured. Only slight material damage was caused.

"Fire was opened from the anti-aircraft defenses and the enemy's formation was broken up, although the low-lying clouds rendered the visibility bad. The raiders also were engaged by our own aircraft from a neighboring station.

"After dropping their bombs the enemy's squadron turned seaward without attempting to penetrate inland. The whole raid only occupied a few minutes.

WARNS CHICAGO OF CONDITIONS FOR RACE RIOT

Chicago, July 4.—Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, and a member of the state council of defense, has issued a warning to Chicago and other northern cities "where the same conditions which brought about such frightful results in East St. Louis exist." He calls attention to protests by organized labor against what he terms the unnecessary importation of negro labor at East St. Louis, and says:

"I don't care to say much about the situation here in Chicago, but there should be an investigation. Unemployment is increasing. Certain classes of employers are seeking cheaper labor—negroes and women—on the pretext that additional labor is needed on account of war conditions. As a result thousands of white men are being thrown out of employment."

At a mass meeting of negroes last night, F. L. Barnett, colored, a former assistant states attorney, urged his hearers to be ready to protect themselves against any mistreatment. He said that a short time might see scenes here similar to those enacted in East St. Louis, and that Chicago negroes should be prepared to make a stand for their safety and rights.

LLOYD GEORGE NOT LUKEWARN TO THE PART OF AMERICA

Paris, July 4.—The Matin publishes an interview obtained by Hughes Leroux with Premier Lloyd George, who contradicted emphatically a suggestion that Great Britain was only half pleased with America's entrance into the war. The French writer said there were persons in this country who permitted themselves to be persuaded, no doubt by German propaganda, that England feared the idealism and passion for justice of America as it would be felt when the time came to discuss terms of peace. The premier shrugged his shoulders, M. Leroux writes, and said:

"We not only desired the entrance of the United States into the war, but we solicited it. At the present moment we ask that America shall send us fighters in the greatest number possible and as soon as it can be done. We wish her valiant soldiers who have just landed in France, inspired with such a fine spirit, to mingle their blood with yours and ours for the triumph of the common cause. Is that clear?"

"The navy department at 5 o'clock this afternoon received word of the safe arrival at a French port of the last contingent of General Pershin's expeditionary force. At the time the information was released announcement also was made that the transports were twice attacked by submarines on the way across.

"No ship was hit, not an American lief was lost, and while the navy dispatches report the sinking of one submarine only, there is reason to believe that others were destroyed in the first night attack."

Story of Courage.

Secretary Daniels made this statement:

"It is with the joy of a great relief that Iannounce to the people of the United States the safe arrival in France of every fighting man and every fighting ship.

"Now that the last vessel has reached port, it is safe to disclose the dangers that were encountered and to tell the complete story of peril and courage.

"The transports bearing our troops were twice attacked by German submarines on the way across. On both occassions the U-boats were beaten off with every appearance of loss. One was certainly sunk, and there is reason to believe that the accurate fire of our gunners sent others to the bottom.

"For purposes of convenience the expedition was divided into contingents, each contingents including troopships and a naval escort designed to keep off such German raiders as might be met.

Rendezvous on High Seas.

"An ocean rendezvous had also been arranged with the American destroyers now operating in European waters in order that the passage of the danzer zone might be attended by every possible protection.

"The first attack took place at 10:30 on the night of June 22. What gives it peculiar and disturbing significance is that our ships were set upon at a point well this side of the rendezvous, and in that part of the Atlantic presumably free from submarines.

"The attack was made in force, although the night made impossible any exact count of the U-boats gathered for what they deemed a slaughter.

"The high seas convoy, circling with their searchlights, answered with heavy gun fire, and its accuracy stands proved by the fact that the torpedo discharges became increasingly scattered and inaccurate.

Count Five Torpedoes.

"It is not known how many torpedoes were launched, but five were counted as they sped by bow and stern.

"A second attack was launched a few days later against another contingent. The point of assault was beyond the rendezvous and our destroyers were sailing as a screen between the transports and all harm. The results of the battle were in favor of American gunnery.

"Not alone did the destroyers hold the U-boats at a safe distance, but their speed also resulted in the sinking of one submarine at least.

"Grenades were used in firing a depth charge explosive timed to go off at a certain distance under water.

Wreckage on Surface.

"In another instance, oil and wreckage covered the surface of the sea after a shot from a destroyer at a periscope, and the reports make claim of sinking.

"Protected by our high seas convoy, by our destroyers, and by French war vessels the contingent proceeded and joined the others in a French port.

"The whole nation will rejoice that so great a peril is passed for the vanguard of the men who will fight our battles in France. No more thrilling Fourth of July celebration could have been arranged than this glad news that lifts the shadow of dread from the heart of America."

Army Thanks Navy.

Secretary Baker wrote the following letter to Secretary Daniels, conveying the army's thanks to the navy:

"Word has just come to the war department that the last ships conveying General Pershing's expeditionary force to France arrived safe today.

"As you know, the navy assumed the responsibility for the safety of these ships on the sea and through the danger zone. The ships themselves and their convoys were in the hands of the navy, and now that they have arrived, and carried, without the loss of a man, our soldiers who are the first to represent America in the battle for democracy, I beg leave to tender to you, to the admiral and to the navy the hearty thanks of the war department and of the army.

"This splendid achievement is an auspicious beginning and it has been characterized throughout by the cordial and effective co-operation between the two military services."

Dr. Rosenthal, Dentist, moved to 3rd floor Utility building. 7-4-tf

DAY BRINGS THE THRILL

American fleet had destroyed Cervera's fleet at Santiago.

Today, America again at war, was informed that its fleet of transports and destroyers had successfully landed an army in Europe to fight for world democracy. Not only did the United States navy safely land a force of fighting men in France, but on the long voyage through submarine infested waters the German U-boats were completely foiled in their attempts to prevent safe passage of the ships.

Another circumstance to make the day especially significant is the fact that in the brief space of three months the United States has been converted from a peaceful nation into a war power whose economic and military strength is counted upon to accomplish the downfall of autocracy.

Here in the nation's capital the day was observed with the usual patriotic exercises. With congress in recess and all the executive departments closed, governmental machinery virtually was at a standstill.

The day was featured by a joint public celebration of patriotic societies at the base of Washington's monument with Speaker Clark the orator of the occasion. Most all of Washington accepted inivtations to attend.

houn; south on Calhoun to Washington, and west on Washington to Swinney park.

The order of the various organizations in the parade was:

First Division—Captain W. L. Richmond, commander; city police, Citizens' band, Company E, First Indiana infantry, signal corps, Battery B, W. C. T. U., G. A. R., Spanish war veterans, Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans.

Second Division—Captain L. O. Wetzell, commander; Red Cross, General Electric girls, lamp works, knitting mills, Bowser Military club, Boy Scouts, lodges, newsboys and Western Union boys.

Third Division—Captain Pearl Riblet, commander; Y. W. C. A., Sunday schools, churches, speakers', officers' and other machines participating in parade.

Sedateness Marks Day.

General tenor of the day is one of sedateness. Pride and solemnity walk hand in hand and cast the spell of their presence over all the city. The rollicking, excitement-making Fourth of July spirit is lacking. Not a boy or a girl but realizes something of the soberness of the day which commemorates the principles for which the nation stands upon the dark threshold of war.

Patriotic parade and military drills at the Swinney park gathering display the interest of the public in the military life of the city. Every address of the day bore upon the solemn and grand possibilities of the future mission of the United States as well as the heritage of the past.

It is a day for honoring Fort Wayne's soldier lads anew. Every man who possesses a soldier's uniform is proud to wear the garb of loyalty today.

Minus Cannonading.

In the Fourth of lost barbarisms there is gone the quaking boom of the dummy cannons and the blasting crash of the cannon crackers. The police order that big fire crackers would not be tolerated is being carried out to the letter. Many citizens are forbearing the accustomed joy of an evening fire works display because the request of military authorities has been to "save the powder."

A few small fire crackers, touched off by very small boys, awakened and startled peaceful citizens shortly after dawn. There was a touch of the proper introduction of the natal day.

Despite the general trend against the waste of noise and ammunition there have been hundreds of dollars worth of small fire works sold in Fort Wayne in the past two weeks, merchants stated Tuesday evening.

Harmless, dazzling little sparklers found the greatest sale from local counters this year, fire works salesmen say. Their nearest rivals were the toy pistols, which resound with a snap when a small cap is expoded. Many dollars worth of the noise-making caps were bought by Fort Wayne lads during the past few days.

Business Is Suspended.

Roar of industry is stilled. As is customary the stores and factories have suspended business for the day. Many small picnic parties are formed from groups in the several mills and foundries.

The postoffice is closed for the day. There are no city deliveries and no rural route deliveries. All outgoing mails are dispatched as usual. The lobby of the postoffice is left open to the public for mailing matter, which is already provided with stamps.

The county court house and city hall are deserted as far as the offices are concerned. Police court, the never resting institution of the city, ground away during the morning hours at its grist of crime. The court session was a long one because of several continued cases.

All Day Meeting.

The largest celebration in Fort Wayne is under way at Swinney park. Several thousand people were on the grounds at noon. The number is expected to grow before night fall. The celebration opened by the military parade. At noon a free lunch was served to all enlisted soldiers by tht W. C. T. U. Addresses were made by Colonel D. N. Foster and Captain W. A. Kelsey, both civil war veterans.

Speaking starts at 1 o'clock from the raised platform at the west side of the lagoon. Edward C. Miller talks on "The Red Cross;" Hon. A. J. Rucker, of Indianapolis, speaks on "The New Constitution," and Mrs. C. S. Ridenour on "Why Women Should Vote." There will be music by the Citizens' band at intervals during the afternoon.

Later in the afternoon will be a demonstration of Red Cross and a series of athletic events. The Red Cross took a prominent part in the day's festivities. In the evening there will be a band concert and an address by Rev. T. M. Cole on "Good Citizenship," and others.

Many Picnics.

Many lodges, schools and religious organizations are enjoying outings in the parks and groves near the city. Every city park is being used for picnicking bands.

Members of the Precious Blood congregation are enjoying an outing at St. Andrew's grove. Masons are holding a celebration at Lakeside park. There will be music and sport events. The socialists of the city have gathered at Lawton park. Many prominent socialist workers from all over the Twelfth congressional district have a part in the gathering. There will be speeches and athletic events. Members of the Robin Hood lodge, Sons of St. George, are picnicking at Harry Grosvenor's country home. Members of the St. Peter's parochial school and their parents are holding a picnic at the school.

Go to Resorts.

Hundreds of Fort Wayne citizens are at the lake resorts over Independence day. Lake James, Rome City and Tri-Lake are the points of destination of most of those who motored from the city before dawn. Aquarian and athletic events are on the programs of the celebrations at Tri-Lake and Rome City.

"Drive" for Red Cross.

At the Country club the best golfers of the city are carrying on a number of spirited contests for the benefit of the Red Cross. Several hundred citizens have expressed their intentions of following the trail of a part of the matches. A number of scores of a year's standing are to be settled between the city golfers.

Double Header.

The Central league ball teams will perform twice during the day. Fort Wayne plays two games with South Bend. One contest was on during the morning and another will follow this afternoon.

The two independent ball teams of the city are out of town for fast diamond contests. The Lincoln Lifers play at Convoy and the Shamrocks at Paulding, Ohio. Several other semi-pro teams have journeyed away for battles on foreign soil today.

Horse Racing Also.

Horse racing will be on during the afternoon at Centlivre park. There are four racing events on a card which promises to be a blue ribbon matinee. More than thirty horses, all trained since early spring, will thunder down before the judges' stand in the different race numbers.

Special Shows.

The movie houses of the city are planning special features for the evening. Only the best known and the highest priced stars will bow before the public from the stage of the silent drama in the down town picture shows, it is promised. A band concert and dancing will be carried on during the afternoon and evening at Robison park.

RUSSIANS IN BATTLE TEST

strongly posted triple lines of permanent trenches in the hills between which flows Kinicha stream, twelve miles northeast of Brzesany. The Russians with a force of artillery exceeding anything yet used on the Russian side, smashed great fields of wire work after two days' bombardment, and cleared the path for stormers. These were necessarily picked men.

Men at Front Worthy.

Considerable precaution had been taken to assemble regiments of infantry upon whom more or less reliance could be placed, although until put to a test even their own officers could not pretend to know what would happen. The trial proved, whatever may be the case on the rear, that there are at the front men worthy of Russia's great name.

The losses have been heavy, which is in accordance with Russian tradition, Russian armies holding world's record for ability to suffer without losing military qualities. Southwest of Brzezany the fighting seems to have been even more severe and success still hangs in the balance. This region is also hilly and wooded.

The Germans had special redoubts which withstood a severe artillery fire. The defenses were held by the Germans and Turks—a combination which has always proved formidable.

Lost Many Officers.

After very hard fighting the Russians won several points and captured 2,000 prisoners. Some points changed hands several times. It was here that the Russian loss in officers was particularly serious.

The general scope of the action indicates that the movement is on an extended scale and that the battle now begun is likely to take weeks to reach its conclusion. The fighting is in a territory which before the war belonged to an enemy. The provisional government announces that all regiments engaged in this new initiative will be henceforth known as "Eighteenth of June" regiments, that being the old style date of the battle. June 18 has been a memorable day for Russia for more than a century.

All It Costs to Reclaim Unfit for Army Service by Plan of Cleveland Physician—Will Get After 2,000,000 Shirkers.

Washington, D. C., July 4.—Millions of men rejected from service for physical reasons will have a chance to enter the army or navy after going through a combined medical and military training, if the plan of Dr. John H. Quale of Cleveland is adopted by the government.

Dr. Quayle has seen Secretary of War Baker and Brigadier General Gorgas, and both officials enthusiastically approve his plan. It is left to congress to pass upon it.

According to Dr. Quayle, it would cost $100 to reclaim each man for service, but would mean a saving of $1,000, addition of another fighter against the kaiser, and prevention of an inferior race, after the war.

"According to statistics on the percentage of men accepted under the volunteer system, it would be impossible to get more than 2,000,000 from the 10,000,000 men who have registered," says Dr. Quayle. "Between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 would be barred for physical defects."

Half these, Dr. Quayle estimates, may be exempt because of their relatives. About 3,000,000 remain to be reclaimed.

Dr. Quayle's plan would get after the shirkers especially and force them into proper physical shape, put them into service and make the country safe from parasitic influence.

"A thoroughly trained medical man could put 90 per cent of these rejections in condition to pass the examination in from three to six months," says Dr. Quayle. Military training would be a part of their routine.

"Two million men between the ages of 21 and 31 have absolutely no visible means of support and are loafers and leeches on society. They are physically unfit because of their self-indulgence and vicious habits which could be regulated under my plan.

"My plan is the appointement of a commission by the government which should organize a training camp in every state with suitable hospital facilities to reclaim rejected men. Each camp should be supervised by military officers who would carry out the recommendations of the medical men."

Dr. Quayle has already volunteered his services and has been joined by other prominent physicians throughout the country. His plan has been heartily approved by military officers who see in it a way to make the army of the United States the largest and most physically fit in the world.

A MARINE'S TRAINING AT PARIS ISLAND, S. C. TOLD BY EARLE RATH

Earle Rath, formerly of Fort Wayne, but now training at Paris Island, South Carolina, in a letter to The Sentinel tells how a man is trained at this camp. The article as prepared by him follows:

A marine's training consists of many duties and drills. For instance when a marine arrives for training we are shown to our quarters in the quarantine camp. In this camp the recruits stay until they are examined by the doctor and sworn in.

After we are sworn in we are given uniforms and start on our tour of training. First we are given our rules and equipment, which consists of toilet articles, pails, canteens, etc. Then we are taught how to use them, and keep them in regulation style.

Everything a marine is given must be kept in regulation style while he is a recruit. This is to train him to keep things the same way when he graduates from the recruits.

After we leave the quarantine camp, we are sent to the next camp, called the maneuvering grounds. At the maneuvering grounds we are taught the first steps in drilling, for instance, how to keep step, and squads right and left. This is very strenuous work for a recruit, and it takes quite a time to get us used to it.

Next we are taught the manual of arms, which is somewhat easier for us.

A recruit dines out of his own mess gear while in the quarantine camp and maneuvering grounds. His mess gear consists of an aluminum pan, one knife, fork, and spoon. After each "chow" he is compelled to wash his own gear and put it away in regulation style.

We generally stay in the maneuvering grounds about two or three weeks, then we are sent to the main barracks where the training is much easier.

In the first place we get our meals in a large mess hall, where there are four men detailed from each company to wait on and take care of the tables.

Next we have a large swimming pool, moving pictures and a number of pool tables at our disposal. The moving pictures are shown in the gymnasium under the direction of our physical instructor. There is also quite a little marine talent shown, for instance, boxing, singing, and there are a number of boys who play string instruments for our amusement.

The work is hard but interesting and most of us enjoy it. Any man who does his share is bound to succeed in the marine corps.

There is no limit of opportunities to become "non-coms."

The men are drilled by the best and oldest "non-coms" in the service and they turn out wonderful companies.

After the men finish their drilling, we are sent to the rifle range, where we are taught how to shoot. At this range we are taught how to hold our rifle and the different positions to shoot from. There is a coach to every two men who shoot, and this coach guides us all through the shooting.

A man has any number of opportunities to qualify for the following: Marksman, sharpshooter or expert rifleman. Marksman pays two dollars extra a month; sharpshooter, three dollars, and expert rifleman, five dollars. About seventy-five per cent of each company qualify for one of these medals. This makes it easy for a private to make extra money.

After we finish our range work, we are classed as a trained marine, and we are no longer recruits.

After we have graduated from a recruit, we are given the privilege of asking for a furlough for the length of seventy-two hours. While we are recruits, there is no liberty whatsoever given us.

As I formally claimed Fort Wayne as my home, I was glad to meet Herbert H. Sieman, who also claimed Fort Wayne as his former home. Sieman is well liked by all of us and hopes Fort Wayne will do her share as she always has in the past. He is always glad to meet any Indiana boys, and gives them a helping hand.

His father was formerly proprietor of Sieman & Bros. Book Publishing company.

It is one desire of the boys to be the first ones to see France. Of course we don't know where we are going, but we're all hoping.

Well, here's to the marines who will come back with Old Glory waiving triumphantly.

The problem of household refrigeration is one of paramount importance to every American family.

It resolves itself into a necessity and a duty to the individual, as regards the actual maintenance of the family's health, to say nothing of adding immeasurably to the convenience of the housewife and saving her labor and worry.

If care and intelligent discrimination is used in the choice of a refrigerator your purchase is made for an indefinite number of years. In fact it may be considered a permanent investment, as a Herrick Refrigerator is built to last a life-time.

Buy a Herrick and enjoy sanitary refrigeration. It will keep salt dry for weeks, years or as long as the refrigerator is iced up.

WOODBURN NEWS.

Woodburn, Ind., July 4.—The Misses Ethel and Opal Henschen and Otto Henschen, of Payne, Ohio, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shockey Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Christ Grieser, of Fort Wayne, visited Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Faulkner.

Miss Emma Knoblauch, of Manitou Beach, Mich., is spending a few days at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Henderson are enjoying a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Orange Barrett, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. C. A. Arnold and son George, of South Bend.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Augspurger and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Augspurger and sons, Gilbert and Max, motored to Fort Wayne Sunday, where they visited at the home of C. A. Augspurger.

Miss Frieda Gerig returned to her work at New Haven after spending Sunday with her mother, Mrs. L. Gerig.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Moser entertained relatives from Gar Creek Sunday.

G. W. Sandmeyer, of Chenoa, Ill., was in Woodburn, Monday, where he attended to business matters.

Miss Marie Sweet, of Kendallville, Ind., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jule Sweet, for a few days.

Adolph Reddersen, of New Haven, spent Sunday with his wife and children at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Moon and daughter, Armithea, spent Sunday with Mrs. Moon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Yaggy.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Klopfenstein and son, Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schultz and Mrs. Isaac Sprunger and daughter, Hulda, of Fort Wayne, visited with relatives and friends at this place Sunday.

Rev. J. E. Lauby and family, accompanied by Mr. Lauby's mother, motored to Bluffton, Ohio, Monday, where they will visit until Wednesday.

What might have been a disastrous fire resulted in only a small loss when the roof of the house owned by J. E. Augspurger caught fire about noon Monday. Quick work on the part of men nearby saved the house.

The Missionary church was filled to its capacity on Sunday evening when the Union chorus, under the direction of J. R. Yaggy, rendered a musical program. Much credit is due the class and director for the splendid work which was done as the result of many weeks' persistent practice. A piano duet, Midsummer Night's Dream, music by Felix Mendelssohn, was exceptionally well played by the Misses Prudence Yaggy and Olive Augspurger.

Are You One of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak or disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs. M. R. Searl, Baldwinsville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: "I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured." These tablets do not relieve pain, but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.—Advertisement.

EXEMPTION BOARD ORGANIZED.

Huntington, Ind., July 4.—Huntington's exemption board organized Monday by selecting Dr. C. W. Fry, president; Judge C. W. Watkins, clerk, and Dr. W. R. Beck, physician. The board is numbering the registration cards and will forward the lists to Washington.—The Huntington contingent at Fort Harrison will take a prominent part in the Fourth of July celebration here, Wednesday. At the request of Peter Martin, chairman of the county council of defense, General Glenn consented that fifteen of the eighteen men in camp will be permitted to come home, Wednesday, in a body. The men will be met at Marion by automobiles and taken back to that place to entrain for the fort.

STOP FEEDING TRAMPS.

Auburn, Ind., July 4.—Feeding of tramps in Auburn and every other town and section of Dekalb county will be stopped if the wishes of the Dekalb county council of defense are carried out. At the regular monthly meeting of this new organization in the court house at Auburn, Monday afternoon, the council voted to ask the co-operation of the citizens of Dekalb county in stopping this begging by able-bodied men who travel through the country living off of others.

AUTOMOBILE THIEVES CAUGHT.

Van Wert, O., July 4.—Harry Smith and Martin Abel, both 16 years old, have been convicted at Mansfield and sent to the reformatory for the theft of an automobile belonging to the Converse Taxicab company, of Converse, O. The young men were arrested near Coverdale, O., by the sheriff.

GREAT FAIRYLAND SPECTACLE COMING

"Cinderella" is Big Feature on Ringling Bros.' Circus Program.

"Cinderella," best-loved of fairy stories, is this season's spectacle feature with the Ringling Brothers' circus. The production is said to be the biggest thing of its kind ever produced under canvas. The gigantic pantomime was rehearsed for two months prior to its initial presentation. It then opened the program during the Ringling engagement at the Coliseum in Chicago this spring, where it delighted children and grownups for seventy consecutive performances. "Cinderella" and the entire arenic program is to be given here Thursday, July 12, exactly as it was produced in Chicago's great convention building.

The spectacle is by far the most pretentious of anything yet offered by the Ringling Brothers. It was built by a corps of dramatists, including men prominent in the hippodromes of Europe—men who have been obliged to transfer their talents to this country because of the great war. The fairyland story has been preserved in its entirety. One sees the great valley of the gnomes and fairies, the streets of the magic city, the palace of the king, the home of "Cinderella," the grand ball room in which the maid of the chimney corner loses the glass slipper, the throne room where the ladies of the kingdom contest for the royal favor and many other scenes incidental to the well known tale. These various scenes are peopled by a cast numbering more than a thousand characters. The costumes are in keeping with the splendid subject, and vehicles, horses and trappings are of a type especially built or selected. The lighting and mechanical effects surpass those of a Wagnerian production. Most beautiful of the many scenes is that in which the entire fairy band numbering hundreds of woodland sprites give their wonderful "Dance of the Flowers." The fairyland atmosphere has been preserved throughout, even to the handsome paintings which adorn the mammoth curtain that falls and rise before the great stage. The stage itself is by far the largest ever constructed. Fifty-two mechanics are required to move the scenery and operate the mechanical devices during the progress of the dramatic action. The costumes total almost 5,000 and are as beautiful as the name "Cinderella" would suggest.

While "Cinderella" is the feature of this season's Ringling program, it is followed by fully two hours of remarkable circus acts. Approximately 400 artists take part in the arenic numbers, the great majority of whom are entirely new to American audiences. A trained animal exhibition is introduced during the course of the main tent program, specially arranged for the enjoyment of the little folks. It includes an unusual number of trained bears, monkeys, dogs, Shetland ponies, birds, cats, seals and other creatures dear to the hearts of the young.

GETS DISCHARGE FOR PHYSICAL DISABILITY

Maurice Neizer Has Been Rejected From Officers' Training Camp.

Maurice Niezer, the democratic candidate for mayor of Fort Wayne, has received a physical disability discharge from the officers' training camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison. The army physicians have discovered that he has a defective ear-drum. In a communication to this city he announces that he will return to Fort Wayne the latter part of the week.

Mr. Niezer has spent nine weeks at the training camp and was very enthusiastic about the work from the beginning. He always expressed the idea that he wanted to see service in France.

STATE OF SCHELL BOY OFFERS RAY OF HOPE

Latest word from the St. Joseph hospital was to effect that Alfred Schell, who was shot through the head while outo riding, Sunday evening, may recover. The youth has been resting well during the past few hours. Chances of infection from the wound, which follows the trail of the bullet through the boy's face, have been reduced, says Dr. J. Frank Dinnen, in charge of the patient. Dr. Dinnen holds a growing hope in the youth's recovery, the physician said at noon, Wednesday.

Louis Daniels, horse trader, held in the county jail charged with firing the shot which wounded the lad, is unchanged in his calm attitude of denial of any knowledge of the boy being shot, when the automobile passed near his camping outfit.

IN UNITY. JULY 4, 1917.

The unanimous Declaration of the allied Free Peoples of the World.

When in the Course of human events it becomes necessary for the enlightened peoples of the World to dissolve the bands which have enchained the liberties of Mankind and to assume the high and democratic station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to their action.—We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.—That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the Peoples of the World to abolish it and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect the Safety and Happiness and to insure the Liberty in Democracy, of all the Peoples of the World. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes, and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces the design to reduce the World under absolute Despotism, it is the right of all Free Peoples, it is their duty, to throw off such despotic Governments and to provide new guards for their future security.—Such has been the patient sufferance of the Democracies of the World; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to unite in abolishing autocratic Governments. The history of the present Government of Germany, and its allied autocracies, is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over the World.—In every stage of these oppressions and usurpations, as long as human forbearance could find expression, we have sought redress and reform most patiently.—Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Government whose character is marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be accepted among the Governments of Free Peoples.—Nor have we been wanting in attentions to our German brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their Government to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over the World's Free Peoples.—We have reminded them of the circumstances of our injuries at the hands of their Government.—We have appealed to their Spirit of justice and magnanamity, and we have conjured them by all the ties of human brotherhood to disavow these usurpations. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which compels our action, and hold them, as we hold their Government, enemies in war, but friends in the Peace of Liberty which must follow.—

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United Free Peoples of the World, in common cause assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do in the name, and by the authority, of the Good People of these Free Nations, solemnly publish and declare, That all Peoples of the World are, and of right ought to be Free and Independent; that they are absolved from all allegiance to Autocratic Governments wherever they may be; and that all Governments that do not derive their powers from the consent of the governed of right ought to be dissolved and must be dissolved, to the end that Liberty may be the lot of all People everywhere and Freedom the common state of Man.—And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor.—Done by order and in behalf of the World's Democracies.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1917.

THE EAST ST. LOUIS LADIES.

In whatever glory was won by the white mobs of East St. Louis the women share about equally with the men. In their display of spirit and exhibition of frenzy, in their ruthlessness and savagery, the ladies gave ample proof that their fellow mobbists, the men, had "nothing on them." Their shortcomings in performance of the high tasks in hand were of the arm and not the heart and in that respect they showed themselves obliged to yield little to the superiority of the males.

Here is a small detail of the general picture as drawn by a writer for the Associated Press that shows the women of East St. Louis in all the pristine charm of native savagery:

> Another of the innumerable brutal incidents of the night was the attack on a young negress. White men and women were among the assailants.
> "Let the women have her," was the cry among the men and white women, began tearing the garments from their victime. The negress' cry of "Please, please, I ain't done nothing," was stopped by a blow in the mouth with a club which a woman swung like a baseball bat. Another white woman seized the victim's hands and the blow was repeated. Fingers tore at her hair and her waist was stripped from her.
> "Now, let's see how fast she can run," suggested a bystander, as the negress broke loose. The women were loathe to leave her alone, but after following her with their blows for a short distance they stopped and she ran crying down the street.
> The women next tried to get an aged negress who was guarded by three militiamen. One of the women wrestled with the soldier for his rifle and others succeeded in getting in a few blows.

The narrative of events in East St. Louis during the twenty-four hours that the mobs held sway are rich in incidents of which the foregoing is a proximate average. All over the mob-ridden city the white women did their bit with courage and energy. To the splendor of that effulgent chapter of American lawlessness the women contributed all that could have been expected. It was a charming instance of poetic discrimination, reflecting no credit less upon the gallantry of the male mobbists than upon the intrepidity of the female mobbists, that women victims of the uprising were left, where practicable, to be dealt with by women. And the white ladies of East St. Louis rose gloriously to the occasion. Upon the heroic scenes of that triumphal hour they shed a lustre of imperishable renown and when History comes to emblazen the heroes of that imperial day she will wield no reluctant pen to emblazen also the heroines. There was glory enough for all.

The lady bobcats of East St. Louis proved their mettle in many a glorious melee. Perhaps it is a pity that the saloons had been closed, else they might have gone farther and disclosed unconceived talent for savage cruelty.

GOOD NEWS FOR THIS DAY.

It fits well to the spirit and occasion of this day that the government is able to announce the complete success of the first military expedition to France.

Not a man or an animal was lost. Not a pound of supplies was destroyed or damaged. Not a keel was injured. Through the murder zones of Prussian autocracy the navy and the army sped their ships and their men, their horses and their stores and, arrived safely in port, everybody and everything checks up as "there."

This achievement cannot be cheapened. It was no fault of German vigilance or German good intent toward the expedition. It would have been something to the credit of the U-boats and something certainly of great value to the German morale to have sunk an American transport with two or three thousand troops. That there was no want of purpose in the Prussian war plans to accomplish such a stroke is furnished proof in the report that submarine attacks were launched against the expedition. It is a satisfactory detail of this that the American destroyers convoying the expedition engaged the U-boats and sunk one or more of them.

Just how many men have been successfully and safely landed in France is not stated, but it is probable that some twenty-five thousand are there, since it is announced officially that all of the first expedition is now ashore in Europe, including animals and supplies. That so much should have been done without the intervention of a single unfortunate incident, without casualty and so utterly without confusion, disorder or delay as that the people of this country were in ignorance that an expedition had been embarked until they got news that it had safely arrived is something in which there may be a great and reasonable pride.

Notwithstanding a deal of criticism of the war and navy departments—and not all of it without reason—these two branches of the government have displayed initiative, energy and efficiency in the organization and dispatch of the first expedition to France that furnishes a most happy and impressive augury for the conduct of America's part in the war. We mean nothing invidious in saying that the success of this expedition stands in sharp relief against the history of the American expeditions to Cuba nineteen years ago. The ignominious failures of that day have not been forgotten nor have the lessons of them gone unconned.

It is fine news for the Fourth of July that our first important military essays in this great war have been accomplished with high success and without loss of man or ship under circumstances as perilous as could be imagined.

IT MAKES TALK CHEAP.

It is better than a half century since Fourth of July oratory faced such emergence of events as to put the old afflatus of the day in painful straits. Spread-eagleism won't "get over" on this one hundred and forty-first anniversary of the nation's birth. Our men in France, our men in the training camps, our men awaiting the fateful dictum of the conscript, our women in the Red Cross—our consecrated people everywhere—on this day make talk cheap.

This is the day of service, the hour of devotion, the moment of decision. It has ceased to be the inherited glory of the deeds our fathers did in the "days that tried men's souls." The rather is it the time of what we ourselves shall do in these present days of the soul's trial. The deeds of the fathers will take care of themselves perpetually. The fruits of those deeds are our supreme heritage and their perpetuity is with us. Today we face the great crisis, stand under the decisive test. The democracy born on this July day seven score and one years ago was submitted above a half century since to the first great test of its existence. Then it was to determine if among ourselves we harbored a lie in cherishing the declaration that we held to be self-evident the truth that all men are created free and equal. In four years of fratricidal strife we settled it that the keystone principle of our arch was not a fraudulency, and that we were no longer ourselves to be hyporcites respecting it. Now not only our democracy but all democracy is challenged, threatened and assailed. We are in arms and moving to battle to try how it shall henceforth be with democracy here and all places else.

If there was anything worth fighting for, worth achieving, worth a single sacrifice of a solitary man on the dear-bought fields of the Revolution, or worth preserving at still greater cost on still dearer fields of the stupendous conflict of the states, it is worth all that we now can put in to turn the scale to democracy in this crisis wherein a world's liberties are frankly and audaciously assailed. In a sacred jointure of blood the free nations of the earth are today shoulder to shoulder in the greatest war of all history for the greatest cause that ever has challenged the devotion and valor of men.

So, while orators today may here and there take text from ancient glory of deeds and seek inspiration in the valor of the brave now long gathered home, the mass of the people will be looking about upon the work of going into the greatest of all our conflicts for the most precious of all our possessions. Talk today seems cheap and is cheap unless, as Colonel Roosevelt so stubbornly yet so truthfully insists, it is translated into deeds. We cannot all go to the firing line, but there is for everybody a service of some sort and of vital moment. Duty has neither times nor seasons, but the Fourth of July is, nevertheless, a good day in which to take your consecrations to your country's service.

A contemporary observes with some force that what East St. Louis did to the negroes took place in the state that gave Lincoln to the nation. Just so. But we recall that a few years ago the white folks of Springfield, in the same state, "lynched a nigger" in the shadow of the monument that marks the Great Emancipator's resting-place.

Maybe Sec. Daniels' navy has got something up its sleeve for the U-boats that the censor refuses to pass. Anyway, there was almost smooth sailing for the transports with twenty-five thousand of Pershing's fighters.

"Fare, please! All the glad ones, and the sad ones; all the good ones, and the bad ones—get on here!"

IN PLACE OF THE POEM.

Hip! Hip! Hoo-rah! This is the ga-lorious Fourth of July!

You may be aware of the fact, or you may not—just according as you are alive and awake, or dead and drunk!

But the main thing is—you expected to see a poem perched on this spot; and we're refusing to spot you one!

What a shock it is when one asks for bread and receives a biscuit like your wife used to make—what a shock it is to expect something, and then get something else!

We have been there, too—it hurts, but is interesting!

What we started out to say was this—we had a space to fill; and, lo! it is filled—or nearly so!

However, if you were dead set (this is sporting language!) on poetry, this kind of filling will not tank you up; because it is plain prose, and pretty plain at that!

If you wish to preserve the illusion, you may imagine that every third, fourth or fifth word of this infamous piece begins with a capital letter, and that each capitalized word starts a verse (does verse ever start?)—then, old dear, you will have regular Cass street "free verse" of a highly superior quality!

As we said before—this is the Fourth of July; and, out of courtesy, we must speak softly to our English allies!

Personally, we are glad this is over!
Now, we can go on more comfortably!
Hoo-rah, for the Fourth!

With Apologies to Whoever Originated This.

Willie put some powder by,
Used it up Fourth of July;
Curiosity doesn't pay—
It's rained Willie this whole day!

Stimulants Required.

Pedestrian (dashing into a saloon)—Hurry! There's been a horrible accident out here! Cannon cracker exploded just as a boy was about to throw it!

Bar Keep—What can I do for him?

Pedestrian—Give him two fingers.

Our Daily Affirmation.

IF YOU HAVEN'T ANY CANNON CRACKERS TO SHOOT OFF YOU CAN USE YOUR MOUTH.

Staying With Him.

Hub—This Fourth of July breeze is amusement-loving—it takes my breath clear away.

Wife (with acerbity)—Not altogether. I can still smell that last smile you took down at the corner saloon.

They Could Wait for the Rest of the Meal.

Inventor—The future will give me my deserts.

His wife—Yes, but how fine it would be if we could have the first and second courses right now.

Quarrel.

A shady nook,
A babbling brook,
A pleasure long deferred;
A kiss, a slap,
A scream, a scrap,
And she won't say a word!

Remosophy.

What is pink lemonade without a Fourth?

The firecrackers were mostly used on the French front today.

After all we prefer it safe and sane—even in war times.

"We Serve"
By Berton Braley
Not by cheers alone or the flattering vaunt of speeches
Is the strength of a nation shown in the strain of the crucial hour
But by trust in a righteous cause and a glorious love that reaches
Deep down to a people's soul with its searching and poignant power,
So the flags that float on the breeze have a tarnished and tawdry splendor
If they are not raised aloft by hands that are leal and true,
And the test of our loyal might is the faith that we gladly render,
Not the words that our tongues may speak, but the tangible deeds we do.
All that our fathers dreamed of, all that they ever sought for
When they shivered at Valley Forge and battled at Bunker Hill,
Is again at stake in the world—a guerdon that must be fought for;
It is ours to hold and defend with all of our strength and will;
And if we would keep our banners proudly and freely flying
We must gird ourselves as others have girded themselves of old,
And prove by the fact of service, living or bravely dying,
That the torch our fathers carried has never grown dim or cold.
Not by cheers alone, or waving of flags and singing
Is a nation's spirit shown, but only when brain and nerve
Are trained to the instant need—and the nation's call is bringing Her bravest children forth—crying,
"We serve! We serve!"

CHANGE OF TACTICS AT HAND FOR MEETING THE MENACE OF SUBMARINES

(By L. HARPER LEECH.)

The submarine warfare has reached a stage which will probably lead to a complete change of tactics. The change of method will probably be as revolutionary as the change in land warfare which followed the battle of the Marne, when the war of maneuvers was superseded by the war of the trenches.

On land the airplane and the machine gun have relegated the tactics which man has used on land since he first began to make war.

But the British admiralty has followed the same ideas in fighting the submarine which have been followed by all the victorious maritime powers of history. It is the simple offensive. "Find the enemy and fight him."

The method is in thorough accord with the traditions of the British navy and the national anthem, "Britania Rules the Waves." Until very recently it was fairly successful. There was never any trouble about the "fight" end of the plan. But "find the enemy" has proved the almost insoluble problem.

Reduced to tactics, there are four methods of fighting the submarine:

1. The Offensive—Hunting for submarines with destroyers and patrols, covering the sea with submarine chasers, dragging the sea with nets, scouring the air with aeros.

2. The Defensive—Dropping the idea of exterminating the submarines by bottling up the German coast with nets, mines and bomb-carrying cables.

3. The Sea Trench Method—Imprisonment of the submarines by bottling up the German coast with nets, mines and bomb-carrying cables.

4. An Attack on the Bases—"Digging the rats out of their holes."

To date, the war against the submarine has followed the simple offensive. It was fairly successful so long as the submarine had a limited cruising radius and had to keep close to the shores of Britain. By covering the North sea and the channel with patrol boats and dragging them with nets, the British practically drove the smaller submarines from the narrow seas.

The Germans countered with 350 foot submarines that could cruise out in the Atlantic.

The admiralty is up against a mathematical impossibility. The further out it extends the patrol, the bigger grows the ratio of patrols to submarines.

Assuming that one patrol boat can cover twenty square miles of sea, it would require four times as many patrol boats to cover the sea 200 miles off shore as it would take to protect the sea for 100 miles out, while only twice the number of submarines would be required to blockade the circumference of the patrolled area 200 miles out as would be required for the smaller circle.

Extending the limit to 400 miles would require sixteen times the number of patrols to combat four times the original number of submarines.

The only solution of this problem, in the opinion of many naval men, is for the British navy and its allies to change its tactics and devote its energies to convoying and protecting merchant shipping.

Ships must wait until all the convoy is loaded, sail at the same speed, and make the same ports. The number of trips per ship will be cut down. The docking facilities of the ports will have to be enlarged. The quantity of freight which can be delivered will be lowered perhaps 50 per cent.

This tremendous traffic problem has prevented the adoption of the convoy system up to this time.

But that way safety lies, according to experts who have the facts.

The convoy and the patrolled sea lane will cut down losses to a negligible amount.

Especially is this the case in fair weather, when airplanes can be carried along on mother ships to scour the surrounding waters for submarines. Naval airmen say that the submarine will never come to the surface when an airplane is about in fair weather. In rough weather the submarine suffers terrible handicaps of limited vision and torpedo range, which offset the impossibility of using airplanes.

To the convoy system it must come, unless the third or fourth methods of fighting the submarine can succeed.

From the beginning of the war Britain has tried to wall the submarines in with mines, but as long as Holland, Denmark and Norway remain neutral this plan cannot succeed, for the submarines are believed to escape through "neutral" waters in which the allies cannot lay mines.

A plan is being considered by the United States navy to build a huge "wire fence" in the North sea from Scotland to Norway, and to close the Strait of Dover with a similar fence.

This would be a huge net, 200 feet deep, loaded with contact bombs at every intersection, held in place by steamers stationed every few miles and also held up by buoys.

Improvements in submarines and anti-submarine devices are adopted.

At present the submarine is ahead in the race, not because there are no weapons to fight it, but because of the tactical difficulties of catching it.

That is why it is believed the next step in the submarine war will be a change of tactics.

SCORE OF SOCIETIES ARE JOINED TO KEEP DRINK FROM TROOPS

BY REV. CHARLES STELZEL.

Twenty leading national temperance societies in the United States have combined for a united campaign for total abstinence in army and navy concentration camps.

While the law prohibits giving intoxicating liquor to a man in uniform, there is no guarantee when our soldiers go abroad to fight in the trenches the same prohibitory law will be enforced. Indeed it is assumed they will be face to face with the same temptation to drink that exists among the fighters in Europe. In order to prepare the men for this situation these temperance societies propose to convince the American soldier that the use of intoxicating liquor is a distinct detriment to him as a fighting man.

A special committee of experts on the liquor question is making an intensive study of the relation of liquor to the war and is preparing an aggressive program consisting principally of a series of temperance lectures by prominent publicists, the preparation and display of posters in training camps, the distribution of suitable literature, the supplying of stereopticon views and the maintenance of stereomotographs.

The committee will operate through the chaplains in the army and navy and the secretaries of the Young Men's Christian association. The association has already planned to furnish five secretaries for each brigade of 5,000 men and the equipment for each brigade will consist of a suitable building and such other apparatus as may be required for social and religious work among the men.

There will be something like 200 such units. All these workers and equipment will be available for use by the committee on war-temperance activities.

An executive secretary will be appointed by the united committee, who will have general supervision of the work in the training camps.

An initial budget of $100,000 will be raised for the campaign by the twenty co-operating agencies.

The Buck Kilbys are giving their daughter, Mabelle, the benefit of musical instruction. "But we are not fitting her for the grand opera stage," said Mr. Kilby yesterday. "About all we expect is that she will, in a year or two, be able to earn $15 a week singing in a moving picture theater."

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

We had grand weather for the Fourth of July.

S. L. Morris and family will leave this week for Denver, Col., to visit.

It looks as though baseball has lost its grip in Fort Wayne for awhile.

Jacob Stecher, of Holman street, shot himself through the left hand.

Henry Frauenfelder was accidentally shot through the calf of the leg while patronizing a shooting gallery at Zion's picnic yesterday.

C. G. Smith, of the Newspaper Union, while touching off fireworks last evening, had one hand badly burned and will carry the member in a sling for sometime.

A dispatch from Cleveland today says that F. DeH. Robison has abandoned the Fort Wayne club of the Western league. The club is now being run on a co-operative plan.

John P. Evans, treasurer of the Hoosier Manufacturing company, left for New York last evening, where he will meet George P. Evans, who has just returned from a four months' tour of the continent.

Attached to the Keystone express on the Fort Wayne road this afternoon were two special Pullman cars, taking from this city an enthusiastic delegation to the big Christian Endeavor convention in New York.

John A. Kline, a farmer living near Sheldon, lost a team of fine horses Saturday night, the animals being killed by lightning. The storm was severe and some pronounce it a cloudburst. A drove of hogs, which were in low pasture land on Mr. Kline's farm, were drowned.

Ex-City Attorney Henry Colerick and his family have been occupying a cottage at Rome City. Last evening some of the cottagers had magnificent displays of fireworks and among them was that of the Colericks. A rocket that Mr. Colerick was about to send up exploded prematurely, and the sharp pointed stick struck him in the right eye, inflicting injuries of so severe a nature that it is feared that he will lose the sight.

Planning Meals for a Week Ahead Saves

By BIDDIE BYE.

Many a housewife prepares her meals by inspiration rather than by careful planning to get the best out of the least.

A week's program of carefully planned breakfasts, lunches and dinners should be so arranged as to make for a healthier family as well as a saving in the food budget. The problem is complex, for not only must the housewife consider her own purse and the local market, but the size of the family, their ages, occupations, health, individual tastes, national customs and even religious views.

The purse, of course, is the greatest factor. To keep the budget low, substitutes should be used for meats, eggs, fruits and vegetables except in midseason. The cheaper meat substitutes may appear in limited quantities, cheaper fats may replace butter, and milk, bread and cereals may furnish the main foods.

The housewife should consider these substitutes in making her formulas for the week. The usual breakfast in its simplest form consists of fruit, bread and butter and a beverage. A cereal is added in many cases. Instead of the fruit, a fruit preserve may be served.

Dinner, the heaviest meal of the day, which may come at noon or evening, according to the conveniences of the family, comprises meat or a meat substitute, a starchy vegetable, a green salad, bread and butter and dessert.

Planning for a week ahead gives the housewife a chance to buy more advantageously and more economically and a chance to use the leftovers. Each meal should be planned with relation to the one preceding and the one following.

Prepare foods in larger quantities for more than one meal, especially those requoring long cooking. Sauces, prunes, cranberries, rhubarb and other side dishes can easily be prepared at the beginning of the week for all seven days.

Cold Pack Method of Home Canning is Easy

Canning fruits and vegetables in the home by the one-period cold pack method is a relatively simple process and can be done with ordinary kitchen equipment and with comparatively little labor. Much of the surpulus of the home garden can be saved for winter use by this canning method which is fully described in a special bulletin just issued by the United States department of agriculture, Farmers' Bulletin 839, "Home Canning by the One-Period Cold Pack Method." This bulletin is of special interest and value to all housewives, canning clubs, societies or persons interested in conserving the food supply of the nation. It may be had on application to the United States department of agriculture.

The bulletin contains very explicit directions for canning practically all of the common garden vegetables including tomatoes, peppers, sweet peppers, pumpkin, squash, sweet corn, field corn, beans, peas and root vegetables, also various combinations of vegetables. It also includes canning directions for soft fruits and berries, hard fruits as apples, pears, quinces. Directions for the canning of camp rations, meats and soups are given in detail.

Each step in the canning process by the one-period cold pack method is carefully outlined from the preparation of the equipment and the raw materials to the storing of the canned products. A special time table showing how long fruits, vegetables, soups and meats should be scalded, blanched or sterilized, is of particular value to the housewife. Various types of home made and commercial canning outfits are described.

LITTLE ROOM REQUIRED TO KEEP DRIED FRUITS.

Women who live in flats and small apartments usually consider themselves free from preserving food. The nation's demand that every woman shall do a little bit conscripts the flat-dweller as well as the farmer's wife.

Dried vegetables take up one-tenth the space required for storing the wet or fresh vegetables. A woman who can not find a cupboard for cnaned goods can keep a stock of dried vegetables and fruits on a shelf.

Of an onion, 87.6 per cent is water without nutrient; of a parsnip, 83 per cent; of a potato, 78.3; of a tomato, 94.3 per cent; beets are 87 per cent water and cabbage are 91.5 per cent water.

Dehydrated or dried vegetables shrink in bulk in an astonishing way, which makes them easy to pack in a small space. The water must be restored by soaking before the vegetables are cooked.

WATCH FOR INSECTS BEFORE PUTTING DRIED FOODS AWAY.

Insects are the chief foes of dried vegetables and fruits. They are more likely to get into the fruit during the process of drying than afterwards, is the warning of one of Uncle Sam's cooking experts.

Moths deposit their eggs on fruit generally at dusk or after dark. It takes from three to ten days for the eggs to hatch into grug-like caterpillars and from five to ten weeks till the appearance of the moths to lay another lot of eggs; and since a number of "broods" or generations are produced yearly, if a few of these moth eggs are stored away on dried fruits or vegetables many pounds of valuable material may be destroyed during the course of the winter.

Warm dark bins or dried fruit in sacks offer especially favorable places for their development.

The larger the amount of material in a package, the greater the chance of a few eggs doing a great deal of damage.

Small cartons or containers have the advantage of confining the injury from these moths to small quantities of material.

In sun drying, if the drying racks are screened early in the evening and at night, and the dried fruit and vegetables stored in tight paper sacks in a cool place, no danger ordinarily need be feared from these insects.

As an additional precaution, the dried product, before being stored, may be heated to 140 degrees long enough to allow the heat to penetrate throughout. This will sterilize it if already infested.

In drying by artificial heat, the process itself ordinarily will sterilize the product. But after drying it should be stored promptly.

How to Be Red Cross Nurse

One of the Great Tasks Will Come When Maimed Soldiers Return to Be "Rebuilt."

MABEL BOARDMAN

By MABEL T. BOARDMAN.

President American National Red Cross.

Charity and kindness must run to meet the tragedies of war. We cannot afford to wait until they are upon us. I do not like to remind all who come to see me asking for national service under the Red Cross of this. There are thousands of simple tasks, but to some this message must go in time for preparation.

War does not alone kill the young men of the land. It leaves freat numbers blind and broken. For these there must be some salvage and expert guidance back into the semblance of normal usefulness.

Few of the mutilations of war are without their counterparts in peace—blindness, crippled and amputated limbs, deafness. The nation that served the unfortunates of peace best will have the largest stock of science to meet the wreckage of war. It is in the blind asylums of peace time that Winifred Holts first do their work; in the homes for crippled children that the fine experiments with crippled limbs are working out. The work that will begin six months from now is a strangely beautiful combination of nursing and teaching.

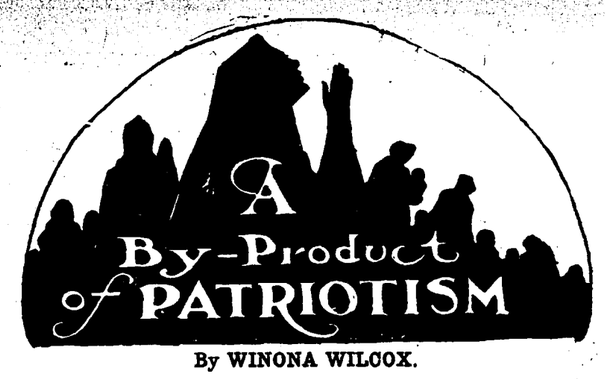
"The heaviest burden on the blind," Helen Kellar said once, "is not blindness but idleness, and they can be relieved of this great burden. Give the blind man the help that shall secure him comfort or partial independence."

The French soldiers blinded in battle have found teachers who have offered themselves in war service and been willing to teach the fingers of these men to see a way to new trades and professions. Blind weavers, stenographers, potters have found a chance to work at these new trades.

If we are to be ready for these men, so ready that they do not have to suffer needless periods of disheartment while we fumble over plans, we must begin at once to systematize our institutions and enlist our teachers for this service. We must find willing and patient volunteers who will begin to study at once how to meet the needs of these men, and we must find money to commandeer the best institutional care that the nation has developed. Those who choose this service should communicate with the department of civilian relief, or the American Red Cross, Washington, D. C.

"Suppose," that is sometimes what I want to say to women, though I know that it is a cruel demand upon the imagination—"suppose it should turn out to be your William, today so strong and with so fine a career in engineering before him, whose sacrifice should come in the way of eyes that shall never see again. Would you hesitate then to give your money willingly that the best in the world should help to somehow make it up to him? Would you hesitate then to spend six months studying now how best to aid him then? Well, war means this. Every woman must say to every other, 'Thy son shall be my son, thy son's sorrow shall be mine!'"

This is the problem we must meet. The money should come quickly. And over the country everywhere women should study the peace time institutions for succoring the blinded and crippled.



By WINONA WILCOX.

Our patriotism is as old as the Fourth of July. This year it is born again. We have celebrated past triumphs of our national spirit annually. Now we consecrate it to future victories.

We are in the great war for a well-defined end. Democracy—perhaps world democracy—is to be the direct product of our new patriotism.

We expect valuable by-products also—surely the unity of the various peoples within our borders, perhaps the vote for women, probably government control of public utilities and the necessities of life.

Men desire, doubt or have faith in these side results according to their political creeds.

To women, the war so far means potatoes at $4 a bushel, while patriotism means knitting sponges for the Red Cross.

But there is one by-product of patriotism which is particularly woman's, and which is not peculiar to any flag. It is Patience.

It is a great modern wonder, this unending patience which began when the first Belgian mother snatched up her babe and fled before the swift gray German hordes. The aged women of Poland knew it as rival armies swept back and forth across their harvest fields. The Armenian women knew it as they left the skeletons of their starved little ones on the desert sands. The Serbian mother knew it when she saw her man-child fight besides his father and his grandsire. French wives know it as they bind up the limbs of their husbands and sons and send them back to the trenches. English women know it as wave after wave of their brave men go up against the Hun. Canadian women know it as they send their big boys overseas.

Of the great nations of the earth only the women of this country have been spared their share in the sorrows of humanity, have been deprived of their lesson in eternal patience.

But at last it is here, conscripting every woman, on this Fourth of July.

It is not yet time for us to be patient with God for the day to weep over our dead is not yet come.

But the earth is full of misery. And it is high time for us to practice patience with common things against the hour of dreadful need; time to smooth out the petty wearinesses of living, to give up our pet grouches, to sacrifice the worrying, weeping, carping, bickering, selfish nagging and hysteria which put so much unnecessary torture into so many homes; time to make ourselves fit to receive the Great Patience which is the by-product of patriotism and woman's heritage of war.

CALLED TO THE COLORS.

A patriotic costume won a $100 Liberty bond for Miss Nephele Bunnell at the recent automobile fashion show at Sheepshead Bay speedway. Miss Bunnell took her color scheme from the stars and stripes. The red-and-white material went into a smoothly fitted bodice and a flowing skirt, while the blue and white was used for a coat lining. A black hat of stunning curves and a swagger sash of black velvet served to emphasize the brilliance of the national colors as a fashion motif.

COLORED ORGANDIE GOWNS FAVORED FOR SUMMER WEAR.

While white is mostly used in association with silk or cloth, colored organdies have not been neglected by any means. One finds it principally in rose, old blue and orchid, combined with crepe de chine, foulard and the resuscitated crepe meteor. Also it is to be noted that the return of the guimpe frock has given impetus to organdies and kindred weaves.

Undoubtedly there is a disposition to treat the slummer wardrobe in the simplest fashion. Some women affect to do this because of the wish to economize during the period of war. This, however, has little to do with the cost of empire garments, since every one knows that it is easier to design a fussy dress than to evolve a simple frock whose style quality depends almost solely on fabric and on line distinction.

Women who have plenty of money should not take a pose of economy just now. It is always reprehensible to spend money if one can not afford it, but if one does not have to count the dollars and cents it is wise to keep them in circulation, and thereby help those who are in need of work. Hysterical alarm and ruthless economy are harmful rather than beneficial.

With the idea of appealing to women of artistic instincts who have money to spend for tentative fashion, a group of women craftsmen has been holding expositions of simple garments, which are in several instances made of materials hand woven, hand dyed and entirely put together by hand.

SOME HOUSEWIFE DON'TS WELL WORTH REMEMBERING

Don't if you husband comes home looking tired or feeling cross, begin to talk to him to find out the trouble until after he has eaten a hearty dinner.

Don't pick on your husband for little faults. Make one big suggestion that he improve and then let it go at that.

Don't knock his friends. You need not accept them, but you can be courteous always.

Don't invite company to dinner and then serve something you have never tried out before.

Don't, whatever goes wrong when you have company, apologize more than once, and don't apologize then if you don't have to.

Don't think that you are so busy with your new household duties and with your husband that you can't find time for your friends.

Don't be a household grind.

In these lessons the English sentence appears in the first line, the French equivalent in the second and the pronunciation in the third line.

In the pronunciation key, straight lines over the letters A and U denote the long sound, as in "hAte" and "dUde;" curved lines over these letters denote the short sound, as in "hAt" and "bUt;" two dots over the U indicate a sound somewhat like the German "ue," which Americans may approach by pronouncing long U and long E at the same time.

AUSTRO-GERMAN FORCES IN RETREAT

Petrograd, July 3.—The new Russian offensive has resulted in the capture of 6,000 more prisoners. The Russians are advancing towards Zlochoff, Galicia, the war office announces.

Russian troops have occupied the Galician villages of Presovce, Zboroff and Korshiduv. The Austo-German forces have retreated westward across the little Stripa river.

Twenty-one guns and several mine throwers were captured. Prisoners continue to be brought in.

The number of prisoners taken in the fighting southeast of Brzezani on Sunday is given as 53 officers and 2,200 men.

According to news received by the government, the offensive on the southwestern front is developing in an absolutely favorable manner.

General Kalen Kaledines, who captured about 80,000 prisoners in a forward movement last year and who is known as the breaker of the Lutz front, has been chosen helman, or leader of the Don Cossacks.

Details from an authorized source of the victorious Russian attack in Galicia state that a Finnish division participated in the victory at Koniuchy. All enemy trenches on the slopes of Mount Srnediaya Goura, east of Koniuchy, were occupied. Besides, the village of Koniuchy and the forest west thereof, as far as Kolf, was taken. All German trenches south of Koniuchy and the wood west of the village of Schibalirm were occupied. Three lines of enemy trenches near Schibalirm, Return of Imperial Regime is Confirmed by News From Pekin.

Tientsin, July 3.—Reports reaching here from Pekin say that the emperor has issued an edict appointing General Chang Hsun premier and viceroy of the province of Chili and that he has named members of the new cabinet including Kang Yu Wei, president of the progressive party to which millions of Chinamen belong, and Hsu Shih Chang, former secretary of state of China, who will head the ministry.

General Chang Hsun sent four delegates to President Li Yuan Hung to demand his resignation but the president paid no attention to them. The Manchus have offered him a grand dukedom. It is reported that General Chang Hsun has forbidden the appearance of newspapers for three days. Liang Chi, the famous reformer, declares that General Chang Hsun's coup is suicidal and says it can not succeed.

HUNTING OF SQUIRREL IN JULY ILLEGAL

Game Commissioner George W. Lindemuth announces that it is illegal and unlawful to hunt squirrels this month. Although it is plainly stated on the back of every hunting license issued that the squirrel season begins July 1 and ends Nov. 1, the legislature at its last session ruled that the squirrel season should be from Aug. 1 to Dec. 1. Although ignorance of the law excuses no one, Mr. Lindemuth asks that hunters of the county pay particular attention to this announcement. The hunting licenses are printed in large consignments and for this reason the dates for the squirrel season have not been changed. TO PRESENT REVENUE ACT

Senate Committee Finishes War Bill for Raising $1,600,000,000.

HAS RIGHT OF WAY AFTER FOOD BILL

More Than Half Billion is to Be Raised by Taxing Various Incomes.

Washington, July 3.—The war tax bill, redrafted and reduced to $1,670,170,000 by the senate finance committee as against the $1,800,000,000 of additional war taxes provide as it came from the house, was completed today. Chairman Simmons of the committee planned to present the measure to the senate today for consideration, which will begin after the food control-prohibition measure is disposed of.

Vastly increased income taxes and levies upon excess profits resulting from war times, liquors and tobacco from the bulk of the new taxation measure, the largest in the country's history.

Upon incomes the bill would impose $532,700,000 in additional taxes; upon excess profits of corporations, partnerships and individuals, $523,000,000; upon liquors, $155,500,000, and upon tobacco, $56,600,000. After formal presentation of the revised bill, Chairman Simmons will later file a report detailing the committee's work of six weeks.

No Additional Bonds Now.

No additional bonds will be authorized under the bill as any deficit, it is believed, can be taken care of by congress in ample time at next December's session, although the measure will all short by many millions of meeting of expenses of the war next year, estimated at $21,326,000,000, not including new appropriations coming for the army and navy.

The revised bill, which is scheduled for material amendment in the senate and further changes in conference, eliminates many objections raised to the house measure by business interests. It also provides basic changes in revenue raising, the latter including a new plan for direct payment of income taxes instead of "collection at the source," also so-called "special" taxes upon special industry, embraced under the house levy of 5 per cent upon gross sales of many manufacturers were eliminated.

The senate committee also rejected the ten per cent general tariff increase, designed to raise $200,000,000, and substituted consumption taxes upon coffee, tea, sugar and cocoa, estimated to yield $86,000,000.

Small Incomes Taxed.

Reduction of income taxation to single persons with incomes over $1,000 annually and married persons at $2,000 and over, with incomes under $5,000 subject to a new "normal" tax of 2 per cent, were house provisions unchanged. The committee reduced rates on incomes over $40,000, de-

MULCT STETTIN FOLKS FOR PART IN FOOD RIOTS

Copenhagen, July 3—Residents of Stettin, Germany, appeared before the military court Saturday to answer for participation in the food riots on June 19 and 20. The six companies of guardsmen who were on the ground last night, the adjutant general explained, were numerically inadequate to cover the wide territory covered by the riots.

He feared that even the additional companies which arrived later bringing the total number of guardsmen here to 1,500, would not be enough to establish authority.

Estimates of the number of dead varied widely from a score to two hundred and fifty.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning twenty-four bodies had been recovered, including three whites. Seventy-four wounded negroes were found.

CHICAGO NEGRO STARTS THINGS AND IS KILLED

Chicago, July 3.—Clarence Kelly, a negro, was shot and instantly killed on an elevated platform early today by a police officer, after he had wounded two people and terrorized a number of others with a long-bladed knife.

Kelly was seated in a car with his feet in the aisle when Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hohing passed through.

Hohing accidentally stumbled over the negro's feet and the latter attacked him, despite Hohing's explanation that it was an accident. As Kelly struck at Hohing the latter threw up his hands to guard himself from the knife and received a cut across his right hand.

The enraged negro then turned on Mrs. Hohing and wounded her slightly before he was seized by passengers and the train crew. When the train arrived at the Belmont station, on the north side, the Hohings left the car to transfer, and Kelly, escaping from his captors, renewed his attack. A policeman summoned from the street below shot and instantly killed the negro.

The stores, however, like the bank, could not be found by investigators sent out by the business houses.

The goods secured in this way, it is believer, ranged in value from bottles of patent medicines and boxes of dried fish to pianos and all the apparatus needed for the establishment of a system of telephones, between the homes of the alleged

CELEBRATE VICTORY IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Leaders of Campaign Rejoice With Demonstration at Country Club.

With the joy and exultation that comes only with the consciousness of a great work well done, the leaders in the recent Red Cross campaign in Allen county gathered at the Country club Monday night to celebrate their $111,000 victory in the great drive. About two hundred citizens were there, comprising the executive committee, members of the eleven teams, the twelve men who started the campaign by subscribing $1,000 each on the first night, and many others who were instrumental in gaining the victory for Allen county.

Dignified citizens threw aside their cares for the time and blew tin horns and shouted with all the zest of youth. There was just enough solemnity to make those present feel the consciousness of a serious national crisis. Different men were called upon to make a few remarks during the course of the evening. Hon. S. M. Foster acted as toastmaster, and among the speakers were B. Paul Mossman, general chairman of the Fort Wayne chapter; Fred Smock, Charles M. Niezer, Judge J. W. Eggeman, Charles Wilding, D. N. Foster, Abe Ackerman, A. E. Thomas and S. F. Bowser.

Mr. Mossman touched upon the great work that the members of the various teams had done, and said that to them should go all of the honor for the great victory. Before he had finished he asked all present to stand for a few moments in silent memory of the late James M. McKay.

C. M. Niezer, in a brief talk, marked with eloquence, said that the Red Cross campaign was just another step toward placing Fort Wayne as the first city in Indiana. "It is fine to sound the clarion call of victory. The grand thing about the Red Cross work is that it is international; it is the one thing that breaks down the barriers of internationalism," concluded Mr. Niezer.

Albert E. Thomas suggested that appreciation should be shown the twelve men who contributed $1,000 each at the start of the campaign by a rising vote of thanks, which was carried out. After the conclusion of the brief speeches, the program was left in the hands of the men, and it was necessary to appoint sergeants-at-arms to preserve order. Judge Eggeman and Tom Lane were given this duty to perform.

The meeting was marked by the same spirit of enthusiasm and rivalry among the different teams that was shown at all the meetings during the campaign. Costumes and hats of different shapes and color were worn. The Lafayettes unveiled a miniature battle ship, called the "Lafayette Relief Ship." Captain Serva, of the Deweys, climbed on a chair and repeated the famous words of Admiral Dewey in the Spanish-American war, "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley," which was answered by three shots from one of the members of his team.

Frank Stouder directed the musical program, and several selections were rendered by the Red Cross double quartet.

BOASTED OF POLICE PULL

Hope to Punish Cocchi.

"We have Maria's interest at heart," said Baroncini. We propose to fight for her reputation and hope to bring her home soon. We are as much shocked as the Cruger family and will do all in our power to punish Cocchi. When I demanded of Cocchi, who was visiting me at Imola, to explain his abandonment of Maria, he lied first, then holding his head in his hands, said: 'This is too much. I must tell somebody.' Tears were streaming down his face and he said over and over again, 'Why did I do it? I did not mean to molest the girl.'

Had Pull With Police.

"Cocchi swore to me he did not assault the girl, but this I do not believe, though I think the crime unpremeditated. Neither do I believe his story of her falling and striking her head. The truth probably never will be known. There are certain details that even a man of that sort is ashamed to tell. Cocchi said he had a pull with the police. When I showed him my motorcycle license, he boasted he did not need one because he knew the police."

Baroncini concluded by defending the reputation of Cocchi's wife.

creasing the revenue return by $66,000,000. It also struck out inheritance taxes designed to raise $6,000,000 and retroactive taxes on 1916 incomes for a further reduction of $108,000,000. After many changes the final committee draft contains the proposed tax of five per cent upon profits of publishers in excess of $4,000, estimated to raise $7,500,000, and adds an increase of one quarter of a cent a pound on second class postage rates, estimated to yield $3,000,000. Strenuous efforts are expected in the senate for amendments of the tax on publishers.

But Three Against It.

Except for Senators La Follette, Thomas and Gore, the committee's revision has the general support of the entire republican and democratic members, which for the first time in the history of revenue legislation united in amending the house measure. The three senators who voted against the final draft expect to advocate Senator La Follette's substitute, providing for imposition of all war taxes upon incomes, excess profits, liquor and tobacco. With most committee members reserving right to offer amendments and with many senators planning other amendments, debate in the senate is expected to last several weeks and the final tax scheme ultimately worked out in conference.

EAST ST. LOUIS RACE RIOT MAY NOT BE ABATED

smouldering debris where fires consumed scores of negro shacks and houses last night run into the hundreds.

The city was quiet this morning. Saloons were still closed. Sleepy-eyed guardsmen with marks of fire fighting still on their khaki patrolled the streets and guarded bridges and saloon doors. Otherwise the city appeared normal. There were broken windows here and there, other wreckage and the breeze carried the acrid smell of water-soaked embers.

Negroes driven from their homes huddled here and there, seemingly anxious to keep out of sight. Five hundred of them, men, women and children, spent the night at the city jail. Two men were still asleep in one bath tub when the sun rose, and another was slumbering noisily, his chin on his chest, but otherwise bolt upright on a garbage can. The floors were packed with disheveled refugees.

Bits of clothing taken from dead negroes were shown today by souvenir hunters.

A Brutal Incident.

One brutal incident of the night was related today. On Fourth street, near Broadway, three men saw a negro, apparently dead, lying in a gutter. One flashed a pocket light in his face and saw that he still breathed.

"Well, what do you know about that?" he exclaimed, "not dead yet." He and one of his companions drew their pistols and fired a bullet into the negro's head.

Policemen today tried to prevent the taking of photographs of fire ruins and black bodies still lying in the streets. "It's the chief's orders," said one blue coat. "East St. Louis doesn't want that kind of advertising."

The causes deeply underlying the disturbances are said to be of interest to many other northern communities where negro labor has been brought in to replace men enlisted in the armed forces of the United States or who have been tempted to other sections by high wages paid in munitions factories.

Too Many Negroes.

In East St. Louis with a population of about 84,000 there was already a large negro colony, and the war influx increased the proportion to an extent which caused much comment.

Unrest among the whites smouldered and even flamed up last May, when in a small riot three negroes were shot and wounded and a number beaten.

An incident of the night indicated the temper of the mobs. One crowd went about the street shouting against the mayor. "Let's get Mollman," they shouted. "He's the man that brought 'em in."

The cry was raised because of a false rumor that Mayor Mollman went south and advertised that negro labor would be well paid in East St. Louis. As a matter of fact the mayor visited New Orleans and conferred with railroad heads and others to discourage the negroes from coming.

Another of the innumerable brutal incidents of the night was the attack on a young negress. White men and women were among the assailants.

Acts of Pure Savagery.

"Let the women have her," was the cry among the men, and white women began tearing the garments from their victim. The negress' cry of "Please, please, I ain't done nothing," was stopped by a blow in the mouth with a club which a woman swung like a baseball bat. Another white woman seized the victim's hands and the blow was repeated. Fingers tore at her hair and her waist was stripped from her.

"Now, let's see how fast she can run," suggested a bystander, as the negress broke loose. The women were loathe to leave her alone, but after following her with their blows for a short distance they stopped and she ran crying down the street.

The women next tried to get an aged negress who was guarded by three militiamen. One of the women wrestled with the soldier for his rifle and others succeeded in getting in a few blows.

Three hundred and ten dwellings, mostly negro shacks, valued at $300,000, were destroyed by fire in the rioting last night, according to a statement made today by Fire Chief M. J. Tobin.

Burning of negro homes began last night before darkness and the mobs went from section to section setting fires. As the negroes ran from their cottages, rioters fired at them, and many fell back into the flames and it is believed that a number were burned to death.

White Women and Girls Riot.

Not only white men, but white women and girls composed the mobs which set upon the negroes and in several cases beat them to death with clubs. White women and girls attacked colored women on the streets and in the street cars, pulled their hair out, tore off their clothes and beat them with all sorts of weapons.

The rioting last night was the culmination of a series of disturbances which began with the killing of a police officer and the wounding of three policemen and two civilians early Monday morning.

All saloons have been closed for an indefinite period.

The fires were set by the mobs during the night, in five districts of the city where negroes lived, besides burning nearly two hundred negro cottages, destroyed more than one hundred loaded freight cars belonging to the Southern railway, valued at half a million dollars.

The Broadway theater valued at more than $100,000, also was burned. Although the fires burned for several hours they were brought under control before daylight.

Small Army of Guards.

Eleven companies of the Illinois National Guard, numbering about 1,500 men, patrolled the streets today with orders to prevent any loitering at corners and any assembly of people on the streets. Adjutant General Frank Dickson of Illinois, who arrived late last night, said that the troops would be disposed throughout the city to prevent repetition of last night's disorders.

General Dickson said that military rule had not been established and probably would not be. Mayor Mollman of East St. Louis, the adjutant general said, asked for a declaration of military rule, and this fact gave rise to the statement that it actually had been proclaimed.

Only one white man was killed in last night's rioting and he was shot by a negro sniper. Two negroes were hanged during the night by mobs and four killed by snipers. The work of searching the ruins for bodies began before daylight and it was reported that eight bodies had been taken to various undertaking establishments.

Negroes Flee the City.

Hundreds of negroes, many of them women carrying babies, crossed into St. Louis, Mo., last night. At the same time thousands of curiosity seekers from the Missouri side crossed the bridges into East St. Louis, making it more difficult for the police and national guard to restore order.

Hundreds of negroes are employed in the big mills at Granite City, and many of them live in East St. Louis. Some of the mills desiring to save their men from attack, would not allow the negroes to leave for home at the usual hour.

Early today the guardsmen, under command of Adjutant General Dickson, rounded up more than 500 rioters and brought them to the city jail.

The troops who were on duty during the most serious disturbances, being under civil authority, were ordered not to shoot. This resulted in a number of rifles being taken forcibly from the soldiers.

Why Troops Did Not Fire.

In explanation of the failure of the troops to fire on the mobs, General Dickson said that the purpose for which the troops had been sent had been gained without firing a shot and wholesale bloodshed would have been the result of any firing on the part of the troops.

Squads of soldiers sent out to bring in firearms found in possession of any whites or negroes, seized dozens of revolvers, rifles and shotguns. One youth found with a meat cleaver concealed under his coat, said he would have used it to kill a negro had an opportunity been offered.

One of the results of the fires was to plunge parts of the city into darkness and surgeons at St. Mary's hospital and the emergency operating room, opened in the city hall, were forced to do their work while policemen held flashlights or candles over the tables.

Attacked by White Women.

In the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yards a negro woman leading a small child was attacked by white women who were following a mob. The negro woman seized the child in her arms and ran into a cottage which the white women bombarded with stones and shunks of coal. The woman escaped without serious injury.

Col. O. S. Trip, of the Illinois guard, was the chief figure in a sensational rescue of an aged negro. The black, with a rope around his neck, was being dragged through a street by more than a hundred men. An automobile bearing Colonel Tripp and City Attorney Fekete appeared as the mob was about to hang the negro to a pole. Colonel Tripp left his car and forced his way through the mob, which allowed him to take charge of the black without molestation.

Later, the city attorney rescued a negro at which a mob was shooting. He placed the negro in his machine and after a ten minute parley with the mob, was allowed to depart.

With the exception of isolated encounters between whites and negroes at widely separated points the rioting virtually ceased at midnight.

MEETS DEATH IN ELEVATOR

curred in the Browning hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. Hunter made their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter had taken a suite of rooms at the hotel during the day and were just moving in from their former residence, 340 Morris avenue, S. E. The accident occurred one floor below their suite, wherein Mrs. Hunter was awaiting her husband.

Upon entering the elevator Mr. Hunter called for the fourth floor. With him in the cage was Mrs. J. B. Mooney. Mrs. Mooney got off at the third floor, and Mr. Hunter, still unfamiliar with the hotel, thinking he had reached his own landing, pushed back the doors, after they had been closed and was about to step out, as the colored conductor, not noticing what Mr. Hunter had done, started the car upward.

Mr. Hunter was trapped between the doors and his skull was crushed by the impact with the ceiling. He was then thrown backwards from the cage to the hallway on the third floor, part of his body hanging over the edge of the pit.

Immediately after seeing that his passenger had been entrapped between the double doors of the cage, the operator reversed the current and, as the elevator descended to the third floor, the floor of the cage struck the body of Mr. Hunter. It is believed, however, that he was instantly killed by the blow on the head.

Drs. Collins H. Johnston and R. H. Hutchinson, who were summoned, pronounced death instantaneous.

Mrs. Hunter was prostrated by the shock and was taken to the residence by O. H. P. Hughart, president of the G. R. & I., 430 Morris avenue, S. E., where she was placed under the care of a nurse.

The deceased was a son-in-law of the late P. S. O'Rourke, superintendent of the southern division of the G. R. & I. He was also a brother-in-law of William S. O'Rourke, 1401 Washington boulevard west. During P. S. O'Rourke's administration as superintendent Mr. Hunter was trainmaster here, and upon his death was promoted to the position of superintendent. Later he was made superintendent of the northern division, and moved to Grand Rapids some years ago, where he had since resided. He was a very capable railroad man, and was particularly well known in railroad circles.

Mr. Hunter was born March 27, 1857, and began his railway career in the Pennsylvania offices at Lima, coming from that city to Fort Wayne to take employment in the telegraph office of the company. He was soon made a train dispatcher, then chief dispatcher and master of transportation, succeeding P. S. O'Rourke as superintendent. In August, 1905, he was transferred to the more important division at Grand Rapids.

The widow survives him.

PARIS GIRLS STEAL KISSES

barracks. The crowds waved American and French flags. Hundreds of Americans were in the throng at the station.

As the troops swung through the streets, French girls pinned bouquets and American flags on the soldiers' breasts. Flowers were scattered along the route. The band played "Yanked Doodle," "Dixie," "Marching Through Georgia," and other American airs. French soldiers on leave grasped the hands of the Americans and marched beside them.

Girls Steal Kisses.

Several times groups of shop girls on their way to work slipped through the police lines and kissed the soldiers, to their great embarrassment. Now and then an American voice would be heard calling out, "Hello, boys." "Welcome to Paris," or "Good luck." When the regimental colors were carried past the men bared their heads. The Americans were greatly surprised to see a number of children kneel in the street as the flag was carried by. They were orphans from an institution in the neighborhood.

The soldierly bearing of the men impressed the military observers. They were lean and brown and the new field packs gave them quite a different appearance from British or continental soldiers.

also two lines of trenches northwest of Zoloukhi and similar positions southwest of Potoutory and east and southeast of Nitchischou fell into the hands of the Russians.

FRANCE REJOICES.

Paris, July 3.—The Russian offensive shares with the American army in France the honors of the day in the French newspapers. The splendid news from General Brussiloff's headquarters, coming on the heels of the arrival of the American vanguard, fills France's cup of joy to overflowing. The temporary wave of despondency and impatience which found an outward manifestation in two dozen interpellations of the government in the chamber of deputies, has vanished.

The reappearance of the Russian army on the scene of the great war drama had been discussed in France some time past, but the general public had hardly shared the optimism of public men who returned from visits to Russia. The ally's loyalty never had been doubted but her ability to carry out big military operations at an early date had been questioned. The news, therefore, came as an agreeable surprise and morning newspapers hastened to make an honorable amend.

BERLIN OFFICIAL REPORT.

Berlin, July 3.—Via London,—Russian troops broke forward across the heights on the western bank of the Stripa, in Galicia, and succeeded in extending northward the gap they made in the Teutonic lines the previous day, army headquarters announced today.

At Koniuchy, the German statement says, strong Russian attacks broke down with heavy losses. The Russians did not find strength to repeat their attacks against the Brezezanni heights.

GERMANS REPULSED.

Paris, July 3.—The Germans made repeated attacks last night on the Aisne front, on both sides of the Allies' Paissy road. The most violent fighting continued throughout the night. Today's official announcement says the Germans were thrown back each time and finally abandoned the effort this morning.

The French also repulsed German attacks on the Verdun front, between hill 304 and Avocourt wood.

"The country shall be administered according to the constitutional laws promulgated by the late emperor.

"Expenses of the imperial household shall remain the same as those fixed by the republic.

"Bloodprinces shall not be allowed to interfere in politics.

"There shall be no difference between them is allowed.

"All foreign treaties and contracts shall remain in force.

"The stamp tax and other petty taxes are abolished.

"The republican criminal civil code is abolished and that introduced the first year under Hsung Tung's government is reinstated.

"Political offenders are pardoned.

"The wearing of queues is optional."

A hundred Japanese have arrived to strengthen the legation guard. There is no news of President Li Yuan Hung's expected resignation.

MAY RAILWAY EARNINGS.

Washington, July 3.—May reports to the interstate commerce commission from 72 of the 186 principal railroads of the country show an increase in earnings over May, 1916. The net revenues for May this year were $48,134,746; last year, $46,981,930. Western railroads made a gain of more than $3,000,000, although both eastern and southern roads suffered slight decreases.

APPLICATIONS ARE COMING TOO SLOWLY

Men 25 to 35 Years of Age in Great Demand for Second Officers' Camp.

"It has been the experience in the armies of Europe that men between the ages of 25 and 35 years make the best officers. Men of these ages, with a certain amount of business experience, are what we want for the second Officers' Training Camps, which open August 27."

This is the statement made by the examining officer of this district, who is now considering applications for the new training camp. Capt. E. H. Kilbourne, local chairman of the Military Training Camps Association, has been in direct touch with the examining officer and makes public the words of the latter.

"From the way in which applications are coming in, it is evident that many younger fellows have misconstrued the government's circular which stated that men over 31 would be given preference in the new training camp. While it is very true that older men are wanted, this should discourage no one of 25 years of age, and even younger, from putting in his request for admission. A man's chances for being accepted are greater if he is over 26 or 28—but there will be a large number of the 25-year class wearing the khaki as officers.

"It seems that many who have asked for applications for the new camp are still holding them. In the case of the younger men, this is a big mistake. The sooner their names are on file, the more chance they have of getting in on the ground floor and having the opportunity to be an officer in the new national army.

"We want to have plenty of time to thoroughly consider the merits of the younger men."

In an attempt to get older men to fill the more responsible positions in the New National Army," says Capt. E. H. Kilbourne, "many have not realized that men of 25 years and up have an excellent chance to be accepted.

"Men, more men, and still more men, are wanted for this second Officers' Training Camp, opening August 27. There are only two weeks more to apply. No one will be considered after July 15. This is at once the duty and the opportunity for men between the ages of 25 and 44 to give the government the benefit of their experience, of their services, as leaders of the second National Army of 500,000 men."

MRS. FLORENCE AUSTIN CHASE

MRS. FLORENCE AUSTIN CHASE GIVES ADVICE TO HOUSEWIVES

One of America's Foremost Authorities on Scientific Cooking and Pure Foods

Thousands of women are daily guided in their cooking by the advice and suggestions of this most eminent authority. Mrs. Chase has shown those housewives how to materially reduce the high cost of living and secure better results in every branch of cooking—she has given them the benefit of her scientific methods—she has shown them how to avoid impure foods.

A graduate of the University of Chicago—a domestic science lecturer of national fame—she knows which is best through exhaustive experiments and the constant study of scientific cooking and pure foods.

One of the subjects nearest her heart—one which she has given endless study—one which she considers of vital importance—is baking and baking powders. In a recent interview Mrs. Chase said:

"I use Calumet Baking Powder because I find it absolutely dependable and uniform, and because it has more leavening strength than most baking powders. Like every other domestic science lecturer, I am interested in reducing the high cost of living and am interested in Calumet, because it is sold at a moderate price.

"The wholesomeness of the ingredients which are used in the manufacture of Calumet is attested by the Remsen Referee Board, appointed by the President of the United States and also by the medical profession.

"In my work on the lecture platform, I must use a baking powder which is wholesome beyond question and which is absolutely dependable, and Calumet meets all my requirements."

An endorsement by Mrs. Chase of any particular product is without dispute absolute proof that that brand is superior to all.

She has found through tests, as you will find the first time you use Calumet, that Calumet is the one baking powder that absolutely insures uniform results—that its wonderful leavening strength produces the lightest, most healthful, tastiest bakings—that its wholesomeness makes all bakings nourishing and delicious. She has found that Calumet is pure in the can and pure in the baking—her tests prove conclusively, as do those of millions of housewives who always use Calumet, that it goes farther than other baking powders. If you now judge baking powder according to price, you are making a vital mistake.

Get a can of Calumet at once on the money-back guarantee—test it every way—bake everything with it. If it does not beat your present favorite brand in every way, your grocer is authorized to refund your money—you risk absolutely nothing. Begin now to enjoy real bakings—to save money.

Remember, Calumet it used by millions of housewives and domestic science teachers everywhere.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN DID NOT GET TO SHOW

Member of Company is Taken Ill and Doctors Disagree.

[Special to The Sentinel.]

Antwerp, Ohio. July 3.—The Uncle Tom's Cabin show, which was to give a performance here Monday, was not permitted to on account of the illness of one of the members of the company. He had been suffering with a sore throat and went to a doctor for medicine, who, on examination, pronounced it a case of diphtheria, and notified the health officer, who promptly made efforts to have the case quarantined. In the meantime the management of the show, not feeling satisfied, had two other doctors called who pronounced it a case of tonsilitis.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

FISHBACK'S SECOND TRIAL SET FOR JULY 16

Mont Daiken Is Arrested for Complicity in Killing of Roy Brown.

Hartford City, Ind., July 3.—Judge Eichhorn today announced his intention to convene a special session of the Blackford circut court July to retry William Fishback for the alleged murder of Roy E. Brown, Redkey grocer.

Attorneys for both sides agreed to the trial date and suggested the court order a special venire of fifty names for jury service.

Both the state and defense say they have procured additional evidence. The states has caused th earrest of Mont (Skinny) Daiken on a charge of complicity in the killing of Brown. Daiken was called as a witness in the Fishback trial but could not be found. The state contends the Redkey grocer was choked, that his body was taken to the Bowser livery barn, where an attempt was made to revive him, and, failing in this, the corpse was taken to the Daiken home, where it was concealed in a dugout until the search for the missing man was begun. Then, it is alleged, the slayers, fearing it would be found, hauled the body at night to the Weis farm, where they intended concealing it in an abandoned well. Instead the body was thrown in a fence corner, the slayers having been frightened by a shot fired by Weis, who thought he heard some one after his chickens.

Daiken is the third person arrested in the case. Ray Landess is in jail at Portland awaiting trial, having been jointly indicted with Fishback.

Harry Weist, who, with Kile Hale, was charged by the defense with the murder, is said to be a deserter from the army. The state had applied to the adjutant general for an order to bring Weist back as a witness.

ELECTRIC PLANT AT SYRACUSE IS SOLD

Hawks Company Takes Over Property —Consideration Is $70,000.

Warsaw, Ind., July 3.—What constitutes one of the largest cash deals made in Kosciusko county in recent years was closed Monday between the Warsaw Investment company of Warsaw and the Hawks Electric company of Goshen. By virtue of the agreement of purchase and sale already made and guaranteed by a cash deposit of $10,000, the Investment company has sold to the Hawks Electric company the Syracuse Light and Power property, which they have owned and operated for about five years.

The Syracuse Light and Power company has furnished the electric light and power for Syracuse, Benton, Milford and the properties around Wawasee lake.

The cash consideration of $70,000 constitutes one of the largest made in the history of Kosciusko county. The sale came as a surprise to the people of the county, as there had been no mention of a deal until Mr. Ker, president of the Investment company, announced the fact yesterday.

MISS TERHUNE APPOINTED.

Huntington, Ind., July 3.—Miss Mary Terhune, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Thomas B. Terhune, has been appointed head of the modern languages department of Hanover college, and will teach French and Spanish.... Emil Herrick, age 17, will go through life with a stiff ankle because a motorist drove on the wrong side of the road and struck Herrick's motorcycle when the latter turned across the road to escape. The bones in Herrick's right ankle were splintered. The machine did not stop.

WILL MARRY IN KENTUCKY.

Decatur, Ind., July 3.—Fred Weber will leave next Saturday for Hardinsburg, Ky., where he will be married on Tuesday, July 10, to Miss Christena Hook. They will make their future home in Fort Wayne, where Mr. Weber has accepted a position as assistant shipping clerk at the Fort Wayne General Electric works.

URGE WOMEN TO REGISTER.

Huntington, Ind., July 3.—The poll of women by the Equal Franchise league began in Huntington Monday. The poll takers will urge women to register for the constitutional convention election, and seek data as to special abilities of women that could be used in war work.

win joined the organization on the opening day. He had traveled 5,000 miles by water and rail in a wooden box. He was scarce two years old and none too strong. Things looked dark for Darwin, but he took to civilization like a duck to water, and under the tutelage of William Chambers, head animal trainer, he has developed like an infant prodigy.

Chambers has remarkable ideas on the subject of animal training and one of them is that all animals in common with human beings feel the influence of the zodiac. "My father put me in this way of thinking when I was a boy," Chambers explained in a recent interview, "and I have had occasion to thank him many times for his teaching. I would no more think of trying to train an animal without knowing the sign under which he was born than I would think of planting corn in December. Take Darwin, for instance, his horoscope has been substantiated in numerous ways. Some people, of course, may deem my theories a joke, but I have never known them to fail. They have helped me master several hundred wild beasts."

As a special feature of the animal exhibit of the Ringling Brothers' circus, which is to appear in this city on Thursday, July 12, will be one section which will be devoted entirely to African exhibits.

TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1917.

ORNAMENTING CIVILIZATION.

The race riots in East St. Louis are different only in extent, not in kind, from similar outbreaks elsewhere. From one provocative and another, but all having root in a prejudice that will be the more easily dealt with if frankly admitted, these wars of the whites and the blacks recur with considerable frequency.

In East St. Louis the trouble appears to have had its start from the heavy importations of colored laborers. This has been resented by white men and it was the mainspring of trouble that took place some weeks ago, when that city was the scene of violence. The present riot has developed perhaps the most extensive and serious uprising against negroes in any community since the draft riots in New York, though Atlanta a few years ago had an affair of the sort that took some eminence. In any event, the bloody incident at East St. Louis highly ornaments the civilization in the midst of which it occurred. This is the more so the case, because of the of bloodshed and incendiarism the state troops fact that before the riots reached their climax of Illinois had been poured by hundreds into the turbulent city to quell the disorder and to prevent what afterwards took place.

There may be mitigations, but at this distance it looks as though some one were due to be called to account for the failure of the soldiers to do their duty early in the riots. It is recounted in the dispatches to the press that members of the mob relieved scores of soldiers of their guns and that these arms later were employed against the negroes. There was no serious attempt, it would appear, to suppress the rioting and prevent wholesale slaughter and arson until after the violence of the mob had been abated somewhat by the fury of its own exertions. The governor of Illinois ought to have a heart to heart talk with the commander of the soldiers he sent to East St. Louis to restore order.

As to the riot itself and its consequences to the colored people, the negroes in this instance have their own kind to blame for the war made upon them. Negro mobs were abroad and one crowd defied the police and murdered an officer. That was a fine start for the bloody work in a community where much less was needed to stir the white folks to a wild pitch of fury against the black folks. The negroes who took part in the earlier stages of the riot were looking for trouble and they found no end of it. The affair is bloody enough and bad enough, but it is not likely to mark the close of the war of the races in East St. Louis unless the local authorities start out resolved to make an end of it. The bad blood is likely to leap to heat at any time—a contingency that the governor of Illinois ought to keep in mind.

There have been fears expressed for a year past that the heavy importation of colored labor from southern states to northern industrial centers would breed race troubles and the East St. Louis affair offers some proof of the danger. Down south there will be no great regret over the matter. Almost anything that will discourage colored labor from abandoning its wonted fields for the better wages offered in the north will be welcomed and approved.

CUTTING OFF NEUTRALS.

It may in some ways go hard with the neutral nations of western Europe to encounter an American embargo on foodstuffs, but whatever the degree the price will be just. They have invited the measures under which they now must suffer. Through these neutrals Germany has been obtaining a large volume of food—enough, according to the estimate of Mr. Herbert C. Hoover, to feed her armeis. It has entirely ceased to be any part of America's business to purvey to Germany's needs.

The embargo will not condemn the neutrals to starvation. They will be permitted certain determined amounts of certain foodstuffs that they will doubtless value sufficiently to keep when they get them and not pass them on over the frontiers to Germany. This will cut off a good deal of ready and easy money from the factors in neutral countries who have been furnishing American foodstuffs to the German commissary. It is quite likely that the percentage of the commissions has been high enough to make the business attractive and a hard line of trade to be given up. Those who have been gaining from it doubtless have gained enough to leave substantial consolations for the extinction of their business.

As Mr. Hoover has stated, the blockade of Germany ought now to be made a complete and effectual blockade, which certainly it has not been while that the western neutrals have been able to get immense stores of food from America to deliver to Germany. The increase in our commerce with those countries since the war began, as compared with our commerce in normal times, shows to what an immense extent American foodstuffs must have been going into Germany. The embargo will well-night put an end to the feeding of the German army on what is raised in America.

The consequences will be in more than one way of advantage to America and her allies. There will be more food for them, which is important, and it will have some effect to shorten the war. It also ought to exert some influence on prices in this country, though that will not be of so much moment after the food control law is in operation as it might else have become.

EXEMPTION BOARDS IMPORTANT.

It is emphasized in President Wilson's proclamation relating to the use of the conscription law that much depends upon the exemption boards. Indeed, if the new law is to be made to work with success, more depends upon the administration of the exemption phases of it than upon any other feature of the law.

There will be in every community a good many slackers who will seek to escape service by certificate of unfitness for service, because of dependents or of employment. The exemption board will have to judge of the character and justice of such claims. Its responsibility to the government of course is paramount, but its responsibility to men of conscriptable age but not of conscriptable fitness or condition is also heavy. The thing is that the government be not hampered in any wise in the work of getting an army of suitable and fit men and that at the same time the draft do not clutch any young man who for any good reason ought not to be drafted.

So it is that the exemption boards have a difficult and trying task. They will be made to feel displeasure here and there and they will be brought much in contact with "pull." The president realizes and appreciates these conditions under which the boards will have to discharge their onerous and trying tasks. Working with a patriotic sense of duty uppermost is about all the consolation the members of exemption boards are likely to find in their labors of selecting and passing near three-quarters of a million young men needed for the army. Consider that there are many eligibles whose near and dear never had any notion that they were raising them to be soldiers and will do their very best bit for the registered youngsters, and some notion can be gained of the pressure to which exemption boards are likely to be subjected.

In the majority of cases there will be no overtures or interferences, but there will be in enough of them to make it clear to the boards that selecting men for the draft is a regular job and not altogether a smooth and agreeable job.

For a fellow just coming out of a long and delectable hop dream, the Russ has taken to a renewal of the war with a dash and vim and bound-to-have-it spirit that must be as great a surprise as it is a shock to the Teutonic allies. The first plunge into the new war she has started lands Russia on gained ground and delivers some ten thousand prisoners into her hands. That is admittedly a grand reopening for business that has some exclusive and unexpected features. The Russians are showing some of the stuff of which democracies are made.

Being afraid the young men who went as Illinois national guards to suppress disorders in East St. Louis would hurt somebody with their guns, the gentlemanly mobs kindly relieved the soldiers of the weapons. This must be written down as the ultimate in spirit of deference to mobs.

The president has at length got where he is going to be damned fervidly and plenteously, no matter what happens in the booze fight. A country that is two-thirds "dry" and still consumes about two billions worth of quenchers a year perforce has divided opinions.

China's emperor has come back, but it is not yet clear that China's president has vacated. There appears to be a fine prospect of a lively dispute for possession of the primeses.

There is much evidence that the Sillie Sallies of the silent patrol in Washington, having got into jail, are for the first time happy.

A NEW CONSTITUTION
By John A. Lapp, Bureau of Legislative Information

Home Rule for Cities Will Correct Abuses and Make Municipal Government Responsive

(Copyright 1917 by John A. Lapp.)

The people's work is performed through national, state and local governments. Each has its own separate tasks to perform and altogether the needs of our hundred millions of people are provided for. The most important of the local governments is the city which is organized to meet the special needs of large aggregations of people living close together.

Now if we were to organize the government of this country without any other influence except common sense, we would provide that those things which concern the city should be looked after by the city, those matters which are broader than a city should be looked after by the state; and those matters which are broader than single states should be cared for by the nation.

In practice, however, no such privilege of self-government is granted to the cities of this state. The cities may not do a single thing which has not been expressly authorized by the state legislature. No matter whether the thing to be done has no concern for anyone outside the city, the state legislature must first give its consent.

The state makes the city merely its ward. It first lays down the form of government of each of the five classes into which the cities are divided. Every officer that may be appointed is specified; the salaries which are to be paid are fixed; and in great detail the duties of officers are laid down.

Having given the form of government the legislature proceeds to fix the powers of the city. In one section of the code are specified fifty-two separate powers which the city council may exercise. To this are added the innumerable special acts granting this and that authority. Then there are specifications of the powers of the board of public works, the board of safety, the health department and the executive offices. At no point is the city free to do anything which it is not expressly authorized to do.

This plan of government of cities is in marked contrast to the government of cities throughout the world. In every country in the civilized world except Turkey the cities are free to do anything for the benefit of their citizens which is not expressly prohibited. We allow our cities to do only what we tell them in advance they may do; other countries tell their cities that they may do anything which they are not forbidden in advance to do.

As a result of our method with our cities there is no freedom to proceed with the commonest duty unless in the long list of powers granted it is found that the particular power has been granted. If it has not been granted, then the city proceeds to ask the legislature at the next session to grant the power. The legislature consisting of one hundred fifty men from all parts of the state sit in judgment on whether this city or that city shall have this or that petty power.

In the session of 1917 the legislature authorized cities of the second class to have an additional clerk in the office of the controller. Another act authorized Indianapolis to employ a purchasing agent and another authorized Indianapolis to build a sewage system. These are powers which the cities ought to have without asking the legislature. They are matters of purely local concern. Yet, the time of the legislature was taken up with their consideration and the cities had to await the will of the legislature to do these obvious things.

The dependence of the city on the state in such matters destroys the efficiency of the city but it does worse than that for the citizens. When the citizens see their hopeful efforts constantly thwarted by such petty restrictions, they lose not only their efficiency but their public spirit.

The necessity of going to the legislature constantly for power to do things brings a flood of special requests. Each city wants something different and for fear other cities would oppose them, they try to ask it for themselves alone. But since a law may not be passed applying to a single city, the city asks for the act in general terms. Thus a city having a population of not more than 58,000 and not less than 53,000 want a park system or a playground. There is only one city in the description but the wording is general. Another of a different population wants something else and so on until the legislature is swamped with these special bills in the disguise of general statutes. It is bad enough to have to ask authority for a thing which a city wants for itself, but when the whole legislative machinery is clogged by such requests, it is itme to call a halt.

The remedy for the condition is home rule and home rule consists of two vital factors:

1. Every city should have the right to decide on its own form of government and frame its own charter. The city should be free to have the federal form, the commission form or the commission manager form of government as it chooses and should be allowed to provide for such officers and assistants as it needs.

2. Certain powers of cities should be fixed in the constitution so that the legislature may not take them away and in general terms the city should be granted the right to do all things for the common benefit of the people which are not forbidden

Among the specific things which place schackles upon the city today which should be removed is the provision fixing the debt limit of the cities at 2 per cent. of their valuation, this low debt limitation prevents the city from going into debt for doing many things which the business sense of the community would dictate. The limit is absolutely low and is still further reduced by the low valuation. If property is assessed at only 50 per cent. of its value, then the debt limit is cut in two and instead of a 2 per cent. debt limit we have a 1 per cent. limit. It is plain that no great amount of public utility service could be provided by the city when the debt limit is only 1 per cent. The best thought of the country sanctions a limit much higher than 2 per cent. and even that higher limit would not be allowed to stand against a favorable vote of the people for a greater debt.

Likewise in the case of taxation. Present laws fix the amount which a city may tax itself for each purpose. No matter what a city's needs may be, there stands the limitation. The city itself ought to be the judge of the amount it shquld raise and spend, although certain limits should not be passed without a favorable vote of the people of the city.

The absurdity of debt limitations has found its own correction but it has destroyed efficiency to do it. When it was found that 2 per cent was too low a debt limit for all purposets, the idea of a separate corporation with a similar debt was born. So we have the school city and the civil city each with a 2 per cent limit. Now comes the further extension of the same idea in the establishment of a third corporation in Indianapolis—theSanitary District, another 2 per cent debt limit. In Indianapolis then, there is a debt limit of 6 per cent, but to get it the powers of the people had to be scattered into three separate corporations. The limitations are likewise evaded by the establishment of special taxing districts.

The answer to all of the jumble of city government is to set the city free to work out its own problems subject only to such limitations as will prevent them from over-riding the just interests of the larger community —the state. Freedom of cities means greater efficiency in action for common welfare, greater responsibility on the part of the citizens, and a government which is more directly responsible to the people.

BEST GAS ENGINE WILL ACHIEVE VICTORY WITH IT PREDICTS AN EXPERT

(By BASIL M. MANLY.)

"An internal combustion war" is the way C. F. Clarkson, secretary of the Society of Automotive Engineers, describes the gigantic conflict between the allies and the centrol powers.

"This war will be won," he says in explanation, "by the group of nations that can make the best applications of the principles of internal combustion, as illustrated in the gasoline engine, to the machinery of war and then produce these war machines in the greatest quantities.

"Internal combustion today is the vital factor in the decision under the sea, on the sea, on the land and in the air.

"Under the sea we have the submarines, driven by internal combustion oil engines.

"On the sea are the 'sub-chasers' with gasoline engines.

"Above the sea are the gasoline-driven seaplanes, scouting constantly to locate submarines.

"On land are the motor trucks and the 'tanks'—the dreadnoughts of the land.

"In the air above the battle lines are the airplanes—the eyes of the army, the twentieth century cavalry, and the potential destroyers of munitions plants, canals and railroad connections.

"And far behind the battle lines, the ultimately decisive factor in war—food for the fighting men—rests on that ungainly new work animal, the farm tractor. With the terrific drains on man-power and animal power that this war has caused it would be next to impossible to feed the armies and people of the fighting nations for any number of future seasons without the tractor.

"The greatest contribution of America to victory are her tremendous resources for the practical application of internal combustion. These resources in automobile factories, tractor factories, airplane factories, engine plants, and scores of other American establishments are now being mobilized and within a few months will begin to produce these ultra-modern war machines in enormous quantities.

"All military authorities agree that when these huge squadrons of internal combustion fighting machines—especially the airplanes—reach the front, the doom of the central powers will be sealed."

ENGLAND PENSIONING MOTHERS AND FINDS PROFIT IN THE PLAN

BY JUDGE HENRY NEIL.

Father of Mothers' Pensions in the United States.

The mother's pension system as we know it in the United States is now established in England. One district of over 700,000 population, the West Ham Union, one-tenth part of London, has adopted and put into operation the pensioning of good mothers with dependent children by giving them a stated allowance of money each month on condition that these mothers stay at home and give proper care to their own children.

They found that compelling these mothers to leave their homes and go out to work ruined both the mothers and the children.

There are now 1,400 mothers with nearly 5,000 children receiving this allowance.

These are all mothers of dependent children who would be compelled to put their children in poor law institutions if they did not receive pension. They are not war widows, but women whose husbands are dead or deserted and were not soldiers.

The pensioning of war widows is an entirely different system.

The authorities here have found that juvenile crime is greatly reduced by this mother's pension system, just as we have found this to be true in the United States.

London taxpayers are also finding out that it cost much less to hire the child's own mother to give it proper care than it did to hire an institution, and it saves the mother as well as the child.

I am now going to Paris to start a campaign for mothers' pension system in France.

GOOD NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

[Indianapolis News.]

The best news that the world has had from Russia for some time is the announcement that there is now strong opposition in Germany for a separate peace. This probably means that the imperial government realizes that such a peace is impossible. But there are other cheering signs. Mr. Root is being enthusiastically welcomed, and it is evident that his speeches are making a great impression, and on the classes that it is specially necessary to impress. He has received assurances that there is no chance whatever for a separate peace. What is wanted is a real peace between democratic nations. There are signs pointing to a complete reorganization of the Russian army, which is now prepared and determined to fight the war through.

Finally the new Russian ambassador to this country told the senate and house of representatives on Saturday that "Russia rejects any idea of a separate peace," and said that "what Russia is aiming at is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations." "The triumph of German autocracy," he said, "would render such peace impossible." "Russia," he added, "will not fail to be a worthy partner in the league of honor." Even from the disturbed regions it is announced that the assurances of our own Admiral Glennon have had a good effect.

One thing seems to be practically certain, and that is that there will be no separate peace. The question rather is of strengthening the new government in Russia by winning popular support for it, and of getting the Russian army again into action. It is clear that the stand taken by the president, and the arguments of Mr. Root have done much to open the eyes of the Russian peeople to the German peril. There will no doubt be difficulties, and it may be some time before Russia can again be made effective in the war. But certainly the situation has cleared rapidly. The improvement has been very largely due to American influence. The service to the allied cause rendered by this government has been of great value.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

William Brumfield and bride returntoday from a wedding tour in Ohio, and have gone to housekeeping at 71 College street.

Dr. Ross Morris Biggs has taken out a license to practice in this county. The doctor is a graduate of Starling, Medical college, of Columbus, Ohio.

The wedding of Miss Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Redelsheimer, of Monroeville, and Emanuel H. Strass, of Cleveland, took place last evening.

The corner stone of the new court house at Laporte was laid yesterday. B. S. Tolan, of this city, is architect of the building and superintends the construction.

Fort Wayne entertained at least 5,000 visitors to the republican state convention which assembled in this city yesterday and we did it royally as all those present will testify.

A dancing party was given last evening at the West Berry street residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cressler by Masters George and Alfred Cressler in honor of their guest, Miss Mabel Moore, of Englewood, Ill.

A new club has been organized in this city known as the "Red Headed" club. To be eligible to membership one must have bright red hair. Valentine Hartman, of the Seventh ward, is president of the club.

There will be an unveiling of a monument to the memory of "Red Jacket," an Indian chief, at Clear lake, July 4. General Samuel Goodspeed, of New York city, and Judge Caldwell, of Chicago, are the speakers.

Miss Clara Zollars entertained the T. M. C. C. club yesterday afternoon. The course of study being finished, the young ladies will devote the summer to pleasure alone. As only one member will be absent, they will not disband, but continue their meetings until fall, when a new study will be taken up.

Mrs. Mary Shepherd, an old and respected resident, died at an early hour this morning of senility, having reached the ripe years of ninety-two. She passed away at the home of her daughter, 392 South Calhoun street. The remains will be shipped to Bellefontaine, Ohio, the native place of the deceased.

Miss Minnie Rosenthal entertained at dinner last evening in compliment to her guest, Miss Clara Stettiner, of Toledo. Those present at the charming dinner party were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lohman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Frankel, Misses Bertha Wiler, of Logansport, and Rose Nathan and Mr. Maurice Rosenthal.

Lemon Juice For Freckles

Girls! Make beauty lotion at home for a few cents. Try it!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.—Advertisement.

CAPTAIN RYAN THANKS FORT WAYNE FOR HELP

Says Indiana is Again Leader in Proportion to Her Population.

In a letter sent to the newspapers of the city Captain Thomas F. Ryan, recruiting officer in charge of the local station, thanks Fort Wayne, her citizens and various institutions for the support and assistance so freely given in the big campaign for enlistment in the regular army made last week.

His letter is as follows:

I desire to express the thanks and gratitude of both this office and that of the war department for the most magnificent and cordial support which was given this office during the past week, or rather the period known as "Recruiting week."

With the exception of a few stores and shops, the merchants of not only Fort Wayne, but of every town in this district, were more than glad for us to display our advertising matter, only a few declined to do so.

Both the American fife and drum corps and the Jefferson fife and drum corps donated their services and rendered valuable aid.

We are especially indebted to Albert Thomas, Rev. A. J. Folsom, Charles M. Neizer, Rev. C. Claud Travis, W. H. Reed, H. Hilgemann, E. M. Emrick, Guy Colerick, Charles R. Lane, James M. Barrett, Judge Carl Yaple and many others who gave their time in making patriotic speeches and appeals to assist the cause.

The office is indebted to Dan Beers and the Reserve Automobile club for their services. We appreciate that everyone of these gentlemen gave up their time and neglected their own affairs to do what they could to assist the government.

We owe the daily papers of this city a debt of gratitude for the liberal and patriotic assistance which was rendered, voluntarily and free. I made it a point to watch the newspapers of the large cities, during the past week, and the support rendered by the Fort Wayne daily papers surpassed them all in every respect.

We also desire to express our thanks and appreciation to Mr. Greenland and the Northern Indiana Traction company for their most valuable assistance; also to Mr. Scheiman and the Fort Wayne council of patriotic service.

That the result of the week's campaign throughout the country was disappointing to the government is without question. It will be hard to convince me that the poor results obtained, not only in the state of Indiana, but throughout the entire country was due to lack of patriotism on the part of the young men, for I am convinced they are good, patriotic Americans, who are willing to give up their life's blood, if necessary, but they have not been aroused to the dire necessity of their service and to a thorough understanding of the present crisis.

Indiana, however, has no reason to feel ashamed of her work during the past week, or any other time, for she furnished more men, in proportion to her population, than has any other state in the United States. She has come through with her share of the Liberty loan and for the Red Cross and the people of the United States know that no matter what is needed, be it money or men, they can always count on this great state responding. We are not finished with our work. We have only commenced. There is much to be done in order that we may do it well. It is necessary for us to have not only the co-operation of the daily newspapers, but the entire public.

The recruiting office is a public office. Many mothers, wives, sweethearts will have their dear ones in this war. It will be, therefore, a pleasure to not only myself but to the men on this force, to do everything we can for such persons and to give them any information they may desire and should we not have the information in this office, we will get it from the department in which it is kept.

Recruiting will continue and volunteers will be accepted up to the actual day that a man is drafted and after the draft, a young man whose name was not drawn, will still have the right to volunteer.

Very respectfully,
THOMAS F. RYAN,
Capt., U. S. A., Rtd., R. O.

UPPER-CUTS.

When playing golf a man will eat up all the cadie's advice on the game, but he will eat up his wife for telling him how to make a move when playing checkers.

Big league base ball is "purely sport," says the magnates, and the season may close before time on account of the war. The magnates could let the season finish and give a percentage of the gate receipts to Uncle Sam. It wouldn't make him mad, but it doesn't read that way in their books.

Come on, congress! Let the observation balloon go up a little higher!

If the food control stuff isn't put over it will put an end to wife giving a fella a bawling out for coming home late to a cold supper. Just a little bit longer and there won't be anything to get cold.

America's supremacy of the air cannot be doubted. How about the long distance high price altitude record held by the profit patriots?

APELLA
REGISTERED U. S. PATENT OFFICE
"AN APPLE A DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY"

Good for Boys and Girls

CHILDREN like Apella. You'll enjoy seeing them smack their lips with pleased delight. Its sparkling brilliance tempts their eyes while its super-delicious flavor thoroughly satisfies the thirst that comes from romping play.

Best of all—Apella is healthful and wholesome; there is not a bit of harm to stomach or nerves. Apella is a splendid tonic that helps the little ones digest brain, muscle and bone building foods. It will keep their eyes bright, and skins clear. Remember that Apella is pure, clean, non-alcoholic.

—and Good for You

Apella permits you to enjoy the healthful qualities of the apple all the year 'round. It is the pure, unfermented juice of hand-picked, sound, ripe Autumn apples, naturally flavored and spiced.

Apella keeps because it is clean. Every apple is brushed and washed before pressing; any soft spot or blemish is removed. It is of delicious flavor because you get the uncontaminated fruit juice—positively without adulterant or added preservative.

Apella pleases older persons as well as children. It is a healthful drink that promotes good digestion and drives out noxious matters that cause dull eyes, muddy complexions, lethargic brains and dyspeptic headaches.

At the Soda Fountain

A parent is sometimes puzzled to know what to choose for a child at a soda fountain. You can order Apella in serene confidence that it is good for the youngster.

As a table beverage in the home Apella has no superior, and you can buy it by the case or bottle from your grocer. It is served in first-class clubs, cafes, restaurants and buffets.

THE MOST PATRIOTIC TOWN IN AMERICA IS CALLED HURST, IT IS IN ILLINOIS AND IT FULLY DESERVES ITS TITLE

Every Man Joins the Army, Even a One-Eyed Youth, ..Who Knew How, and That Little Coal Town Has No Boys to See the Girls Home Nights.

(By Chester M. Wright.)

Staff Special.

Hurst, Ill., June 28.—This is today the proudest town in America. It is entitled to this great pride. For, so far as can be learned, no other place in the United States has given such a high proportion of its sons to serve in the war for world liberty under the Stars and Stripes.

I came to see what manner of town it is that can make a sacrifice so great. I found it a typical American community of less than 1,000 population, here in the Illinois coal belt, just where the sweeping flat country gives way to abrupt little hillocks all wooded and green.

There are in all the town not half a dozen two-story homes. Mostly the homes are neat little one-story cottages, with flourishing, well kept war gardens in the rear.

It had been said that every man of military age had gone to join the colors. I find the condition is almost that. Registration officials believe there are not more than 28 men now in Hurst who would be accepted as soldiers—and everyone agrees that before selection is made all these will have enlisted voluntarily.

So completely has the town been shaken by the departure of its youth for war that nearly all social activities have been disrupted. The men's club has been forced to close—its membership gone to war. The athletic club has broken up. The young men's club of Hurst's only church has quit. And there will be no base ball in Hurst this year.

The band, too, has suffered a severe blow. In the parlor of the T. P. Russell home hangs a ribbon-garlanded clarinet. It will never be taken down till "Junior" comes back to take his place in the Hurst band. And if he doesn't come back—.

Joseph Ganter, drummer, took the drum he loved and gave it into the hands of his old friend, W. R. Clark, agent for the nearby Iron Mountain railroad, for safe keeping until he comes back. And Clark regards the keeping of this drum as one of the missions of his life.

Maidens of Hurst have no escorts to see them safely home in the moonlight of these soft semi-southern evenings, when the village socials are over or the Sunday evening sermon is finished.

The girls buckle down and do the work the boys used to do," says Correspondent Wright, who visited Hurst, "most patriotic town in America." In the picture are Dorothy Vaughn hoeing and Daisy Stelle cultivating a war garden; Ruth Hunter, volunteer for delivery wagon service to replace a man gone to war and (below) Siegel Vaughn, who is trying to gain weight to succeed in his fourth attempt to enlist.

The girls not only link arms and go home together, but they buckle down and do the work the boys used to do.

Every lad that went away was a bread winner.

Some were miners at the Hurst mine; some were railroad workers; some were employed in the stores of the village. Not one that had not some useful job that helped keep the town going.

I went among the homes of the boys who have gone. Always I found in the mothers a pride in their sons.

There is not a regret in Hurst. There is the mother worry for sons away from the home hearth—but not one regret.

The mother of Ernest Robinson brought me her son's last letter. "I'm always worried till I get a letter," she said.

Young Robinson has been sent to Panama. He wrote on board ship.

"They are just as good to me as can be," he wrote. "I think I will be home in nine months. If you knew what came over the wireless a few nights ago! I am not allowed to tell you, but it was good news."

Many such letters were given me to read.

"Read what my boy says," mothers said, over and over. And, proudly, "he likes it better every day."

"I suppose you watched your boys march away," I said for want of a more inspired remark.

"I couldn't," said this mother simply. "I couldn't. I just stayed here at home, inside the house. I hardly knew what was happening till they had gone away."

Now let me tell you something about the sheer grit of the boys of Hurst.

Paul Shanklin tried to enlist in the navy. They turned him down—said his lungs were weak. Then he went way down to Cairo and tried for the infantry. They turned him away for an ingrown toe nail. He came back and had that cut away. Then he went to East St. Louis and joined the coast artillery. His brother Carl followed and joined the marines.

Siegel Vaughn has tried three times to enlist. They tell him he's under weight. He told me he'd yet put on the pounds needed and get into the army. I believe him.

Gideon Russell, with a leg gone, tried to enlist. Another boy, Floyd James, who'd lost half a foot, tried, too.

Charles Counce, blind in one eye, couldn't resist his country's call. He went with the rest to enlist. Back in the line he stood, watching while the others were examined. When it came his turn he knew how to answer so that the lack of an eye wasn't any bother at all. He was taken.

Hurst is in Williamson county, in southern Illinois.

To get to Hurst take the Illinois Central railroad to DeSoto, nearest railroad station.

From DeSoto, Hurst is reached by flivver, over a six-mile road on which it is said improvements are to be made as soon as the residents can take time from their war crops.

DATES DECIDED FOR HUNTERTOWN'S FAIR

Live Stock Exhibit Will Be Held from September 25 to 28 Inclusive.

Directors and officers of the Huntertown Livestock association have decided upon the dates when the annual livestock exhibit will be given. The dates are September 25, 26, 27 and 28. It is the aim to make this the biggest show in the state.

The feature of this exhibit will be that there will be absolutely no side show attractions. Last year only horses and cattle were exhibited, while this year it is the plan to also show hogs, sheep and poultry.

A special feature for horsemen also will be conducted for grade colts one year old and under two years. The entry fee is two dollars. All entries must be in by August 15. Additional buildings will be erected and many splendid features will be provided.

St. Peter's congregation will have their annual indoor picnic Wednesday, July 4th, afternoon and evening. Everybody welcome. Amusements for all at St. Peter's auditorium, corner Hanna and DeWald.

Kavanaugh-Johann.

Miss Louise Margaret Johann, daughter of Mrs. Carrie Johann, of 1126 Bluff street, and Mr. Boyd Kavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kavanaugh, of Fourth street, were quietly married at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception. Rev. Father McCarthy officiated at the ceremony and mass. The attendants were Miss Marie Johann and Mr. Herbert Nichter, cousins of the bride. The bride made a pretty appearance in her bridal costume combined with georgette crepe and pearl trimming. The bridal bouquet was a shower of white roses, sweet peas and swansonia. The bridesmaid was dressed in a sand color silk gown and she wore a picture hat to correspond in coloring. The bridesmaid held a bouquet of red roses. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride and the immediate relatives were present. Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh will leave for a trip to Buffalo, Cleveland and other eastern points and after they return here will be at home with the bride's mother. Both bride and groom are young people of fine character.

VERA ROEHM'S HEALTH TIP STRETCHING EASY, HELPFUL

By VERA ROEHM.

For today's lesson on physical culture I present the stretching exercise. It's very simple and beneficial.

Difference in weight and height has everything to do with the size of the various parts of the form. For instance, it would be impossible to say that the calf should measure 18 inches, thigh 23 inches, etc., unless the exact height were specified. A figure may be plump with round curves or slender with long, graceful lines, and both be termed good figures, the main point being that the lines are shapely and in proportion.

This column is not only meant to perfect the body, but to also give a new air to the carriage, a spring to the walk; in fact, an entirely new air to your whole being. Even the eyes will have a brightness which they lacked before and when you take your walk, whether it be in the store or for a stroll, how light and easy the body will seem to move along. No effort whatever to walk a few miles.

For short or stout people try the stretching pose. There isn't much work attached to this, although it will work wonders. It consists mainly of stretching all the muscles in the entire body, first to one side then the other, going from the ordinary standing position. Raise the arms straight ahead in the position shown above, trying to touch an imaginary something in the air, extending the left arm in the same manner toward the floor; stretch the body and rest its weight upon the right leg, which will bring the left one up on its toe. Shift the weight as the feet are changed. The entire weight is upon the foot on the side of the body where the arm extends into the air.

Another form of stretching is to take a standing position with the arms held down at the sides, then stretch the arms up above the head as far as you can, raising upon the toes, at the same time, sink back into standing position. These exercises are not strenuous and can easily be taken from ten to fifteen times.

MADAM! UNCLE SAM DESIGNED THIS UNIFORM FOR YOU

Here's milady in her new uniform as a member of the national food administration, which is modeled on the woman's army against waste. Note the insignia of food conservation on cap and sleeve. Also observe the capacious pockets on each side. The body of the uniform is blue, the collar, cuffs and cap of white, the insignia of red. The belt, as one inset shows, slips through a slot in the double front, permitting the dress to be fastened with one button. The detachable cuffs may be removed for dishwashing or mopping, leaving a three-quarter sleeve. Above is the official household tag, to be displayed in windows of homes co-operating with Uncle Sam in the conservation campaign. The insignia on the tag is the same as that on the official buttons to be furnished members of the food administration, and also will be used in the armbands and caps of the official uniforms.

Here is the first peep at the official uniform to be worn by American women enlisted in the government's food conservation campaign.

It's both practical and pretty.

It conserves labor. It is easily washed, being made of washable materials in fast colors. It is scarcely more trouble to iron than a small sheet, as the dress opens out flat and the cap, when unsnapped, is two plain pieces of cloth.

It conserves time. Set the cap on your head, poke the arms through the sleeves like you'd put on a coat, fold it around you and button the one big button which holds the straps at the back. Presto! You are ready to fight waste for the Stars and Stripes!

It conserves looks. If a caller taps at the door just after you have splashed tomato soup or berry juice on the front of the uniform, you can unbutton the one button, quickly fold over the clean panel of the double-breasted front, fasten one button and greet your caller with a serene brow!

The white cuffs are detachable and may be removed for dishwashing or mopping floors, and can be changed easily when soiled.

It's a patriotic uniform, too. Blue dress, white collars and cuffs and the red insignia of the food conservation shield on sleeve and cap.

This insignia is an embroidered shield of the Stars and Stripes, surrounded by heads of golden, ripe wheat. It is a badge of honor for the housewife, as distinctly as the red cross is for nurse or physician. It designates her as one of the great army serving in the nation's cause, and in a service absolutely as essential as that of the men on the firing line or the nurses in the hospitals.

Patterns of the uniform may be had immediately from the food commission, Washington, for 10 cents. Within a month they will be placed on sale by all standard pattern concerns and may be obtained from Indianapolis stores.

Household experts declare the pattern the best they have ever seen for a practical, economical but attractive work dress. It may be worn either as a dress or as an apron, and may be put on or off in a jiffy.

Other insignia of membership in the food conservation movement include a button and a window placard. Each bears the shield of the organization in colors.

The food commission has issued a pledge card which every woman willing to enroll in the official campaign is asked to fill out and send to the food administrator in Washington. A household tag for the window, and a first set of instructions, will then be sent her at once free.

If the official button is desired, 10 cents and a return addressed envelope must be sent with the pledge.

Martin-Gidley.

Miss Hazel Gidley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gidley, and Mr. Edward Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, were married on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the parsonage of St. John's Reformed church by Rev. J. H. Bosch. Immediate relatives were witnesses. The bride looked very pretty in a white dress of silk and georgette crepe and a white hat and she held a bouquet of bride roses. The wedding supper was served at the bride's home where the young couple will live for the present. The groom is a tinner at the Electric works.

Houk Family Reunion.

The first reunion of the Houk family convened at Robison park Saturday, June 30. Representatives from the various families of Fort Wayne, Decatur, Hoagland, Defiance, Harlan, St. Joe and Spencerville to the number of sixty-five were present to enjoy the day. A bounteous basket dinner was served at the noon hour to which all did ample justice. An organization was perfected with the following officers elected: J. C. Houk, of Decatur, president, and Pearl Goldsmith, of Spencerville, secretary. Robison park was again selected as the place for the next reunion. The exact date will be announced later.

Mrs. F. D. Jackson left on Tuesday morning for Grand Rapids, to spend the summer. Mrs. Samuel Jackson gave a farewell party in honor of the departing lady on Monday evening and a dozen friends joined them, leaving many pretty gifts as souvenirs.

BIRDS ANSWER SINGER AT UNIVERSITY STADIUM

There have been pictures of grapes and other fruit so realistic that it is said birds were lured to pick at them. All credit to painters of such pictures. But a young American soprano has "gone them one better" in the way of innocent deception, and the poor birds were again the victims.

It all happened when Miss Idelle Patterson sang in the great Greek stadium that glorifies the grounds of the University of California. Accompanied by an orchestra of fifty pieces, she sung an aria ending in a beautifully rendered trill and cadenza. The vast audience, deeply stirred, sat motionless as if under a spell. At that moment the birds in the surrounding trees began to warble and chirp in a chorus of delighted response to the singer. Then the spell broke and the massed tiers of the stadium burst into wild applause.

BREAKS COLLARBONE.

Ruth Close, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Close, of Elmwood avenue, suffered a broken collarbone Saturday afternoon when she bumped into an older girl while playing in the yard of her parents' home.

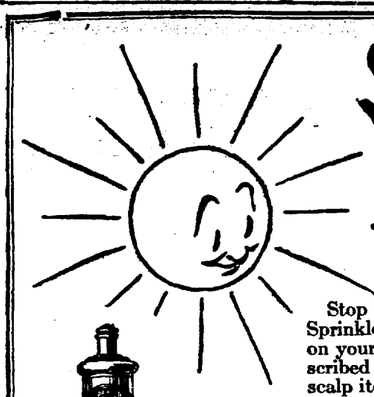
TWELVE CHILDREN IN ELEVEN YEARS

MR. AND MRS. HAYES AND PART OF THEIR FAMILY.

Twelve children during eleven years of married life is the record of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hayes, who live near Dalton, Ga. Of these eight are boys and they are being raised to be soldiers if there is need for them when they are old enough. These are the historic dates in the Hayes family:

Married Aug. 6, 1905; July 3, 1907, birth of first son; Dec. 4, 1908, birth of second son; March 22, 1910, twin daughters; Oct. 18, 1911, second twin daughters; Sept. 5, 1912, son; Sept. 23, 1913, son; Feb. 10, 1915, twin sons; March 24, 1916, more twin sons.

Scalp Irritation
Stop It Now!



The heat of the sun dries out the natural oils of the scalp. Dandruff increases. Scalp itching becomes not only unpleasant but even dangerous.

Stop this itching now You can, with very little trouble! Sprinkle, only twice a week, a little Pompeian HAIR Massage on your scalp. Rub it in the Pompeian way (carefully described in booklet enclosed in every package) and soon your scalp itching will stop.

Pompeian HAIR Massage
Stops Dandruff--Hair Coming Out

The success of Pompeian HAIR Massage is in the "massage" idea. It is a treatment, not merely a tonic. The massaging (rubbing) of the scalp wakes up the roots of the hair to new life. This massaging also opens the pores of the scalp to the wonderfully stimulating liquids in Pompeian HAIR Massage. Dandruff goes. Your hair will become and stay healthy, vigorous and attractive.

Pompeian HAIR Massage is a clear amber liquid (not a cream). Not oily. Not sticky. Very pleasant to use. 25c, 50c and $1 bottles, at the store.

MEN—Have your barber give you a treatmen. and prove to yourself how refreshed your scalp feels by one application.

Don't hesitate to use Pompeian HAIR Massage. It is made by the old and reliable makers of Pompeian MASSAGE Cream and Pompeian NIGHT Cream.

MRS. JACOB WYNANT DEAD NEAR LARWILL

Well Known Resident of Whtley County Passes Away.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Columbia City, Ind., July 3.—Mrs. Jacob Wyant, aged 69, for several years a sufferer from complications, is dead at her home just east of Larwill. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Walter, of Springfield, Mo., and Wilbur, of Gary, and two daughters, Mrs. Mable Manship, of Detroit, and Mrs. Sarah Click, of Wray, Colo. The deceased, whose maiden name was Miss Mary Kerr, is also survived by a brother, H. M. Kerr, of Chicago, and two sisters, Mrs. S. P. Kaler, of Columbia City, and Mrs. Sarah Seabold, of Rising Sun, Md. The funeral occurs Wednesday afternoon at the home, with interment in Lakeview.

Through Attorney E. K. Strong, the General Hocking Coal company has brought suit against B. F. Romey, former coal dealer of this city, to recover judgment of $255.12, balance due on a coal account.

Mrs. Charles Avey, wife of Councilman Avey of this city, has been adjudged of unsound mind by a commission composed of Drs. N. I. Kithcart and O. V. Schuman and Justice Abraham Elder. Mrs. Avey, who is afflicted with melancholia, is under guard constantly to prevent her taking her life, and admission will be sought at once to Longcliff hospital.

Roy Campbell, of Fort Wayne, made a splendid balloon ascension Sunday afternoon at the Tri lake resort, dropping with his parachute near Round lake, while his balloon traveled six miles farther and landed in the waters of Blue lake, near Rapp's landing.

Attorney Frank J. Heller has received from Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, of Indianapolis, the final discharge of Walter R. Bartel, of South Whitley, in bankruptcy. There were no payments made creditors.

The autos of Logan Staples, driven by Ernest Born, and of William Ladig, of Arcola, collided Sunday evening at the Main-Van Buren street intersection when the Ladig auto, coming from the north on Main street, turned the corner east to Van Buren, directly in front of the approaching Born car, as it was coming north on Main street. Both autos were damaged considerably.

So far since June 22 there have registered in the county for the constitutional delegacy election 316 people, of which about one-fourth are women.

HELPFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Don't throw away the inside of a double boiler when the water pan plays out; put it aside the tea kettle. It works just as well.

When washing blouses or handkerchiefs put a small lump of orris root in the rinsing water. It gives a perfume of violets which is as lasting as a sachet placed among the clothes.

To clean a sponge, rub thoroughly into sponge a fresh lemon; then rinse in water to which soda has been added.

NONE TOO RICH AND NONE TOO POOR TO SERVE THE RED CROSS.

These employes of a New York store report an hour before the place opens to make surgical bandages. The society woman of yesterday has become the Red Cross worker of today. There is hardly a woman of social prominence who is not personally engaged in some form of Red Cross service, whether it is folding gray pajamas for wounded soldiers or directing great work rooms. Like their sisters in Europe, they find no task too humble. The girl in the store isn't walking out when the gong rings nowadays. She is staying behind at the same old machine to work for the Red Cross. She is taking a precious hour from her small leisure to give to wounded men. Nor is she the only working girl who is taking the time needed for rest and diversion to spend in work for the Red Cross. Hundreds of her sister toilers in the factories, the department stores and offices are staying late or coming early to make pajamas or convalescent robes for wounded soldiers or snatching minutes from their noon hour to roll bandages and make compresses.

"In Union There is Strength"
A. Lincoln

FROM the beginning of the Firestone business, Lincoln's advice was heeded by its founder and present head, Mr. Firestone. He saw the power in singleness of purpose, and the roots of Firestone success are laid deep in organization.

Firestone

builders, having first established the standard of perfection in fabric tires, now offer this super-size Cord, the tire of highest efficiency. It has more than extra resiliency. It has a sturdiness of structure that means endurance for city use or buffeting of bad roads.

With the true Abe Lincoln policy of "pull together," Firestone stock distribution has made 11,000 employes active stockholders in the business. Thus every Firestone employe has a personal interest in giving you the right tire and service.

Equip today for the double economy of fuel-saving and lowest tire cost per mile.

BUSINESS MAN GREATLY BENEFITED

F. J. WEHRMEYER, PROMINENT WAYNE STREET JEWELER, MAKES STATEMENT.

Gives Credit to Ironated Herbs With Pepsin

No new article of the times has created such profound interest, especially in the larger cities, as has the introduction of Ironated Herbs with Pepsin (in liquid form). People in all walks of life have been attracted to it; the statesman, the professional man, the mechanic, financier, lawyer, preacher, bookkeeper, farmer, brakeman, society woman, waitress—they all have tested it and permitted the use of their names in telling of it.

Every day local people are coming forward with signed statements, telling of the great benefits they have derived from the use of Ironated Herbs. F. J. Wehrmeyer, whose place of business and residence are at 111 West Wayne street, was added to the ever increasing stream of voluntary recommendations.

Mr. Wehrmeyer conducts a jewelry store on Wayne street and is regarded as an authority on diamonds and jewels in general.

His progressive business methods have made friends of his customers for him, and it is extremely gratifying to receive the signed indorsement of such men as Mr. Wehrmeyer.

"I saw this Ironated Herbs medicine advertised and heard of the good it was doing for people in a run-down condition, so I bought a bottle and began taking it. I feel a whole lot better now. My appetite has increased and my food tastes natural again. I suffered with gas on stomach, after eating. Am happy to say after taking Ironated Herbs it has entirely disappeared. I sleep better and have new strength and energy. My improvement has been so marked that friends ask what I have been taking. I am a great believer in iron for the nerves and blood, and find this organic iron in liquid form acts quicker than any I have ever taken. My digestion is better and I do not feel uncomfortable after eating like I used to. Ironated Herbs, in my opinion, is a great medicine and I think it will do as much for others in my condition as it has done for me."

"Concentrated pepsin in Ironated Herbs, the king of digestive agents, working in harmony with the natural gastric juices of the stomach causes my food to be digested properly with the result that muscular development is rapidly acquired."

Organic Iron is the making of thick red blood and also gives strength to the nerves. Pepsin in concentrated form, dissolves, digests and assimilates the food and the potent herbal extracts destroy and eliminate poisons from the system.

Our demonstrator will gladly explain to you its merits and supply you with a bottle at Meyer Bros.' drug store, 902 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne. WOMEN KEEP PACE WITH MEN IN REGISTERING

Judge Thornton's Decision Has Not Disturbed Them in the Least.

The women of Fort Wayne are keeping pace with the mn in the matter of registration for both the city election and the election for delegates to the constitutional convention. Judge W. W. Thornton's decision in the Marion superior court that they could not vote for delegates to the constitutional convention has made no material difference. The women feel confident Judge Thornton's opinion will not be sustained.

Registration among the women in Fort Wayne has been carried on in a systematic manner. Many meetings have been held in all parts of the city. Notary publics are always on hand, who swear the women and properly register them.

According to the interpretation of the registration law, made by Ele Stansbury, attorney general; William W. Spencer and W. T. Thompson, and approved by Governor Goodrich, and concurred in by Bernard Korbly, democratic state chairman, and Will Hays, republican state chairman, there are two registration periods in the state this year. Registration for municipal elections in the first and second class cities — Indianapolis, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and South Bend—began the first Monday in May and will close on October 6. No registration is required for the municipal elections in cities of the third, fourth and fifth classes.

Registration for the special election, when delegates to the constitutional convention will be chosen, began June 22 and will end August 20 at 5 p. m.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

RUSSIA'S NEW OFFENSIVE SMASHES AHEAD

SLAV ARMIES TAKE THOUSANDS OF THE ENEMY IN BATTLE

Advance Into Galicia Is Steadily Proceeding and Villages Fall Into Russian Hands.

AUSTRO-GERMAN FORCES IN RETREAT

Petrograd, July 3.—The new Russian offensive has resulted in the capture of 6,000 more prisoners. The Russians are advancing towards Zlochoff, Galicia, the war office announces.

Russian troops have occupied the Galician villages of Presovce, Zboroff and Korshiduv. The Austo-German forces have retreated westward across the little Stripa river.

Twenty-one guns and several mine throwers were captured. Prisoners continue to be brought in.

The number of prisoners taken in the fighting southeast of Brzezani on Sunday is given as 53 officers and 2,200 men.

According to news received by the government, the offensive on the southwestern front is developing in an absolutely favorable manner.

General Kalen Kaledines, who captured about 80,000 prisoners in a forward movement last year and who is known as the breaker of the Lutz front, has been chosen helman, or leader of the Don Cossacks.

Details from an authorized source of the victorious Russian attack in Galicia state that a Finnish division participated in the victory at Koniuchy. All enemy trenches on the slopes of Mount Srnediaya Goura, east of Koniuchy, were occupied. Besides, the village of Koniuchy and the forest west thereof, as far as Kolf, was taken. All German trenches south of Koniuchy and the wood west of the village of Schibalirm were occupied. Three lines of enemy trenches near Schibalirm,

EMPEROR ISSUES EDICT SAYING SO

Return of Imperial Regime is Confirmed by News From Pekin.

Tientsin, July 3.—Reports reaching here from Pekin say that the emperor has issued an edict appointing General Chang Hsun premier and viceroy of the province of Chili and that he has named members of the new cabinet including Kang Yu Wei, president of the progressive party to which millions of Chinamen belong, and Hsu Shih Chang, former secretary of state of China, who will head the ministry.

General Chang Hsun sent four delegates to President Li Yuan Hung to demand his resignation but the president paid no attention to them. The Manchus have offered him a grand dukedom. It is reported that General Chang Hsun has forbidden the appearance of newspapers for three days. Liang Chi, the famous reformer, declares that General Chang Hsun's coup is suicidal and says it can not succeed.

OLD REGIME IS BACK.

Pekin, July 1.—(Delayed.)—The imperial emblem is everywhere displayed, making the restoration of the Manchu monarchy. There has been no disorder. In a long edict Emperor Hsun Tung, who was restored to the throne today, explains how, being youthful, he was forced to relinquish sovereign power to Yuan Shi Kai, late president of the Chinese republic.

BERLINERS ARE RESORTING TO SOUP KITCHENS

Copenhagen, July 3.—The food difficulties, particularly the disappearance of potatoes, have driven Berliners in masses to the municipal soup kitchens, where they hope to get better rations than at home. The manager of the kitchens reports 21,000 new registrations. The kitchens however are badly supplied and the fare is most scanty and monotonous. The potato ration this week is one pound, but it is admittedly only on paper.

HUNTING OF SQUIRREL IN JULY ILLEGAL

Game Commissioner George W. Lindemuth announces that it is illegal and unlawful to hunt squirrels this month. Although it is plainly stated on the back of every hunting license issued that the squirrel season begins July 1 and ends Nov. 1, the legislature at its last session ruled that the squirrel season should be from Aug. 1 to Dec. 1. Although ignorance of the law excuses no one, Mr. Lindemuth asks that hunters of the county pay particular attention to this announcement. The hunting licenses are printed in large consignments and for this reason the dates for the squirrel season have not been changed. Any person who desires to have a copy of the law can apply or write to Mr. Lindemuth in room 511, Shoaff building.

TO PRESENT REVENUE ACT

Senate Committee Finishes War Bill for Raising $1,600,000,000.

More Than Half Billion is to Be Raised by Taxing Various Incomes.

Washington, July 3.—The war tax bill, redrafted and reduced to $1,670,170,000 by the senate finance committee as against the $1,800,000,000 of additional war taxes provide as it came from the house, was completed today. Chairman Simmons of the committee planned to present the measure to the senate today for consideration, which will begin after the food control-prohibition measure is disposed of.

Vastly increased income taxes and levies upon excess profits resulting from war times, liquors and tobacco from the bulk of the new taxation measure, the largest in the country's history.

Upon incomes the bill would impose $532,700,000 in additional taxes; upon excess profits of corporations, partnerships and individuals, $523,000,000; upon liquors, $165,500,000, and upon tobacco, $56,600,000. After formal presentation of the revised bill, Chairman Simmons will later file a report detailing the committee's work of six weeks.

No Additional Bonds Now.

No additional bonds will be authorized under the bill as any deficit, it is believed, can be taken care of by congress in ample time at next December's session, although the measure will all short by many millions of meeting of expenses of the war next year, estimated at $2,326,000,000, not including new appropriations coming for the army and navy.

The revised bill, which is scheduled for material amendment in the senate and further changes in conference, eliminates many objections raised to the house measure by business interests. It also provides basic changes in revenue raising, the latter including a new plan for direct payment of income taxes instead of "collection at the source," also so-called "special" taxes upon special industry, embraced under the house levy of 5 per cent upon gross sales of many manufacturers were eliminated.

The senate committee also rejected the ten per cent general tariff increase, designed to raise $200,000,000, and substituted consumption taxes upon coffee, tea, sugar and cocoa, estimated to yield $80,000,000.

Small Incomes Taxed.

Reduction of income taxation to single persons with incomes over $1,000 annually and married persons at $2,000 and over, with incomes under $5,000 subject to a new "normal" tax of 2 per cent, were house provisions unchanged. The committee reduced rates on incomes over $40,000, de-

MULCT STETTIN FOLKS FOR PART IN FOOD RIOTS

Copenhagen, July 3—Residents of Stettin, Germany, appeared before the military court Saturday to answer for participation in the food riots on June 19 and 20. The testimony showed that excited by rumors that merchants were shipping potatoes abroad, great crowds hostile to the merchants attacked the police and plundered the stores. The ringleaders were sentenced to eighteen months and a year imprisonment, others receiving lighter or suspended sentences.

FOUR AMERICAN AMBULANCE MEN GET WAR CROSS

Paris, July 3.—Four ambulance drivers of the American field service were decorated with the war cross by General Gouraid at a review of the troops at the front. They were Benjamin F. They were cited in army orders for courage and devotion in taking away the wounded during a recent bombardment.

East. St. Louis, July 3.—Although surface indications were that the orgy of butchery and incendiarism which cost many lives here last night and laid whole blocks in ruins, had spent its force, Adjutant General Frank S. Dickson of Illinois, asserted today that he feared there might be more trouble today and discussed with Mayor Mollman the advisability of calling for more troops.

The six companies of guardsmen who were on the ground last night, the adjutant general explained, were numerically inadequate to cover the wide territory covered by the riots.

He feared that even the additional companies which arrived later bringing the total number of guardsmen here to 1,500, would not be enough to establish authority.

Estimates of the number of dead varied widely from a score to two hundred and fifty.

At 9:30 o'clock this morning twenty-four bodies had been recovered, including three whites. Seventy-four wounded negroes were found.

CHICAGO NEGRO STARTS THINGS AND IS KILLED

Chicago, July 3.—Clarence Kelly, a negro, was shot and instantly killed on an elevated platform early today by a police officer, after he had wounded two people and terrorized a number of others with a long-bladed knife.

Kelly was seated in a car with his feet in the aisle when Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Hohing passed through.

Hohing accidentally stumbled over the negro's feet and the latter attacked him, despite Hohing's explanation that it was an accident. As Kelly struck at Hohing the latter threw up his negro hands to guard himself from the knife and received a cut across his right hand.

The enraged negro then turned on Mrs. Hohing and wounded her slightly before he was seized by passengers and the train crew. When the train arrived at the Belmont station, on the north side, the Hohings left the car to transfer, and Kelly, escaping from his captors, renewed his attack. A policeman summoned from the street below shot and instantly killed the Catlettsburg, Ky., July 3.—Over $100,000 worth of merchandise was secured from manufacturers and jobbers throughout the United States on fictitious letters of credit by forty-six Magoffin county mountaineers, who are to be placed on trial in the federal court here today, according to representatives of 190 business firms from almost as many cities, who are to assist in the prosecution.

Through statements or financial responsibility on engraved stationary of a bank which had no existence in fact, it is alleged the mountaineers secured car loads of merchandise supposedly for sale from fifty stores. The stores, however, like the bank, could not be found by investigators sent out by the business houses.

The goods secured in this way, it is believed, ranged in value from bottles of patent medicines and boxes of dried fish to pianos and all the apparatus needed for the establishment of a system of telephones between the homes of the alleged conspirators.

CELEBRATE VICTORY IN RED CROSS DRIVE

Leaders of Campaign Rejoice With Demonstration at Country Club.

With the joy and exultation that comes only with the consciousness of a great work well done, the leaders in the recent Red Cross campaign in Allen county gathered at the Country club Monday night to celebrate their $111,000 victory in the great drive. About two hundred citizens were there, comprising the executive committee, members of the eleven teams, the twelve men who started the campaign by subscribing $1,000 each on the first night, and many others who were instrumental in gaining the victory for Allen county.

Dignified citizens threw aside their cares for the time and blew tin horns and shouted with all the zest of youth. There was just enough solemnity to make those present feel the consciousness of a serious national crisis. Different men were called upon to make a few remarks during the course of the evening. Hon. S. M. Foster acted as toastmaster, and among the speakers were B. Paul Mossman, general chairman of the Fort Wayne chapter; Fred Smock, Charles M. Niezer, Judge J. W. Eggeman, Charles Wilding, D. N. Foster, Abe Ackerman, A. E. Thomas and S. F. Bowser.

Mr. Mossman touched upon the great work that the members of the various teams had done, and said that to them should go all of the honor for the great victory. Before he had finished he asked all present to stand for a few moments in silent memory of the late James M. McKay.

C. M. Niezer, in a brief talk, marked with eloquence, said that the Red Cross campaign was just another step toward placing Fort Wayne as the first city in Indiana. "It is fine to sound the clarion call of victory. The grand thing about the Red Cross work is that it is international; it is the one thing that breaks down the barriers of internationalism," concluded Mr. Niezer.

Albert E. Thomas suggested that appreciation should be shown the twelve men who contributed $1,000 each at the start of the campaign by a rising vote of thanks, which was carried out. After the conclusion of the brief speeches, the program was left in the hands of the men, and it was necessary to appoint sergeants-at-arms to preserve order. Judge Eggeman and Tom Lane were given this duty to perform.

The meeting was marked by the same spirit of enthusiasm and rivalry among the different teams that was shown at all the meetings during the campaign. Costumes and hats of different shapes and color were worn. The Lafayettes unveiled a miniature battle ship, called the "Lafayette Relief Ship." Captain Serva, of the Deweys, climbed on a chair and repeated the famous words of Admiral Dewey in the Spanish-American war, "You may fire when you are ready, Gridley," which was answered by three shots from one of the members of his team.

Frank Stouder directed the musical program, and several selections were rendered by the Red Cross double quartet.

to the royal prosecutor. Baroncini is the husband of Emma, elder sister of Maria Cocchi, the slayer's wife. He is a cement contractor at Imola, 22 miles from here. At present he is caring for the mother of Cocchi's wife, together with the latter's younger sister, Carolina, who are indignant at the reflections made on the family.

Hope to Punish Cocchi.

"We have Maria's interest at heart," said Baroncini. We propose to fight for her reputation and hope to bring her home soon. We are as much shocked as the Cruger family and will do all in our power to punish Cocchi. When I demanded of Cocchi, who was visiting me at Imola, to explain his abandonment of Maria, he lied first, then holding his head in his hands, said: 'This is too much. I must tell somebody.' Tears were streaming down his face and he said over and over again, 'Why did I do it? I did not mean to molest the girl.'

Had Pull With Police.

"Cocchi swore to me he did not assault the girl, but this I do not believe, though I think the crime unpremeditated. Neither do I believe his story of her falling and striking her head. The truth probably never will be known. There are certain details that even a man of that sort is ashamed to tell. Cocchi said he had a pull with the police. When I showed him my motorcycle license, he boasted he did not need one because he knew the police."

Baroncini concluded by defending the reputation of Cocchi's wife.

creasing the revenue return by $66,000,000. It also struck out inheritance taxes designed to raise $6,000,000 and retroactive taxes on 1916 incomes for a further reduction of $108,000,000. After many changes the final committee draft contains the proposed tax of five per cent upon profits of publishers in excess of $4,000, estimated to raise $7,500,000, and adds an increase of one quarter of a cent a pound on second class postage rates, estimated to yield $3,000,000. Strenuous efforts are expected in the senate for amendments of the tax on publishers.

But Three Against It.

Except for Senators La Follette, Thomas and Gore, the committee's revision has the general support of the entire republican and democratic members, which for the first time in the history of revenue legislation united in amending the house measure. The three senators who voted against the final draft expect to advocate Senator La Follette's substitute, providing for imposition of all war taxes upon incomes, excess profits, liquor and tobacco. With most committee members reserving right to offer amendments and with many senators planning other amendments, debate in the senate is expected to last several weeks and the final tax scheme ultimately worked out in conference.

EAST ST. LOUIS RACE RIOT MAY NOT BE ABATED

smouldering debris where fires consumed scores of negro shacks and houses last night run into the hundreds.

The city was quiet this morning. Saloons were still closed. Sleepy-eyed guardsmen with marks of fire fighting still on their khaki patrolled the streets and guarded bridges and saloon doors. Otherwise the city appeared normal. There were broken windows here and there, other wreckage and the breeze carried the acrid smell of water-soaked embers.

Negroes driven from their homes huddled here and there, seemingly anxious to keep out of sight. Five hundred of them, men, women and children, spent the night at the city jail. Two men were still asleep in one bath tub when the sun rose, and another was slumbering noisily, his chin on his chest, but otherwise bolt upright on a garbage can. The floors were packed with disheveled refugees.

Bits of clothing taken from dead negroes were shown today by souvenir hunters.

A Brutal Incident.

One brutal incident of the night was related today. On Fourth street, near Broadway, three men saw a negro, apparently dead, lying in a gutter. One flashed a pocket light in his face and saw that he still breathed.

"Well, what do you know about that?" he exclaimed, "not dead yet." He and one of his companions drew their pistols and fired a bullet into the negro's head.

Policemen today tried to prevent the taking of photographs of fire ruins and black bodies still lying in the streets. "It's the chief's orders," said one blue coat. "East St. Louis doesn't want that kind of advertising."

The causes deeply underlying the disturbances are said to be of interest to many other northern communities where negro labor has been brought in to replace men enlisted in the armed forces of the United States or who have been tempted to other sections by high wages paid in munitions factories.

Too Many Negroes.

In East St. Louis with a population of about 84,000 there was already a large negro colony, and the war influx increased the proportion to an extent which caused much comment.

Unrest among the whites smouldered and even flamed up last May, when in a small riot three negroes were shot and wounded and a number beaten.

An incident of the night indicated the temper of the mobs. One crowd went about the street shouting against the mayor. "Let's get Mollman," they shouted. "He's the man that brought 'em in."

The cry was raised because of a false rumor that Mayor Mollman went south and advertised that negro labor would be well paid in East St. Louis. As a matter of fact the mayor visited New Orleans and conferred with railroad heads and others to discourage the negroes from coming.

Another of the innumerable brutal incidents of the night was the attack on a young negress. White men and women were among the assailants.

Acts of Pure Savagery.

"Let the women have her," was the cry among the men, and white women began tearing the garments from their victim. The negress' cry of "Please, please, I ain't done nothing," was stopped by a blow in the mouth with a club which a woman swung like a baseball bat. Another white woman seized the victim's hands and the blow was repeated. Fingers tore at her hair and her waist was stripped from her.

"Now, let's see how fast she can run," suggested a bystander, as the negress broke loose. The women were loathe to leave her alone, but after following her with their blows for a short distance they stopped and she ran crying down the street.

The women next tried to get an aged negress who was guarded by three militiamen. One of the women wrestled with the soldier for his rifle and others succeeded in getting in a few blows.

Three hundred and ten dwellings, mostly negro shacks, valued at $300,000, were destroyed by fire in the rioting last night, according to a statement made today by Fire Chief M. J. Tobin.

Burning of negro homes began last night before darkness and the mobs went from section to section setting fires. As the negroes ran from their cottages, rioters fired at them, and many fell back into the flames and it is believed that a number were burned to death.

White Women and Girls Riot.

Not only white men, but white women and girls composed the mobs which set upon the negroes and in several cases beat them to death with clubs. White women and girls attacked colored women on the streets and in the street cars, pulled their hair out, tore off their clothes and beat them with all sorts of weapons.

The rioting last night was the culmination of a series of disturbances which began with the killing of a police officer and the wounding of three policemen and two civilians early Monday morning.

All saloons have been closed for an indefinite period.

The fires were set by the mobs during the night, in five districts of the city where negroes lived, besides burning nearly two hundred negro cottages, destroyed more than one hundred loaded freight cars belonging to the Southern railway, valued at half a million dollars.

The Broadway theater valued at more than $100,000, also was burned. Although the fires burned for several hours they were brought under control before daylight.

Small Army of Guards.

Eleven companies of the Illinois National Guard, numbering about 1,500 men, patrolled the streets today with orders to prevent any loitering at corners and any assembly of people on the streets. Adjutant General Frank Dickson of Illinois, who arrived late last night, said that the troops would be disposed throughout the city to prevent repetition of last night's disorders.

General Dickson said that military rule had not been established and probably would not be. Mayor Mollman of East St. Louis, the adjutant general said, asked for a declaration of military rule, and this fact gave rise to the statement that it actually had been proclaimed.

Only one white man was killed in last night's rioting and he was shot by a negro sniper. Two negroes were hanged during the night by mobs and four killed by snipers. The work of searching the ruins for bodies began before daylight and it was reported that eight bodies had been taken to various undertaking establishments.

Negroes Flee the City.

Hundreds of negroes, many of them women carrying babies, crossed into St. Louis, Mo., last night. At the same time thousands of curiosity seekers from the Missouri side crossed the bridges into East St. Louis, making it more difficult for the police and national guard to restore order.

Hundreds of negroes are employed in the big mills at Granite City, and many of them live in East St. Louis. Some of the mills desiring to save their men from attack, would not allow the negroes to leave for home at the usual hour.

Early today the guardsmen, under command of Adjutant General Dickson, rounded up more than 500 rioters and brought them to the city jail.

The troops who were on duty during the most serious disturbances, being under civil authority, were ordered not to shoot. This resulted in a number of rifles being taken forcibly from the soldiers.

Why Troops Did Not Fire.

In explanation of the failure of the troops to fire on the mobs, General Dickson said that the purpose for which the troops had been sent had been gained without firing a shot and wholesale bloodshed would have been the result of any firing on the part of the troops.

Squads of soldiers sent out to bring in firearms found in possession of any whites or negroes, seized dozens of revolvers, rifles and shotguns. One youth found with a meat cleaver concealed under his coat, said he would have used it to kill a negro had an opportunity been offered.

One of the results of the fires was to plunge parts of the city into darkness and surgeons at St. Mary's hospital and the emergency operating room, opened in the city hall, were forced to do their work while policemen held flashlights or candles over the tables.

Attacked by White Women.

In the Baltimore & Ohio railroad yards a negro woman leading a small child was attacked by white women who were following a mob. The negro woman seized the child in her arms and ran into a cottage which the white women bombarded with stones and shunks of coal. The woman escaped without serious injury.

Col. O. S. Trip, of the Illinois guard, was the chief figure in a sensational rescue of an aged negro. The black, with a rope around his neck, was being dragged through a street by more than a hundred men. An automobile bearing Colonel Tripp and City Attorney Fekete appeared as the mob was about to hang the negro to a pole. Colonel Tripp left his car and forced his way through the mob, which allowed him to take charge of the black without molestation.

Later, the city attorney rescued a negro at which a mob was shooting. He placed the negro in his machine and after a ten minute parley with the mob, was allowed to depart.

With the exception of isolated encounters between whites and negroes at widely separated points the rioting virtually ceased at midnight.

curred in the Browning hotel, where Mr. and Mrs. Hunter made their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter had taken a suite of rooms at the hotel during the day and were just moving in from their former residence, 340 Morris avenue, S. E. The accident occurred one floor below their suite, wherein Mrs. Hunter was awaiting her husband.

Upon entering the elevator Mr. Hunter called for the fourth floor. With him in the cage was Mrs. J. B. Mooney. Mrs. Mooney got off at the third floor, and Mr. Hunter, still unfamiliar with the hotel, thinking he had reached his own landing, pushed back the doors, after they had been closed and was about to step out, as the colored conductor, not noticing what Mr. Hunter had done, started the car upward.

Mr. Hunter was trapped between the doors and his skull was crushed by the impact with the ceiling. He was then thrown backwards from the cage to the hallway on the third floor, part of his body hanging over the edge of the pit.

Immediately after seeing that his passenger had been entrapped between the double doors of the cage, the operator reversed the current and, as the elevator descended to the third floor, the floor of the cage struck the body of Mr. Hunter. It is believed, however, that he was instantly killed by the blow on the head.

Drs. Collins H. Johnston and R. H. Hutchinson, who were summoned, pronounced death instantaneous.

Mrs. Hunter was prostrated by the shock and was taken to the residence by O. H. P. Hughart, president of the G. R. & I., 430 Morris avenue, S. E., where she was placed under the care of a nurse.

The deceased was a son-in-law of the late P. S. O'Rourke, superintendent of the southern division of the G. R. & I. He was also a brother-in-law of William S. O'Rourke, 1401 Washington boulevard west. During P. S. O'Rourke's administration as superintendent Mr. Hunter was trainmaster here, and upon his death was promoted to the position of superintendent. Later he was made superintendent of the northern division, and moved to Grand Rapids some years ago, where he had since resided. He was a very capable railroad man, and was particularly well known in railroad circles.

Mr. Hunter was born March 27, 1857, and began his railway career in the Pennsylvania offices at Lima, coming from that city to Fort Wayne to take employment in the telegraph office of the company. He was soon made a train dispatcher, then chief dispatcher and master of transportation, succeeding P. S. O'Rourke, as superintendent. In August, 1905, he was transferred to the more important division at Grand Rapids.

The widow survives him.

barracks. The crowds waved American and French flags. Hundreds of Americans were in the throng at the station.

As the troops swung through the streets, French girls pinned bouquets and American flags on the soldiers' breasts. Flowers were scattered along the route. The band played "Yankee Doodle," "Dixie," "Marching Through Georgia," and other American airs. French soldiers on leave grasped the hands of the Americans and marched beside them.

Girls Steal Kisses.

Several times groups of shop girls on their way to work slipped through the police lines and kissed the soldiers, to their great embarrassment. Now and then an American voice would be heard calling out, "Hello, boys." "Welcome to Paris," or "Good luck." When the regimental colors were carried past the men bared their heads. The Americans were greatly surprised to see a number of children kneel in the street as the flag was carried by. They were orphans from an institution in the neighborhood.

The soldierly bearing of the men impressed the military observers. They were lean and brown and the new field packs gave them quite a different appearance from British or continental soldiers.

FRANCE REJOICES.

Paris, July 3.—The Russian offensive shares with the American army in France the honors of the day in the French newspapers. The splendid news from General Brussiloff's headquarters, coming on the heels of the arrival of the American vanguard, fills France's cup of joy to overflowing. The temporary wave of despondency and impatience which found an outward manifestation in two dozen interpellations of the government in the chamber of deputies, has vanished.

The reappearance of the Russian army on the scene of the great war drama had been discussed in France some time past, but the general public had hardly shared the optimism of public men who returned from visits to Russia. The ally's loyalty never had been doubted but her ability to carry out big military operations at an early date had been questioned. The news, therefore, came as an agreeable surprise and morning newspapers hastened to make an honorable amend.

BERLIN OFFICIAL REPORT.

Berlin, July 3.—Via London.—Russian troops broke forward across the heights on the western bank of the Stripa, in Galicia, and succeeded in extending northward the gap they made in the Teutonic lines the previous day, army headquarters announced today.

At Koniuchy, the German statement says, strong Russian attacks broke down with heavy losses. The Russians did not find strength to repeat their attacks against the Brezezanni heights.

GERMANS REPULSED.

Paris, July 3.—The Germans made repeated attacks last night on the Aisne front, on both sides of the Ailles-Paissy road. The most violent fighting continued throughout the night. Today's official announcement says the Germans were thrown back each time and finally abandoned the effort this morning.

The French also repulsed German attacks on the Verdun front, between hill 304 and Avocourt wood.

disintegration and party strife and the people appealing to him to take over its administration to save the people from suffering, the young emperor says he was compelled to take action. China's future government will be based on the following:

"The country shall be administered according to the constitutional laws promulgated by the late emperor.

"Expenses of the imperial household shall remain the same as those fixed by the republic.

"Bloodprinces shall not be allowed to interfere in politics.

"There shall be no difference between them is allowed.

"All foreign treaties and contracts shall remain in force.

"The stamp tax and other petty taxes are abolished.

"The republican criminal civil code is abolished and that introduced the first year under Hsung Tung's government is reinstated.

"Political offenders are pardoned.

"The wearing of queues is optional."

A hundred Japanese have arrived to strengthen the legation guard. There is no news of President Li Yuan Hung's expected resignation.

MAY RAILWAY EARNINGS.

Washington, July 3.—May reports to the interstate commerce commission from 72 of the 186 principal railroads of the country show an increase in earnings over May, 1916. The net revenues for May this year were $48,134,746; last year, $46,981,930. Western railroads made a gain of more than $3,000,000, although both eastern and southern roads suffered slight decreases.

NO FIGHTING IN MICHIGAN.

Lansing, Mich., July 3.—Governor Sleeper today telegraphed the sheriff of Berrien county to refuse to permit the Brown-Harrison boxing contest at Benton Harbor tomorrow. Boxing is prohibited by a Michigan statute.

APPLICATIONS ARE COMING TOO SLOWLY

Men 25 to 35 Years of Age in Great Demand for Second Officers' Camp.

"It has been the experience in the armies of Europe that men between the ages of 25 and 35 years make the best officers. Men of these ages, with a certain amount of business experience, are what we want for the second Officers' Training Camps, which open August 27."

This is the statement made by the examining officer of this district, who is now considering applications for the new training camp. Capt. E. H. Kilbourne, local chairman of the Military Training Camps Association, has been in direct touch with the examining officer and makes public the words of the latter.

"From the way in which applications are coming in, it is evident that many younger fellows have misconstrued the government's circular which stated that men over 31 would be given preference in the new training camp. While it is very true that older men are wanted, this should discourage no one of 25 years of age, and even younger, from putting in his request for admission. A man's chances for being accepted are greater if he is over 26 or 28—but there will be a large number of the 25-year class wearing the khaki as officers.

"It seems that many who have asked for applications for the new camp are still holding them. In the case of the younger men, this is a big mistake. The sooner their names are on file, the more chance they have of getting in on the ground floor and having the opportunity to be an officer in the new national army.

"We want to have plenty of time to thoroughly consider the merits of the younger men."

In an attempt to get older men to fill the more responsible positions in the New National Army," says Capt. E. H. Kilbourne, "many have not realized that men of 25 years and up have an excellent chance to be accepted.

"Men, more men, and still more men, are wanted for this second Officers' Training Camp, opening August 27. There are only two weeks more to apply. No one will be considered after July 15. This is at once the duty and the opportunity for men between the ages of 25 and 44 to give the government the benefit of their experience, of their services, as leaders of the second National Army of 500,000 men."

MRS. FLORENCE AUSTIN CHASE

MRS. FLORENCE AUSTIN CHASE GIVES ADVICE TO HOUSEWIVES

One of America's Foremost Authorities on Scientific Cooking and Pure Foods

Thousands of women are daily guided in their cooking by the advice and suggestions of this most eminent authority. Mrs. Chase has shown those housewives how to materially reduce the high cost of living and secure better results in every branch of cooking—she has given them the benefit of her scientific methods—she has shown them how to avoid impure foods.

A graduate of the University of Chicago—a domestic science lecturer of national fame—she knows which is best through exhaustive experiments and the constant study of scientific cooking and pure foods.

One of the subjects nearest her heart—one which she has given endless study—one which she considers of vital importance—is baking and baking powders. In a recent interview Mrs. Chase said:

"I use Calumet Baking Powder because I find it absolutely dependable and uniform, and because it has more leavening strength than most baking powders. Like every other domestic science lecturer, I am interested in reducing the high cost of living and am interested in Calumet, because it is sold at a moderate price.

"The wholesomeness of the ingredients which are used in the manufacture of Calumet is attested by the Remsen Referee Board, appointed by the President of the United States and also by the medical profession.

"In my work on the lecture platform, I must use a baking powder which is wholesome beyond question and which is absolutely dependable, and Calumet meets all my requirements."

An endorsement by Mrs. Chase of any particular product is without dispute absolute proof that that brand is superior to all.

She has found through tests, as you will find the first time you use Calumet, that Calumet is the one baking powder that absolutely insures uniform results—that its wonderful leavening strength produces the lightest, most healthful, tastiest bakings—that its wholesomeness makes all bakings nourishing and delicious. She has found that Calumet is pure in the can and pure in the baking—her tests prove conclusively, as do those of millions of housewives who always use Calumet, that it goes farther than other baking powders. If you now judge baking powder according to price, you are making a vital mistake.

Get a can of Calumet at once on the money-back guarantee—test it every way—bake everything with it. If it does not beat your present favorite brand in every way, your grocer is authorized to refund your money—you risk absolutely nothing. Begin now to enjoy real bakings—to save money.

Remember, Calumet it used by millions of housewives and domestic science teachers everywhere.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

Mont Daiken Is Arrested for Complicity in Killing of Roy Brown.

Hartford City, Ind., July 3.—Judge Eichhorn today announced his intention to convene a special session of the Blackford circut court July to retry William Fishback for the alleged murder of Roy E. Brown, Redkey grocer.

Attorneys for both sides agreed to the trial date and suggested the court order a special venire of fifty names for jury service.

Both the state and defense say they have procured additional evidence. The states has caused th earrest of Mont (Skinny) Daiken on a charge of complicity in the killing of Brown. Daiken was called as a witness in the Fishback trial but could not be found. The state contends the Redkey grocer was choked, that his body was taken to the Bowser livery barn, where an attempt was made to revive him, and, failing in this, the corpse was taken to the Daiken home, where it was concealed in a dugout until the search for the missing man was begun. Then, it is alleged, the slayers, fearing it would be found, hauled the body at night to the Weis farm, where they intended concealing it in an abandoned well. Instead the body was thrown in a fence corner, the slayers having been frightened by a shot fired by Weis, who thought he heard some one after his chickens.

Daiken is the third person arrested in the case. Ray Landess is in jail at Portland awaiting trial, having been jointly indicted with Fishback.

Harry Weist, who, with Kile Hale, was charged by the defense with the murder, is said to be a deserter from the army. The state had applied to the adjutant general for an order to bring Weist back as a witness.

ELECTRIC PLANT AT SYRACUSE IS SOLD

Hawks Company Takes Over Property—Consideration Is $70,000.

Warsaw, Ind., July 3.—What constitutes one of the largest cash deals made in Kosciusko county in recent years was closed Monday between the Warsaw Investment company of Warsaw and the Hawks Electric company of Goshen. By virtue of the agreement of purchase and sale already made and guaranteed by a cash deposit of $10,000, the Investment company has sold to the Hawks Electric company the Syracuse Light and Power property, which they have owned and operated for about five years.

The Syracuse Light and Power company has furnished the electric light and power for Syracuse, Benton, Milford and the properties around Wawasee lake.

The cash consideration of $70,000 constitutes one of the largest made in the history of Kosciusko county. The sale came as a surprise to the people of the county, as there had been no mention of a deal until Mr. Ker, president of the Investment company, announced the fact yesterday.

Ringlings' Animal Trainer Guided by Sign of His Subject's Birth.

Darwin, the famous man monkey owned by the Ringling Brothers' circus, would, according to his horoscope, be a mechanical genius were he a human being. This spring when the Ringling circus opened its season Darwin joined the organization on the opening day. He had traveled 5,000 miles by water and rail in a wooden box. He was scarce two years old and none too strong. Things looked dark for Darwin, but he took to civilization like a duck to water, and under the tutelage of William Chambers, head animal trainer, he has developed like an infant prodigy.

Chambers has remarkable ideas on the subject of animal training and one of them is that all animals in common with human beings feel the influence of the zodiac. "My father put me in this way of thinking when I was a boy," Chambers explained in a recent interview, "and I have had occasion to thank him many times for his teaching. I would no more think of trying to train an animal without knowing the sign under which he was born than I would think of planting corn in December. Take Darwin, for instance, his horoscope has been substantiated in numerous ways. Some people, of course, may deem my theories a joke, but I have never known them to fail. They have helped me master several hundred wild beasts."

As a special feature of the animal exhibit of the Ringling Brothers' circus, which is to appear in this city on Thursday, July 12, will be one section which will be devoted entirely to African exhibits.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN DID NOT GET TO SHOW

Member of Company is Taken Ill and Doctors Disagree.

[Special to The Sentinel.]

Antwerp, Ohio. July 3.—The Uncle Tom's Cabin show, which was to give a performance here Monday, was not permitted to on account of the illness of one of the members of the company. He had been suffering with a sore throat and went to a doctor for medicine, who, on examination, pronounced it a case of diphtheria, and notified the health officer, who promptly made efforts to have the case quarantined. In the meantime the management of the show, not feeling satisfied, had two other doctors called who pronounced it a case of tonsilitis.

ORNAMENTING CIVILIZATION.

The race riots in East St. Louis are different only in extent, not in kind, from similar outbreaks elsewhere. From one provocative and another, but all having root in a prejudice that will be the more easily dealt with if frankly admitted, these wars of the whites and the blacks recur with considerable frequency.

In East St. Louis the trouble appears to have had its start from the heavy importations of colored laborers. This has been resented by white men and it was the mainspring of trouble that took place some weeks ago, when that city was the scene of violence. The present riot has developed perhaps the most extensive and serious uprising against negroes in any community since the draft riots in New York, though Atlanta a few years ago had an affair of the sort that took some eminence. In any event, the bloody incident at East St. Louis highly ornaments the civilization in the midst of which it occurred. This is the more so the case, because of the fact that before the riots reached their climax of bloodshed and incendiarism the state troops of Illinois had been poured by hundreds into the turbulent city to quell the disorder and to prevent what afterwards took place.

There may be mitigations, but at this distance it looks as though some one were due to be called to account for the failure of the soldiers to do their duty early in the riots. It is recounted in the dispatches to the press that members of the mob relieved scores of soldiers of their guns and that these arms later were employed against the negroes. There was no serious attempt, it would appear, to suppress the rioting and prevent wholesale slaughter and arson until after the violence of the mob had been abated somewhat by the fury of its own exertions. The governor of Illinois ought to have a heart to heart talk with the commander of the soldiers he sent to East St. Louis to restore order.

As to the riot itself and its consequences to the colored people, the negroes in this instance have their own kind to blame for the war made upon them. Negro mobs were abroad and one crowd defied the police and murdered an officer. That was a fine start for the bloody work in a community where much less was needed to stir the white folks to a wild pitch of fury against the black folks. The negroes who took part in the earlier stages of the riot were looking for trouble and they found no end of it. The affair is bloody enough and bad enough, but it is not likely to mark the close of the war of the races in East St. Louis unless the local authorities start out resolved to make an end of it. The bad blood is likely to leap to heat at any time—a contingency that the governor of Illinois ought to keep in mind.

There have been fears expressed for a year past that the heavy importation of colored labor from southern states to northern industrial centers would breed race troubles and the East St. Louis affair offers some proof of the danger. Down south there will be no great regret over the matter. Almost anything that will discourage colored labor from abandoning its wonted fields for the better wages offered in the north will be welcomed and approved.

CUTTING OFF NEUTRALS.

It may in some ways go hard with the neutral nations of western Europe to encounter an American embargo on foodstuffs, but whatever the degree the price will be just. They have invited the measures under which they now must suffer. Through these neutrals Germany has been obtaining a large volume of food—enough, according to the estimate of Mr. Herbert C. Hoover, to feed her armeis. It has entirely ceased to be any part of America's business to purvey to Germany's needs.

The embargo will not condemn the neutrals to starvation. They will be permitted certain determined amounts of certain foodstuffs that they will doubtless value sufficiently to keep when they get them and not pass them on over the frontiers to Germany. This will cut off a good deal of ready and easy money from the factors in neutral countries who have been furnishing American foodstuffs to the German commissary. It is quite likely that the percentage of the commissions has been high enough to make the business attractive and a hard line of trade to be given up. Those who have been gaining from it doubtless have gained enough to leave substantial consolations for the extinction of their business.

As Mr. Hoover has stated, the blockade of Germany ought now to be made a complete and effectual blockade, which certainly it has not been while that the western neutrals have been able to get immense stores of food from America to deliver to Germany. The increase in our commerce with those countries since the war began, as compared with our commerce in normal times, shows to what an immense extent American foodstuffs must have been going into Germany. The embargo will well-night put an end to the feeding of the German army on what is raised in America.

The consequences will be in more than one way of advantage to America and her allies. There will be more food for them, which is important, and it will have some effect to shorten the war. It also ought to exert some influence on prices in this country, though that will not be of so much moment after the food control law is in operation as it might else have become.

EXEMPTION BOARDS IMPORTANT.

It is emphasized in President Wilson's proclamation relating to the use of the conscription law that much depends upon the exemption boards. Indeed, if the new law is to be made to work with success, more depends upon the administration of the exemption phases of it than upon any other feature of the law.

There will be in every community a good many slackers who will seek to escape service by certificate of unfitness for service, because of dependents or of employment. The exemption board will have to judge of the character and justice of such claims. Its responsibility to the government of course is paramount, but its responsibility to men of conscriptable age but not of conscriptable fitness or condition is also heavy. The thing is that the government be not hampered in any wise in the work of getting an army of suitable and fit men and that at the same time the draft do not clutch any young man who for any good reason ought not to be drafted.

So it is that the exemption boards have a difficult and trying task. They will be made to feel displeasure here and there and they will be brought much in contact with "pull." The president realizes and appreciates these conditions under which the boards will have to discharge their onerous and trying tasks. Working with a patriotic sense of duty uppermost is about all the consolation the members of exemption boards are likely to find in their labors of selecting and passing near three-quarters of a million young men needed for the army. Consider that there are many eligibles whose near and dear never had any notion that they were raising them to be soldiers and will do their very best bit for the registered youngsters, and some notion can be gained of the pressure to which exemption boards are likely to be subjected.

In the majority of cases there will be no overtures or interferences, but there will be in enough of them to make it clear to the boards that selecting men for the draft is a regular job and not altogether a smooth and agreeable job.

For a fellow just coming out of a long and delectable hop dream, the Russ has taken to a renewal of the war with a dash and vim and bound-to-have-it spirit that must be as great a surprise as it is a shock to the Teutonic allies. The first plunge into the new war she has started lands Russia on gained ground and delivers some ten thousand prisoners into her hands. That is admittedly a grand reopening for business that has some exclusive and unexpected features. The Russians are showing some of the stuff of which democracies are made.

Being afraid the young men who went as Illinois national guards to suppress disorders in East St. Louis would hurt somebody with their guns, the gentlemanly mobs kindly relieved the soldiers of the weapons. This must be written down as the ultimate in spirit of deference to mobs.

The president has at length got where he is going to be damned fervidly and plenteously, no matter what happens in the booze fight. A country that is two-thirds "dry" and still consumes about two billions worth of quenchers a year perforce has divided opinions.

China's emperor has come back, but it is not yet clear that China's president has vacated. There appears to be a fine prospect of a lively dispute for possession of the primeses.

There is much evidence that the Sillie Sallies of the silent patrol in Washington, having got into jail, are for the first time happy.

A NEW CONSTITUTION

(Copyright 1917 by John A. Lapp.)

The people's work is performed through national, state and local governments. Each has its own separate tasks to perform and altogether the needs of our hundred millions of people are provided for. The most important of the local governments is the city which is organized to meet the special needs of large aggregations of people living close together.

Now if we were to organize the government of this country without any other influence except common sense, we would provide that those things which concern the city should be looked after by the city, those matters which are broader than a city should be looked after by the state; and those matters which are broader than single states should be cared for by the nation.

In practice, however, no such privilege of self-government is granted to the cities of this state. The cities may not do a single thing which has not been expressly authorized by the state legislature. No matter whether the thing to be done has no concern for anyone outside the city, the state legislature must first give its consent.

The state makes the city merely its ward. It first lays down the form of government of each of the five classes into which the cities are divided. Every officer that may be appointed is specified; the salaries which are to be paid are fixed; and in great detail the duties of officers are laid down.

Having given the form of government the legislature proceeds to fix the powers of the city. In one section of the code are specified fifty-two separate powers which the city council may exercise. To this are added the innumerable special acts granting this and that authority. Then there are specifications of the powers of the board of public works, the board of safety, the health department and the executive offices. At no point is the city free to do anything which it is not expressly authorized to do.

This plan of government of cities is in marked contrast to the government of cities throughout the world. In every country in the civilized world except Turkey the cities are free to do anything for the benefit of their citizens which is not expressly prohibited. We allow our cities to do only what we tell them in advance they may do; other countries tell their cities that they may do anything which they are not forbidden in advance to do.

As a result of our method with our cities there is no freedom to proceed with the commonest duty unless in the long list of powers granted it is found that the particular power has been granted. If it has not been granted, then the city proceeds to ask the legislature at the next session to grant the power. The legislature consisting of one hundred fifty men from all parts of the state sit in judgment on whether this city or that city shall have this or that petty power.

In the session of 1917 the legislature authorized cities of the second class to have an additional clerk in the office of the controller. Another act authorized Indianapolis to employ a purchasing agent and another authorized Indianapolis to build a sewage system. These are powers which the cities ought to have without asking the legislature. They are matters of purely local concern. Yet, the time of the legislature was taken up with their consideration and the cities had to await the will of the legislature to do these obvious things.

The dependence of the city on the state in such matters destroys the efficiency of the city but it does worse than that for the citizens. When the citizens see their hopeful efforts constantly thwarted by such petty restrictions, they lose not only their efficiency but their public spirit.

The necessity of going to the legislature constantly for power to do things brings a flood of special requests. Each city wants something different and for fear other cities would oppose them, they try to ask it for themselves alone. But since a law may not be passed applying to a single city, the city asks for the act in general terms. Thus a city having a population of not more than 58,000 and not less than 53,000 want a park system or a playground. There is only one city in the description but the wording is general. Another of a different population wants something else and so on until the legislature is swamped with these special bills in the disguise of general statutes. It is had enough to have to ask authority for a thing which a city wants for itself, but when the whole legislative machinery is clogged by such requests, it is itme to call a halt.

The remedy for the condition is home rule and home rule consists of two vital factors:

1. Every city should have the right to decide on its own form of government and frame its own charter. The city should be free to have the federal form, the commission form or the commission manager form of government as it chooses and should be allowed to provide for such officers and assistants as it needs.

2. Certain powers of cities should be fixed in the constitution so that the legislature may not take them away and in general terms the city should be granted the right to do all things for the common benefit of the people which are not forbidden.

Among the specific things which place schackles upon the city today which should be removed is the provision fixing the debt limit of the cities at 2 per cent. of their valuation, this low debt limitation prevents the city from going into debt for doing many things which the business sense of the community would dictate. The limit is absolutely low and is still further reduced by the low valuation. If property is assessed at only 50 per cent. of its value, then the debt limit is cut in two and instead of a 2 per cent debt limit we have a 1 per cent. limit. It is plain that no great amount of public utility service could be provided by the city when the debt limit is only 1 per cent. The best thought of the country sanctions a limit much higher than 2 per cent. and even that higher limit would not be allowed to stand against a favorable vote of the people for a greater debt.

Likewise in the case of taxation. Present laws fix the amount which a city may tax itself for each purpose. No matter what a city's needs may be, there stands the limitation. The city itself ought to be the judge of the amount it should raise and spend, although certain limits should not be passed without a favorable vote of the people of the city.

The absurdity of debt limitations has found its own correction but it has destroyed efficiency to do it. When it was found that 2 per cent was too low a debt limit for all purposets, the idea of a separate corporation with a similar debt was born. So we have the school city and the civil city each with a 2 per cent limit. Now comes the further extension of the same idea in the establishment of a third corporation in Indianapolis—theSanitary District, another 2 per cent debt limit. In Indianapolis then, there is a debt limit of 6 per cent, but to get it the powers of the people had to be scattered into three separate corporations. The limitations are likewise evaded by the establishment of special taxing districts.

The answer to all of the jumble of city government is to set the city free to work out its own problems subject only to such limitations as will prevent them from over-riding the just interests of the larger community—the state. Freedom of cities means greater efficiency in action for common welfare, greater responsibility on the part of the citizens, and a government which is more directly responsible to the people.

BEST GAS ENGINE WILL ACHIEVE VICTORY WITH IT PREDICTS AN EXPERT

"An internal combustion war" is the way C. F. Clarkson, secretary of the Society of Automotive Engineers, describes the gigantic conflict between the allies and the centrol powers.

"This war will be won," he says in explanation, "by the group of nations that can make the best applications of the principles of internal combustion, as illustrated in the gasoline engine, to the machinery of war and then produce these war machines in the greatest quantities.

"Internal combustion today is the vital factor in the decision under the sea, on the sea, on the land and in the air.

"Under the sea we have the submarines, driven by internal combustion oil engines.

"On the sea are the 'sub-chasers' with gasoline engines.

"Above the sea are the gasoline-driven seaplanes, scouting constantly to locate submarines.

"On land are the motor trucks and the 'tanks'—the dreadnoughts of the land.

"In the air above the battle lines are the airplanes—the eyes of the army, the twentieth century cavalry, and the potential destroyers of munitions plants, canals and railroad connections.

"And far behind the battle lines, the ultimately decisive factor in war—food for the fighting men—rests on that ungainly new work animal, the farm tractor. With the terrific drains on man-power and animal power that this war has caused it would be next to impossible to feed the armies and people of the fighting nations for any number of future seasons without the tractor.

"The greatest contribution of America to victory are her tremendous resources for the practical application of internal combustion. These resources in automobile factories, tractor factories, airplane factories, engine plants, and scores of other American establishments are now being mobilized and within a few months will begin to produce these ultra-modern war machines in enormous quantities.

"All military authorities agree that when these huge squadrons of internal combustion fighting machines—especially the airplanes—reach the front, the doom of the central powers will be sealed."

ENGLAND PENSIONING MOTHERS AND FINDS PROFIT IN THE PLAN

BY JUDGE HENRY NEIL.

Father of Mothers' Pensions in the United States.

The mother's pension system as we know it in the United States is now established in England. One district of over 700,000 population, the West Ham Union, one-tenth part of London, has adopted and put into operation the pensioning of good mothers with dependent children by giving them a stated allowance of money each month on condition that these mothers stay at home and give proper care to their own children.

They found that compelling these mothers to leave their homes and go out to work ruined both the mothers and the children.

There are now 1,400 mothers with nearly 5,000 children receiving this allowance.

These are all mothers of dependent children who would be compelled to put their children in poor law institutions if they did not receive pension. They are not war widows, but women whose husbands are dead or deserted and were not soldiers.

The pensioning of war widows is an entirely different system.

The authorities here have found that juvenile crime is greatly reduced by this mother's pension system, just as we have found this to be true in the United States.

London taxpayers are also finding out that it cost much less to hire the child's own mother to give it proper care than it did to hire an institution, and it saves the mother as well as the child.

I am now going to Paris to start a campaign for mothers' pension system in France.

GOOD NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

[Indianapolis News.]

The best news that the world has had from Russia for some time is the announcement that there is now strong opposition in Germany for a separate peace. This probably means that the imperial government realizes that such a peace is impossible. But there are other cheering signs. Mr. Root is being enthusiastically welcomed, and it is evident that his speeches are making a great impression, and on the classes that it is specially necessary to impress. He has received assurances that there is no chance whatever for a separate peace. What is wanted is a real peace between democratic nations. There are signs pointing to a complete reorganization of the Russian army, which is now prepared and determined to fight the war through.

Finally the new Russian ambassador to this country told the senate and house of representatives on Saturday that "Russia rejects any idea of a separate peace," and said that "what Russia is aiming at is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations." "The triumph of German autocracy," he said, "would render such peace impossible." "Russia," he added, "will not fail to be a worthy partner in the league of honor." Even from the disturbed regions it is announced that the assurances of our own Admiral Glennon have had a good effect.

One thing seems to be practically certain, and that is that there will be no separate peace. The question rather is of strengthening the new government in Russia by winning popular support for it, and of getting the Russian army again into action. It is clear that the stand taken by the president, and the arguments of Mr. Root have done much to open the eyes of the Russian people to the German peril. There will no doubt be difficulties, and it may be some time before Russia can again be made effective in the war. But certainly the situation has cleared rapidly. The improvement has been very largely due to American influence. The service to the allied cause rendered by this government has been of great value.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

William Brumfield and bride returned today from a wedding tour in Ohio, and have gone to housekeeping at 71 College street.

Dr. Ross Morris Biggs has taken out a license to practice in this county. The doctor is a graduate of Starling, Medical college, of Columbus, Ohio.

The wedding of Miss Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Redelsheimer, of Monroeville, and Emanuel H. Strass, of Cleveland, took place last evening.

The corner stone of the new court house at Laporte was laid yesterday. B. S. Tolan, of this city, is architect of the building and superintends the construction.

Fort Wayne entertained at least 5,000 visitors to the republican state convention which assembled in this city yesterday and we did it royally as all those present will testify.

A dancing party was given last evening at the West Berry street residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cressler by Masters George and Alfred Cressler in honor of their guest, Miss Mabel Moore, of Englewood, Ill.

A new club has been organized in this city known as the "Red Headed" club. To be eligible to membership one must have bright red hair. Valentine Hartman, of the Seventh ward, is president of the club.

There will be an unveiling of a monument to the memory of "Red Jacket," an Indian chief, at Clear lake, July 4. General Samuel Goodspeed, of New York city, and Judge Caldwell, of Chicago, are the speakers.

Miss Clara Zollars entertained the T. M. C. C. club yesterday afternoon. The course of study being finished, the young ladies will devote the summer to pleasure alone. As only one member will be absent, they will not disband, but continue their meetings until fall, when a new study will be taken up.

Mrs. Mary Shepherd, an old and respected resident, died at an early hour this morning of senility, having reached the ripe years of ninety-two. She passed away at the home of her daughter, 392 South Calhoun street. The remains will be shipped to Bellefontaine, Ohio, the native place of the deceased.

Miss Minnie Rosenthal entertained at dinner last evening in compliment to her guest, Miss Clara Stettiner, of Toledo. Those present at the charming dinner party were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lohman, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Frankel, Misses Bertha Wiler, of Logansport, and Rose Nathan and Dr. Maurice Rosenthal.

CAPTAIN RYAN THANKS FORT WAYNE FOR HELP

Says Indiana is Again Leader in Proportion to Her Population.

In a letter sent to the newspapers of the city Captain Thomas F. Ryan, recruiting officer in charge of the local station, thanks Fort Wayne, her citizens and various institutions for the support and assistance so freely given in the big campaign for enlistment in the regular army made last week.

His letter is as follows:

I desire to express the thanks and gratitude of both this office and that of the war department for the most magnificent and cordial support which was given this office during the past week, or rather the period known as "Recruiting week."

With the exception of a few stores and shops, the merchants of not only Fort Wayne, but of every town in this district, were more than glad for us to display our advertising matter, only a few declined to do so.

Both the American fife and drum corps and the Jefferson fife and drum corps donated their services and rendered valuable aid.

We are especially indebted to Albert Thomas, Rev. A. J. Folsom, Charles M. Neizer, Rev. C. Claud Travis, W. H. Reed, H. Hilgemann, E. M. Emrick, Guy Colerick, Charles R. Lane, James M. Barrett, Judge Carl Yaple and many others who gave their time in making patriotic speeches and appeals to assist the cause.

The office is indebted to Dan Beers and the Reserve Automobile club for their services. We appreciate that everyone of these gentlemen gave up their time and neglected their own affairs to do what they could to assist the government.

We owe the daily papers of this city a debt of gratitude for the liberal and patriotic assistance which was rendered, voluntarily and free. I made it a point to watch the newspapers of the large cities, during the past week, and the support rendered by the Fort Wayne daily papers surpassed them all in every respect.

We also desire to express our thanks and appreciation to Mr. Greenland and the Northern Indiana Traction company for their most valuable assistance; also to Mr. Scheiman and the Fort Wayne council of patriotic service.

That the result of the week's campaign throughout the country was disappointing to the government is without question. It will be hard to convince me that the poor results obtained, not only in the state of Indiana, but throughout the entire country was due to lack of patriotism on the part of the young men, for I am convinced they are good, patriotic Americans, who are willing to give up their life's blood, if necessary, but they have not been aroused to the dire necessity of their service and to a thorough understanding of the present crisis.

Indiana, however, has no reason to feel ashamed of her work during the past week, or any other time, for she furnished more men, in proportion to her population, than has any other state in the United States. She has come through with her share of the Liberty loan and for the Red Cross and the people of the United States know that no matter what is needed, be it money or men, they can always count on this great state responding. We are not finished with our work. We have only commenced. There is much to be done in order that we may do it well. It is necessary for us to have not only the co-operation of the daily newspapers, but the entire public.

The recruiting office is a public office. Many mothers, wives, sweethearts will have their dear ones in this war. It will be, therefore, a pleasure to not only myself but to the men on this force, to do everything we can for such persons and to give them any information they may desire and should we not have the information in this office, we will get it from the department in which it is kept.

Recruiting will continue and volunteers will be accepted up to the actual day that a man is drafted and after the draft, a young man whose name was not drawn, will still have the right to volunteer.

Very respectfully,
THOMAS F. RYAN,
Capt., U. S. A., Rtd., R. O.

APELLA

REGISTERED U. S. PATENT OFFICE

"AN APPLE A DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY"

Good for Boys and Girls

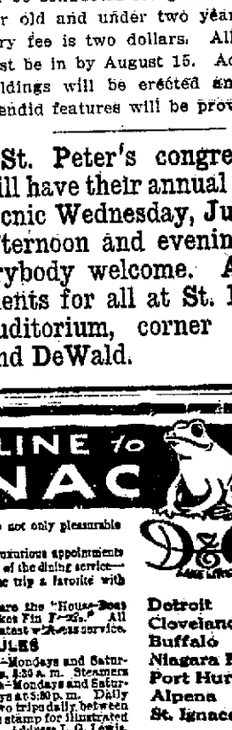
CHILDREN like Apella. You'll enjoy seeing them smack their lips with pleased delight. Its sparkling brilliance tempts their eyes while its super-delicious flavor thoroughly satisfies the thirst that comes from romping play.

Best of all—Apella is healthful and wholesome; there is not a bit of harm to stomach or nerves. Apella is a splendid tonic that helps the little ones digest brain, muscle and bone building foods. It will keep their eyes bright, and skins clear. Remember that Apella is pure, clean, non-alcoholic.

—and Good for You

Apella permits you to enjoy the healthful qualities of the apple all the year 'round. It is the pure, unfermented juice of hand-picked, sound, ripe Autumn apples, naturally flavored and spiced.

Apella keeps because it is clean. Every apple is brushed and washed before pressing; any soft spot or blemish is removed. It is of delicious flavor because you get the uncontaminated fruit juice—positively without adulterant or added preservative.



Apella pleases older persons as well as children. It is a healthful drink that promotes good digestion and drives out noxious matters that cause dull eyes, muddy complexions, lethargic brains and dyspeptic headaches.

At the Soda Fountain

A parent is sometimes puzzled to know what to choose for a child at a soda fountain. You can order Apella in serene confidence that it is good for the youngster.

As a table beverage in the home Apella has no superior, and you can buy it by the case or bottle from your grocer. It is served in first-class clubs, cafes, restaurants and buffets.

THE MOST PATRIOTIC TOWN IN AMERICA IS CALLED HURST, IT IS IN ILLINOIS AND IT FULLY DESERVES ITS TITLE

Every Man Joins the Army, Even a One-Eyed Youth, Who Knew How, and That Little Coal Town Has No Boys to See the Girls Home Nights.

(By Chester M. Wright.)

Staff Special.

Hurst, Ill., June 28.—This is today the proudest town in America. It is entitled to this great pride. For, so far as can be learned, no other place in the United States has given such a high proportion of its sons to serve in the war for world liberty under the Stars and Stripes.

I came to see what manner of town it is that can make a sacrifice so great. I found it a typical American community of less than 1,000 population, here in the Illinois coal belt, just where the sweeping flat country gives way to abrupt little hillocks all wooded and green.

There are in all the town not half a dozen two-story homes. Mostly the homes are neat little one-story cottages, with flourishing, well kept war gardens in the rear.

It had been said that every man of military age had gone to join the colors. I find the condition is almost that. Registration officials believe there are not more than 28 men now in Hurst who would be accepted as soldiers—and everyone agrees that before selection is made all these will have enlisted voluntarily.

So completely has the town been shaken by the departure of its youth for war that nearly all social activities have been disrupted. The men's club has been forced to close—its membership gone to war. The athletic club has broken up. The young men's club of Hurst's only church has quit. And there will be no base ball in Hurst this year.

The band, too, has suffered a severe blow. In the parlor of the T. P. Russell home hangs a ribbon-garlanded clarinet. It will never be taken down till "Junior" comes back to take his place in the Hurst band. And if he doesn't come back—.

Joseph Ganter, drummer, took the drum he loved and gave it into the hands of his old friend, W. R. Clark, agent for the nearby Iron Mountain railroad, for safe keeping until he comes back. And Clark regards the keeping of this drum as one of the missions of his life.

Maidens of Hurst have no escorts to see them safely home in the moonlight of these soft semi-southern evenings, when the village socials are over or the Sunday evening sermon is finished.

The girls not only link arms and go home together, but they buckle down and do the work the boys used to do.

Every lad that went away was a bread winner.

Some were miners at the Hurst mine; some were railroad workers; some were employed in the stores of the village. Not one that had not some useful job that helped keep the town going.

I went among the homes of the boys who have gone. Always I found in the mothers a pride in their sons.

There is not a regret in Hurst. There is the mother worry for sons away from the home hearth—but not one regret.

The mother of Ernest Robinson brought me her son's last letter. "I'm always worried till I get a letter," she said.

Young Robinson has been sent to Panama. He wrote on board ship.

"They are just as good to me as can be," he wrote. "I think I will be home in nine months. If you knew what came over the wireless a few nights ago! I am not allowed to tell you, but it was good news."

Many such letters were given me to read.

"Read what my boy says," mothers said, over and over. And, proudly, "he likes it better every day."

"I suppose you watched your boys march away," I said for want of a more inspired remark.

"I couldn't," said this mother simply. "I couldn't. I just stayed here at home, inside the house. I hardly knew what was happening till they had gone away."

Now let me tell you something about the sheer grit of the boys of Hurst.

Paul Shanklin tried to enlist in the navy. They turned him down—said his lungs were weak. Then he went way down to Cairo and tried for the infantry. They turned him away for an ingrown toe nail. He came back and had that cut away. Then he went to East St. Louis and joined the coast artillery. His brother Carl followed and joined the marines.

Siegel Vaughn has tried three times to enlist. They tell him he's under weight. He told me he'd yet put on the pounds needed and get into the army. I believe him.

Gideon Russell, with a leg gone, tried to enlist. Another boy, Floyd James, who'd lost half a foot, tried, too.

Charles Counce, blind in one eye, couldn't resist his country's call. He went with the rest to enlist. Back in the line he stood, watching while the others were examined. When it came his turn he knew how to answer so that the lack of an eye wasn't any bother at all. He was taken.

Hurst is in Williamson county, in southern Illinois.

To get to Hurst take the Illinois Central railroad to DeSoto, nearest railroad station.

From DeSoto, Hurst is reached by flivver, over a six-mile road on which it is said improvements are to be made as soon as the residents can take time from their war crops.

"The girls buckle down and do the work the boys used to do," says Correspondent Wright, who visited Hurst, "most patriotic town in America." In the picture are Dorothy Vaughn hoeing and Daisy Stelle cultivating a war garden; Ruth Hunter, volunteer for delivery wagon service to replace a man gone to war and (below) Siegel Vaughn, who is trying to gain weight to succeed in his fourth attempt to enlist.

DATES DECIDED FOR HUNTERTOWN'S FAIR

Live Stock Exhibit Will Be Held from September 25 to 28 Inclusive.

Directors and officers of the Huntertown Livestock association have decided upon the dates when the annual livestock exhibit will be given. The dates are September 25, 26, 27 and 28. It is the aim to make this the biggest show in the state.

The feature of this exhibit will be that there will be absolutely no side show attractions. Last year only horses and cattle were exhibited, while this year it is the plan to also show hogs, sheep and poultry.

A special feature for horsemen also will be conducted for grade colts one year old and under two years. The entry fee is two dollars. All entries must be in by August 15. Additional buildings will be erected and many splendid features will be provided.

St. Peter's congregation will have their annual indoor picnic Wednesday, July 4th, afternoon and evening. Everybody welcome. Amusements for all at St. Peter's auditorium, corner Hanna and DeWald.

Chester Hinton is driving the automobile.

A farewell breakfast was given on Sunday morning at the home of Mrs. Ralph Smith, who lives on the Hayden road in honor of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dukes, who are soon going to California to live. In the party were a number of friends who have been in the habit of taking walks together and they were the families of M. S. Mahurin, W. H. Rohan, Miss Mary Kolb, Miss Thompson and Mr. Edwards.

An uncommon coincidence in the matter of birthday anniversaries occurs in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Stahl, both of whom date their birth anniversaries on July 4. Arrangements have been made to observe the anniversaries this year by holding a family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barba, the parents of Mrs. Stahl, near Robison park. Only relatives and a few most intimate friends will take a part. Among the relatives will be Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Stahl and children and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stahl and children.

Mrs. John Neukam, of 3226 Anthony boulevard, was given a pleasant birthday surprise party on Sunday by a company of friends, who enjoyed the fun as much as the surprised hostess. Those who took part in this good time were Mesdames Herman Bleich, Hirshman, Hilke, Rudolph, Boedecker, Martin Hengstler, Thomas Hengstler, John Neukam, jr., Winkler, Trautman, Hartman, Spitz, Bertha Bleich, Fred Einseidel, Eppel, Wert, Sabian, Julia Auer, Robert Lallow, Fred Fox, Ernest Brinkman, Ensien, Merklein and Misses Lena Merklein, Rose Einseidel, Stella Young, Rose Fox, Clara Merklein, Emmelia Boedecker, and Ralph, Harold and Ruth Lallock, Ernest and Lucille Brinkman, Marie and Dorothy Einseidel, Otto and Virginia Neukam, Irene Auer. Kavanaugh-Johann.

Miss Louise Margaret Johann, daughter of Mrs. Carrie Johann, of 1126 Bluff street, and Mr. Boyd Kavanaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kavanaugh, of Fourth street, were quietly married at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Cathedral of Immaculate Conception. Rev. Father McCarthy officiated at the ceremony and mass. The attendants were Miss Marie Johann and Mr. Herbert Nichter, cousins of the bride. The bride made a pretty appearance in her bridal costume combined with georgette crepe and pearl trimming. The bridal bouquet was a shower of white roses, sweet peas and swansonia. The bridesmaid was dressed in a sand color silk gown and she wore a picture hat to correspond in coloring. The bridesmaid held a bouquet of red roses. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride and the immediate relatives were present. Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Kavanaugh will leave for a trip to Buffalo, Cleveland and other eastern points and after they return here will be at home with the bride's mother. Both bride and groom are young people of fine character.

VERA ROEHM'S HEALTH TIP STRETCHING EASY, HELPFUL

By VERA ROEHM.

For today's lesson on physical culture I present the stretching exercise. It's very simple and beneficial.

Difference in weight and height has everything to do with the size of the various parts of the form. For instance, it would be impossible to say that the calf should measure 13 inches, thigh 23 inches, etc., unless the exact height were specified. A figure may be plump with round curves or slender with long, graceful lines, and both be termed good figures, the main point being that the lines are shapely and in proportion.

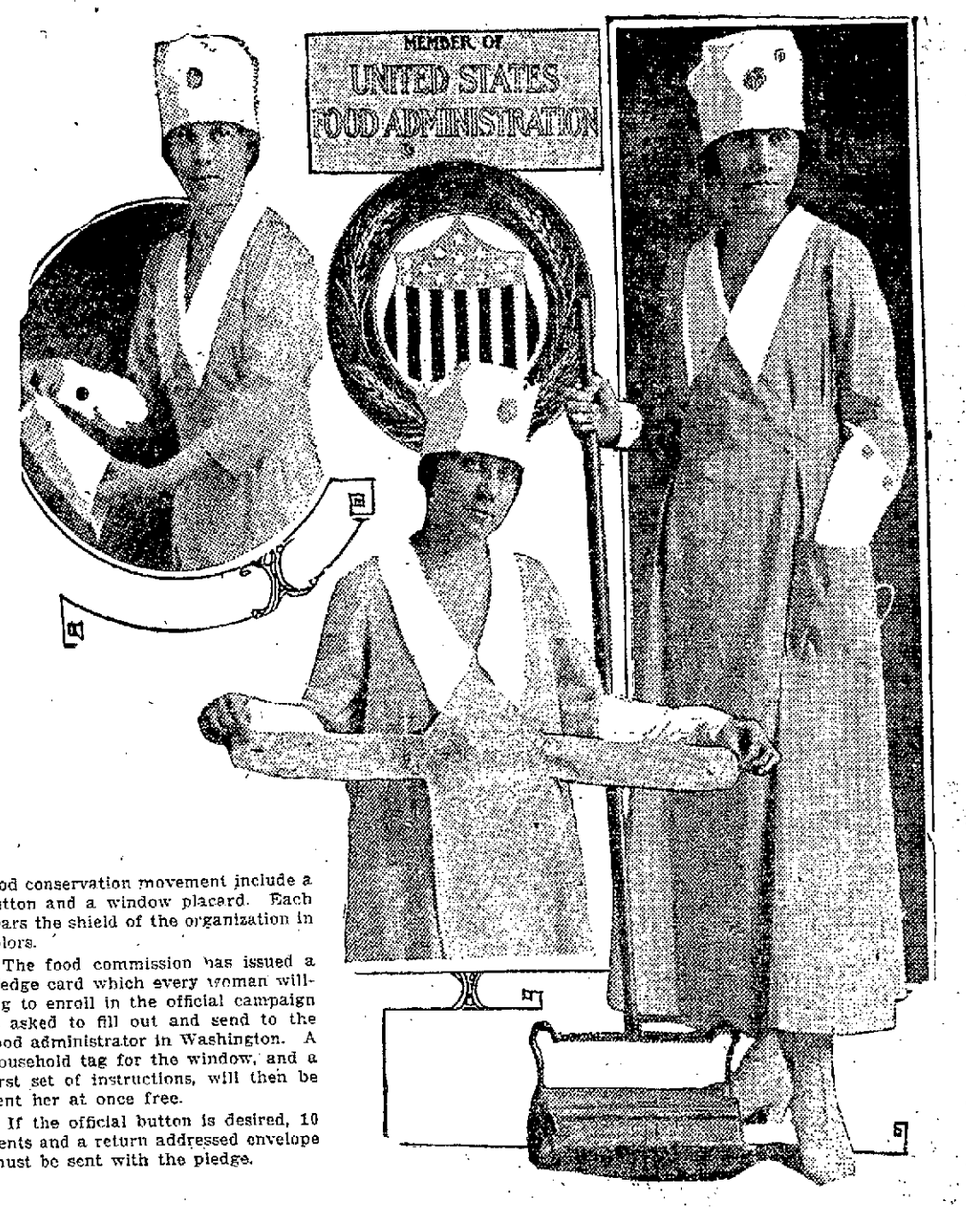
This column is not only meant to perfect the body, but to also give a new air to the carriage, a spring to the walk; in fact, an entirely new air to your whole being. Even the eyes will have a brightness which they lacked before and when you take your walk, whether it be in the store or for a stroll, how light and easy the body will seem to move along. No effort whatever to walk a few miles.

For short or stout people try the stretching pose. There isn't much work attached to this, although it will work wonders. It consists mainly of stretching all the muscles in the entire body, first to one side then the other, going from the ordinary standing position. Raise the arms straight ahead in the position shown above, trying to touch an imaginary something in the air, extending the left arm in the same manner toward the floor; stretch the body and rest its weight upon the right leg, which will bring the left one up on its toe. Shift the weight as the feet are changed. The entire weight is upon the foot on the side of the body where the arm extends into the air.

Another form of stretching is to take a standing position with the arms held down at the sides, then stretch the arms up above the head as far as you can, raising upon the toes, at the same time, sink back into standing position. These exercises are not strenuous and can easily be taken from ten to fifteen times.

MADAM! UNCLE SAM DESIGNED THIS UNIFORM FOR YOU

Here's milady in her new uniform as a member of the national food administration, which is modeled on the woman's army against waste. Note the insignia of food conservation on cap and sleeve. Also observe the capacious pockets on each side. The body of the uniform is blue, the collar, cuffs and cap of white, the insignia of red. The belt, as one inset shows, slips through a slot in the double front, permitting the dress to be fastened with one button. The detachable cuffs may be removed for dishwashing or mopping, leaving a three-quarter sleeve. Above is the official household tag, to be displayed in windows of homes co-operating with Uncle Sam in the conservation campaign. The insignia on the tag is the same as that on the official buttons to be furnished members of the food administration, and also will be used in the armbands and caps of the official uniforms.



Here is the first peep at the official uniform to be worn by American women enlisted in the government's food conservation campaign.

It's both practical and pretty.

It conserves labor. It is easily washed, being made of washable materials in fast colors. It is scarcely more trouble to iron than a small sheet, as the dress opens out flat and the cap, when unsnapped, is two plain pieces of cloth.

It conserves time. Set the cap on your head, poke the arms through the sleeves like you'd put on a coat, fold it around you and button the one big button which holds the straps at the back. Presto! You are ready to fight waste for the Stars and Stripes!

It conserves looks. If a caller taps at the door just after you have splashed tomato soup or berry juice on the front of the uniform, you can unbutton the one button, quickly fold over the clean panel of the double-breasted front, fasten one button and greet your caller with a serene brow!

The white cuffs are detachable and may be removed for dishwashing or mopping floors, and can be changed easily when soiled.

It's a patriotic uniform, too. Blue dress, white collars and cuffs and the red insignia of the food conservation shield on sleeve and cap.

This insignia is an embroidered shield of the Stars and Stripes, surrounded by heads of golden, ripe wheat. It is a badge of honor for the housewife, as distinctly as the red cross is for nurse or physician. It designates her as one of the great army serving in the nation's cause, and in a service absolutely as essential as that of the men on the firing line or the nurses in the hospitals.

Patterns of the uniform may be had immediately from the food commission, Washington, for 10 cents. Within a month they will be placed on sale by all standard pattern concerns and may be obtained from Indianapolis stores.

Household experts declare the pattern the best they have ever seen for a practical, economical but attractive work dress. It may be worn either as a dress or as an apron, and may be put on or off in a jiffy.

Other insignia of membership in the food conservation movement include a button and a window placard. Each bears the shield of the organization in colors.

The food commission has issued a pledge card which every woman willing to enroll in the official campaign is asked to fill out and send to the food administrator in Washington. A household tag for the window, and a first set of instructions, will then be sent her at once free.

If the official button is desired, 10 cents and a return addressed envelope must be sent with the pledge.

Martin-Gidley.

Miss Hazel Gidley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gidley, and Mr. Edward Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, were married on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the parsonage of St. John's Reformed church by Rev. J. H. Bosch. Immediate relatives were witnesses. The bride looked very pretty in a white dress of silk and georgette crepe and a white hat and she held a bouquet of bride roses. The wedding supper was served at the bride's home where the young couple will live for the present. The groom is a tinner at the Electric works.

Houk Family Reunion.

The first reunion of the Houk family convened at Robison park Saturday, June 30. Representatives from the various families of Fort Wayne, Decatur, Hoagland, Defiance, Harlan, St. Joe and Spencerville to the number of sixty-five were present to enjoy the day. A bountous basket dinner was served at the noon hour to which all did ample justice. An organization was perfected with the following officers elected: J. C. Houk, of Decatur, president, and Pearl Goldsmith, of Spencerville, secretary. Robison park was again selected as the place for the next reunion. The exact date will be announced later.

Mrs. F. D. Jackson left on Tuesday morning for Grand Rapids, to spend the summer. Mrs. Samuel Jackson gave a farewell party in honor of the departing lady on Monday evening and a dozen friends joined them, leaving many pretty gifts as souvenirs.

BIRDS ANSWER SINGER AT UNIVERSITY STADIUM

There have been pictures of grapes and other fruit so realistic that it is said birds were lured to pick at them. All credit to painters of such pictures. But a young American soprano has "gone them one better" in the way of innocent deception, and the poor birds were again the victims.

It all happened when Miss Idelle Patterson sang in the great Greek stadium that glorifies the grounds of the University of California. Accompanied by an orchestra of fifty pieces, she sung an aria ending in a beautifully rendered trill and cadenza. The vast audience, deeply stirred, sat motionless as if under a spell. At that moment the birds in the surrounding trees began to warble and chirp in a chorus of delighted response to the singer. Then the spell broke and the massed tiers of the stadium burst into wild applause.

BREAKS COLLARBONE.

Ruth Close, the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Close, of Elmwood avenue, suffered a broken collarbone Saturday afternoon when she bumped into an older girl while playing in the yard. She is at her parents' home.

TWELVE CHILDREN IN ELEVEN YEARS

MR. AND MRS. HAYES AND PART OF THEIR FAMILY.

Twelve children during eleven years of married life is the record of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hayes, who live near Dalton, Ga. Of these eight are boys and they are being raised to be soldiers if there is need for them when they are old enough. These are the historic dates in the Hayes family:

Married Aug. 6, 1905; July 3, 1907, birth of first son; Dec. 4, 1908, birth of second son; March 22, 1910, twin daughters; Oct. 18, 1911, second twin daughters; Sept. 5, 1912, son; Sept. 23, 1913, son; Feb. 10, 1915, twin sons; March 24, 1916, more twin sons.

MRS. JACOB WYNANT DEAD NEAR LARWILL

Well Known Resident of Whtley County Passes Away.

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Columbia City, Ind., July 3.—Mrs. Jacob Wyant, aged 69, for several years a sufferer from complications, is dead at her home just east of Larwill. She is survived by her husband, two sons, Walter, of Springfield, Mo., and Wilbur, of Gary, and two daughters, Mrs. Mable Manship, of Detroit, and Mrs. Sarah Click, of Wray, Colo. The deceased, whose maiden name was Miss Mary Kerr, is also survived by a brother, H. M. Kerr, of Chicago, and two sisters, Mrs. S. P. Kaler, of Columbia City, and Mrs. Sarah Seabold, of Rising Sun, Md. The funeral occurs Wednesday afternoon at the home, with interment in Lakeview.

Through Attorney E. K. Strong, the General Hocking Coal company has brought suit against B. F. Romey, former coal dealer of this city, to recover judgment of $255.12, balance due on a coal account.

Mrs. Charles Avey, wife of Councilman Avey of this city, has been adjudged of unsound mind by a commission composed of Drs. N. I. Kithcart and O. V. Schuman and Justice Abraham Elder. Mrs. Avey, who is afflicted with melancholia, is under guard constantly to prevent her taking her life, and admission will be sought at once to Longcliff hospital.

Roy Campbell, of Fort Wayne, made a splendid balloon ascension Sunday afternoon at the Tri lake resort, dropping with his parachute near Round lake, while his balloon traveled six miles farther and landed in the waters of Blue lake, near Rapp's landing.

Attorney Frank J. Heller has received from Federal Judge A. B. Anderson, of Indianapolis, the final discharge of Walter R. Bartel, of South Whitley, in bankruptcy. There were no payments made creditors.

The autos of Logan Staples, driven by Ernest Born, and of William Ladig, of Arcola, collided Sunday evening at the Main-Van Buren street intersection when the Ladig auto, coming from the north on Main street, turned the corner east to Van Buren, directly in front of the approaching Born car, as it was coming north on Main street. Both autos were damaged considerably.

So far since June 22 there have registered in the county for the constitutional delegacy election 316 people, of which about one-fourth are women.

Scalp Irritation

Stop It Now!

The heat of the sun dries out the natural oils of the scalp. Dandruff increases. Scalp itching becomes not only unpleasant but even dangerous.

Stop this itching now You can, with very little trouble! Sprinkle, only twice a week, a little Pompeian HAIR Massage on your scalp. Rub it in the Pompeian way (carefully described in booklet enclosed in every package) and soon your scalp itching will stop.

Pompeian HAIR Massage

Stops Dandruff--Hair Coming Out

The success of Pompeian HAIR Massage is in the "massage" idea. It is a treatment, not merely a tonic. The massaging (rubbing) of the scalp wakes up the roots of the hair to new life. This massaging also opens the pores of the scalp to the wonderfully stimulating liquids in Pompeian HAIR Massage. Dandruff goes. Your hair will become and stay healthy, vigorous and attractive.

Pompeian HAIR Massage is a clear amber liquid (not a cream). Not oily. Not sticky. Very pleasant to use. 25c, 50c and $1 bottles, at the store.

MEN—Have your barber give you a treatmen. and prove to yourself how refreshed your scalp feels by one application.

Don't hesitate to use Pompeian HAIR Massage. It is made by the old and reliable makers of Pompeian MASSAGE Cream and Pompeian NIGHT Cream.

HELPFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Don't throw away the inside of a double boiler when the water pan plays out; put it aside the tea kettle. It works just as well.

When washing blouses or handkerchiefs put a small lump of orris root in the rinsing water. It gives a perfume of violets which is as lasting as a sachet placed among the clothes.

To clean a sponge, rub thoroughly into sponge a fresh lemon; then rinse in water to which soda has been added.

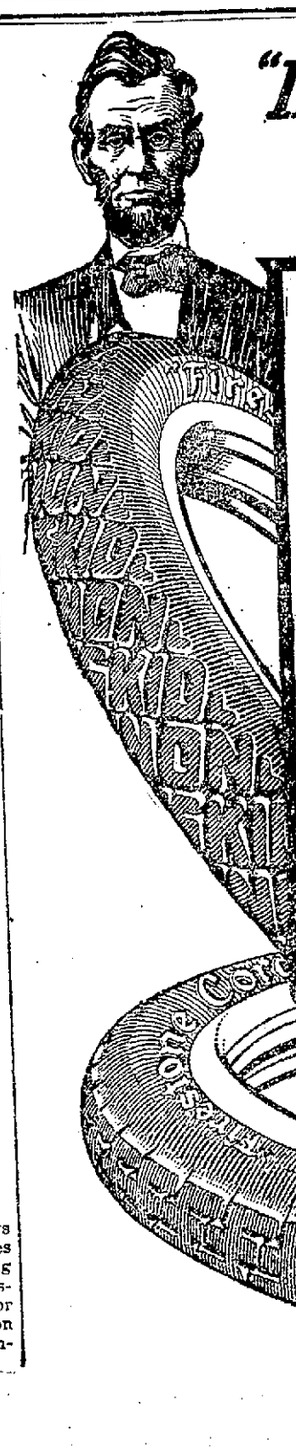
"In Union There is Strength" A. Lincoln



FROM the beginning of the Firestone business, Lincoln's advice was heeded by its founder and present head, Mr. Firestone. He saw the power in singleness of purpose, and the roots of Firestone success are laid deep in organization.

Firestone

builders, having first established the standard of perfection in fabric tires, now offer this super-size Cord, the tire of highest efficiency. It has more than extra resiliency. It has a sturdiness of structure that means endurance for city use or buffeting of bad roads.

With the true Abe Lincoln policy of "pull together," Firestone stock distribution has made 11,000 employes active stockholders in the business. Thus every Firestone employe has a personal interest in giving you the right tire and service.

Equip today for the double economy of fuel-saving and lowest tire cost per mile.

NONE TOO RICH AND NONE TOO POOR TO SERVE THE RED CROSS.

These employes of a New York store report an hour before the place opens to make surgical bandages. The society woman of yesterday has become the Red Cross worker of today. There is hardly a woman of social prominence who is not personally engaged in some form of Red Cross service, whether it is folding gray pajamas for wounded soldiers or directing great work rooms. Like their sisters in Europe, they find no task too humble. The girl in the store isn't walking out when the gong rings nowadays. She is staying behind at the same old machine to work for the Red Cross. She is taking a precious hour from her small leisure to give to wounded men. Nor is she the only working girl who is taking the time needed for rest and diversion to spend in work for the Red Cross. Hundreds of her sister toilers in the factories, the department stores and offices are staying late or coming early to make pajamas or convalescent robes for wounded soldiers or snatching minutes from their noon hour to roll bandaaes and make compresses

BUSINESS MAN GREATLY BENEFITED

F. J. WEHRMEYER, PROMINENT WAYNE STREET JEWELER, MAKES STATEMENT.

Gives Credit to Ironated Herbs With Pepsin

No new article of the times has created such profound interest, especially in the larger cities, as has the introduction of Ironated Herbs with Pepsin (in liquid form). People in all walks of life have been attracted to it; the statesman, the professional man, the mechanic, financier, lawyer, preacher, bookkeeper, farmer, brakeman, society woman, waitress—they all have tested it and permitted the use of their names in telling of it.

Every day local people are coming forward with signed statements, telling of the great benefits they have derived from the use of Ironated Herbs. F. J. Wehrmeyer, whose place of business and residence are at 111 West Wayne street, was added to the ever increasing stream of voluntary recommendations.

Mr. Wehrmeyer conducts a jewelry store on Wayne street and is regarded as an authority on diamonds and jewels in general.

His progressive business methods have made friends of his customers for him, and it is extremely gratifying to receive the signed indorsement of such men as Mr. Wehrmeyer.

"I saw this Ironated Herbs medicine advertised and heard of the good it was doing for people in a run-down condition, so I bought a bottle and began taking it. I feel a whole lot better now. My appetite has increased and my food tastes natural again. I suffered with gas on stomach, after eating. Am happy to say after taking Ironated Herbs it has entirely disappeared. I sleep better and have new strength and energy. My improvement has been so marked that friends ask what I have been taking. I am a great believer in iron for the nerves and blood, and find this organic iron in liquid form acts quicker than any I have ever taken. My digestion is better and I do not feel uncomfortable after eating like I used to. Ironated Herbs, in my opinion, is a great medicine and I think it will do as much for others in my condition as it has done for me."

"Concentrated pepsin in Ironated Herbs, the king of digestive agents, working in harmony with the natural gastric juices of the stomach causes my food to be digested properly with the result that muscular development is rapidly acquired."

Organic Iron is the making of thick red blood and also gives strength to the nerves. Pepsin in concentrated form, dissolves, digests and assimilates the food and the potent herbal extracts destroy and eliminate poisons from the system.

Our demonstrator will gladly explain to you its merits and supply you with a bottle at Meyer Bros.' drug store, 902 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne. It is also sold in all Meyer Bros.' other Fort Wayne stores; at Bluffton by Davenport & Ehley; Huntington, A. C. Beckstein; Roanoke, Hacket & Sons; New Haven, H. E. WOMEN KEEP PACE WITH MEN IN REGISTERING

Judge Thornton's Decision Has Not Disturbed Them in the Least.

The women of Fort Wayne are keeping pace with the men in the matter of registration for both the city election and the election for delegates to the constitutional convention. Judge W. W. Thornton's decision in the Marion superior court that they could not vote for delegates to the constitutional convention has made no material difference. The women feel confident Judge Thornton's opinion will not be sustained.

Registration among the women in Fort Wayne has been carried on in a systematic manner. Many meetings have been held in all parts of the city. Notary publics are always on hand, who swear the women and properly register them.

According to the interpretation of the registration law, made by Ele Stansbury, attorney general; William W. Spencer and W. T. Thompson, and approved by Governor Goodrich, and concurred in by Bernard Korbly, democratic state chairman, and Will Hays, republican state chairman, there are two registration periods in the state this year. Registration for municipal elections in the first and second class cities — Indianapolis, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and South Bend—began the first Monday in May and will close on October 6. No registration is required for the municipal elections in cities of the third, fourth and fifth classes.

Registration for the special election, when delegates to the constitutional convention will be chosen, began June 22 and will end August 20 at 5 p. m.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

TIMOTHY HAY TO BE SCARCE

T. A. Coleman Also States That Oats Harvest Will Be a Bumper.

CUTTING WHEAT IN SOUTHERN INDIANA

Automobile Business is Benefit to Agricultural Conditions.

Timothy hay will be very scarce this year while clover hay will be plentiful. T. A. Coleman, of the agricultural extension department of Purdue university, who was in Fort Wayne Tuesday morning, made this statement. He says that the city's demand has caused this result in the hay crop.

The automobile trucks which have taken the place of many horses is benefitting agricultural conditions, stated the Purdue man. He said that clover hay was a better feed for city horses than timothy, and consequently the farmers are raising those products which will have an easy market.

Timothy hay, according to the expert, is detrimental to the soil while cloves rebuilds the soil and makes it more productive. For this reason he states that the auto business is a benefit to the conditions in the country.

In speaking of the outlook of the crops for 1917, Mr. Coleman stated that oats at the present time gave appearance of a bumper crop. He said he did not remember the time when oats looked better.

While traveling through the southern part of the state the latter part of last week, Mr. Coleman saw much wheat being cut. The crop will be good. He told of one county where there was nearly 10,000 less acres of wheat, but that expectations were that the number of bushels would be just as large as in former years.

The corn crop in most parts of the state has already acquired a height eighteen to thirty inches, Mr. Coleman stated. He regards this as an exceptional height for this time of the year. The corn fields in nearly all sections of the county are in need of cultivation as the recent numerous rains, followed by warm weather have formed a hard crust on the surface of all fields.

Will Reccommend Man.

Mr. Coleman went to Columbia City Tuesday afternoon, where by appointment he was to meet with the Whitley county board of education relative to the appointment of a county agent. Mr. Coleman will reccommend B. L. Mummel.

Monday he met with the board at Bluffton and it was voted to retain County Agent Harry Gray another year.

At the present time there are 41 county agents in the state and 14 counties who want agents are on the waiting list. It is said that Indiana leads all other states in the union in regards to the number of county agents. Pennsylvania is second.

Silo Demonstrations.

County Agent A. J. Hutchins announces that everything is in readiness for the silo and silage demonstrations which are to be given in Allen county Thursday and Friday by J. W. Schwab. Thursday afternoon a demonstration will be given at the farm residence of A. O. Hadley, near Poe and Thursday evening at 8:30 one will be given on the farm of Frank Pfeiffer. The county agent is particularly anxious to have Ft. Wayne men interested in this work attend.

Friday afternoon Mr. Schab will speak at the farm of A. H. Knight near Zanesville.

Henry Beadell, of more or less notoriety as the great money raiser for civic and patriotic campaigns, left Tuesday for Walloon lake, Michigan, to be gone until Sept. 1, to give the public a much needed rest, but look out when he returns.

A pedro party will be given Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Unity hall by the Loyal lodge No. 85, L. A. to B. of R. T.

USE OF PENCIL MAY RUIN REMONSTRANCE

Thousands of Dollars at Stake in Decision of Attorney.

Thousands of dollars worth of improvement hangs upon the power of a pencil mark. Whether the full length of Rudisill boulevard is to receive a top coat dressing, at cost of many hundreds of dollars, depends upon the validity of signing a remonstrance with a lead pencil.

Park board rules state that names attached to all remonstrances must be signed in ink. A part of those who signed the objection to the improvement of the boulevard wrote their names with a lead pencil. The city attorney will be called upon to decide whether their signatures can be held as valid. If the penciled names are rejected the remonstrance will be lost. If the right of those who wrote with a pencil is sustained the remonstrance will over ride the improvement plan.

If joint deeds are to be considered as entitled to two votes there are 24 objectors to the improvement out of 40 property owners along the way, counting the names enrolled by lead pencil. If all deeds get one voice only there are 15 remonstrators from 24 property owners along the boulevard.

The seal coat dresing will cost about 27 cents per front foot, along both sides of the boulevard. A part of the property owners are objecting to the added expense of the beautiful drive. If their remonstrance is overruled by the city attorney the improvements will be made as the remonstrating period has expired, park board members say.

GETZ MAY REMAIN.

Special Council Session Will Determine Salary Increases.

If Carl Getz is paid a salary of $2,000 a year he will remain in the employ of the city, he has given members of the park board to understand. The matter of raising that amount for the efficient city forester and park superintendent will be placed before a special council session, meeting as a committee of the whole, later in the week.

The resignation of Getz from the employment of the city was not accepted by the park board Monday afternoon. Getz was asked if he would remain in his present position for $2,000 a year. He stated that he would. Park board members will appear before the council body and ask that an increase be granted him.

An applicant for the position of city forester and park superintendent presented himself before the park board, Monday. He offered to serve the city for the amount now paid Getz. He will probably be employed in case the increase of Getz's salary is refused by the council.

"We prefer to retain a man who is familiar with local conditions," said Colonel D. N. Foster, Tuesday. "We do not want to break in a new man when we have found our present superintendent to be efficient. We think we should keep him."

The matter of raising the salary of Charles J. Steiss, secretary to the park commission, will also be laid before the council members at the special session.

ATTACK FLY BASE.

Kill Life Germs of Pests, Say Health Officers.

Now is the time to wage the war on the devastating fly hosts, say members of the city health board. A fly killed now means 100,000 less of the pests next August, it is pointed out.

Kill the fly germs, is the urgent appeal of all city health deputies, who are visiting every part of the city in their inspection campaign. All manure heaps have been ordered removed. Housewives are warned not to throw waste into the back yards and alleys. Removing the feeding and breeding places for flies is the most important part of the insect eradication campaign, it is shown.

WIRE PAVILION.

Workmen for the city lighting department are engaged in wiring the pavilion in Lakeside park. Several large lamps will be placed in the building. The lights will be placed on a meter to be maintained by the park board. The maintenance fund for lights for the city has been drawn upon to its limit, city officials state.

On Vacations.

Miss Louise Scherer, clerk in the water works department, is on her vacation this week. John Dowling, ledger clerk in the water works department, has gone to Rome City to visit over the Fourth.

Sell Valuable Mineral.

The Schiefflin Drug company, of New York, will get the 300 pounds of potassium permanganate which has been the property of the health department for ten years. The eastern drug firm will pay $3.40 per pound for the mineral. The health department paid 9 cents a pound for the permanganate. The chemical which cost $27 is to be sold for $1,020, making a neat price profit for the city department.

Three Generations.

Grandmother, mother and daughter registered at the same time Monday afternoon for the coming city election. Mrs. Rachel F. Grodian, 2809 Hanna street, born in Jackson township in 1860, was the grandmother. The second generation was represented by Mrs. Clara Brouwer, 2519 Hanna street, born in Allen county in 1876. The youngest was Gladys Brouwer, born in Fort Wayne in 1896.

Ponies Are Coming.

Gentry Brothers' dog and pony show has signed up for an all day stand in Fort Wayne soon. The well known animal show is billed or July 16.

Paying Off Early.

Because Wednesday, the regular pay day, comes on the Fourth this week the water works employes were paid off on Tuesday. Water works workmen will have use of two weeks' pay on Independence day.

Plans for Sewer.

Plans for a sewer in the alley south of Riverside avenue, from Spy Run avenue east, were ordered prepared by the board of works Monday afternoon. The works board also approved the plat for Sunny Acre, south of the city, and petitioned for by H. G. Keegan.

Scarlet Fever.

Ray Williams, 1234 Boone street, has scarlet fever, the health board has been notified.

Building Permits.

Building permits were issued to E. E. Zimmerman, to build frame house, 1710 Lantz avenue, $2,000 and J. C. Noll, 1417 Barthold street, $400.

Birth Record.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George J. Alter, 1418 Eliza street—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ueber, St. Joseph hospital—a girl.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ora Clare Ormsby, 918 Nelson street—a girl.

Noted English Actress to Wed

NOTED ENGLISH ACTRESS WILL WED SOON.—Margery Maude, actress, will soon be married to Joseph Warren Burden. The engagement has just been announced but the marrage will be hastened, as Mr. Burden expects soon to be called into army service. Miss Maude is a daughter of Cyril Maude, the English actor. Miss Maude came to the United States with her father in "Grumpy" and later appeared in "Paganini" with George Arliss.

Husband is Told of Wife's Death at Funeral of Daughter

While attending the funeral services Tuesday morning of his daughter, Helen, who died last Sunday, Thomas Gorman, an employe of the Pennsylvania company, received word of the death of his wife, Mrs. Anna Gorman, 45 years old. In less than two days both wife and daughter had been taken from him, leaving only one daughter, Katherine. The Gormans lived at 513 Masterson avenue.

The death of Mrs. Gorman, however, was not unexpected. She had been ill for ten months and the attending physician had given little hope for her recovery.

However, it came to him as a terrible blow, the taking from him half of his little family in the short period of but a few hours. The daughter, whose funeral was held Tuesday morning, died Sunday after an illness of five weeks. She was nine years old and a pupil of the St. Patrick's Catholic church school. She was also a member of this year's first communion class.

Mrs. Gorman was born in Ireland and came to Fort Wayne thirty years ago. She was a woman of many charming traits and was loved by all whose privilege it was to know her.

The deceased was a devout member of the Catholic church and was also identified with the Catholic Benevolent league and the St. Patrick's Rosary society. Her death occurred at 9:20 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Christian Vonderau, county recorder, played the part of a good fellow Monday afternoon and treated every employe of the Allen county court house, abstractors and women employed in the abstract offices of the city to a dish of delicious ice cream.

Mr. Vonderau purchased a five gallon can of cream and at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon everyone was invited into his office to partake of the treat.

About Shoe Shining Parlor.

Mike Arger and Mike Anastas have begun suit against John Prosu and the First and Hamilton National bank asking for $120 damages, injunction and cancellation of notes. The plaintiffs state that they purchased a shoe shining parlor from John Prosu at 110 West Berry street, and that it was very much different from the way he represented it to them. They gave two notes in part payment which are held by the bank.

Cleatus Blake complains that Charles Blake did not properly provide for her since her marriage to him and consequently wants a divorce. She also states that she has been forced to make her own living and that he finally deserted her.

Court House Closed.

The court house will be closed Wednesday on account of Fourth of July. All employes with the exception of a few will enjoy a day's vacation.

Wants $1,500.

Adam M. Plank has sued J. L. Morgan and Ralph L. Corey for $1,500, alleged to be due on a promissory note.

Wants Separate Support.

Eliza Davis has sued John M. Davis for separate support. She states that they were married March 13, 1905, and that three children have been born. She alleges that on June 30, the defendant told her to get a divorce as he wanted to be free. She also alleges that he has threatened to take her life. She asks that the court grant her twelve dollars a week for the support of the children and a restraining order enjoining him from molesting her at her home, 401 Poplar street.

Wants Support Money, Too.

Elimer Cragwall, who says she was married to Charles Cragwall on March 13, 1917, wants support money. She states that without reason or cause the defendant deserted her on June 19. She further asks that the court restrain the Pennsylvania company from paying him his back wages.

Suit on Promissory Note.

Frank Brenneman has begun action against Jesse E. Collins for $350.30, alleged to be due on a promissory note.

Mechanic's Lien.

On complaint for foreclosure of a mechanic's lien, the Wolf Furnace company has begun suit against Peter Boegli asking for a judgment of $50.

Worden W. Sturm, clerk, to Eestella C. Girardot.

PATIENTS WILL BE ACCEPTED FRIDAY

According to announcement made Tuesday afternoon by A. G. Burry, president of the Hope Hospital association, the new Hope hospital on Lewis street will be ready to accept patients Friday. He stated that no patients had been accepted for the reason that some time has been required to perfect an organization. There are still a few patients at the old home of the Hope hospital at Washington and Barr streets. These will be moved, the most of them, to their homes within the next day or two.

I. W. W. PLOT TO TIE UP ALL COPPER MINES

Charlts H. Moyer Hints at Money Used by the Nation's Enemies

Denver, Colo., July 3.—The Industrial Workers of the World are charged by Charles H. Moyer, president of the International Union of Mill, Mine and Smelter Workers, with participation in a nation-wide conspiracy to shut down the copper mines of the country.

Mr. Moyer in a statement issued last night said strikes would be called by the Metal Mine Workers' union, a branch of the Industrial Workers of the World, in Utah copper mines. He called attention to the recent succession of strikes in other copper mining sections of the west and continued:

"The Industrial Workers of the World has had no money in its treasury. It seems to have plenty of money now. Where it got this money I cannot say. The public may speculate as to the source of it."

Summary of the Day's War News

The great offensive of the regenerated Russian army, initiated under the leadership of Minister of War Kerensky in person, is being successfully pushed. Advices to the Russian government declare it is developing "in an absolutely favorable manner."

The success of the initial thrust in the new drive by General Brussiloff in Galicia was beyond question. Costly as it probably was to the Russian personnel, the taking of more than 10,000 prisoners by the attacking army in the comparatively narrow sector affected shows how disastrous it must have been to the enemy.

There remained the question of whether the drive could be kept up with sufficient force to reap the full advantage of the victory. While this question does not yet seem to have been definitely decided, the indications today are admittedly encouraging. Ground has been gained beyond the line of the original attack and the Russians are advancing in the direction of Zlochoff.

Beyond this, today's Russian official statement shows further heavy losses inflicted upon the Austro-German forces, including the capture of some 6,000 additional prisoners and twenty-one guns.

Zlochoff, towards which the Russians are pressing, is almost directly east of Lemberg and slightly more than thirty-five miles distant from it. It lies on the important railway line from Tarnopol to Krasne, at which latter point it links up with the Brody-Lemberg railway line. It is slightly west of a north and south line running through the important Teutonic stronghold at Brzezani, twenty-five miles to the south. The Russian artillery is plentifully supplied with ammunition for the important work it has in hand. The supply department was the weakest of any during the old regime, causing many a break-down for which the fighting forces were not responsible.

The deficiency in this respect now seems to have been thoroughly remedied. Petrograd advices declare the preparations as regards munitions and equipment were better for this offensive than any preceding operation in the whole war.

Military movements on the other war fronts are dwarfed in importance by the Russian drive. There is nevertheless considerable activity on the Aisne and Verdun fronts in northern France, where the Germans are continuing their persistent attacks.

General Petain's forces are holding firm, however, and all the crown prince's attempts of last night, including a sharp drive between hill 304 and Avocourt wood in the Verdun region, were completely checked.

Additional details of the Galician fighting show the Austro-German forces to have retired across the Little Stripa, southeast of Lemberg. Here the Russians have occupied Zboroff on the Tarnopol-Zlochoff-Krasne railway, twelve miles southeast of Zlochoff. Their main push thus appears to be up this railway line. Two other villages in the vicinity also have been taken by the Russians.

Berlin's official report confirms Petrograd's account of the Russian progress in this region. It admits the success of the Russians in extending northward the gap there opened in the Teutonic lines in the original assault from the heights on the western bank of the Stripa. The throwing in of German reserves halted this advance and Russian attacks elsewhere failed, it is claimed.

Signs of a British attack in prospect in Belgium are reflected in the German statement.

The artillery fire in the Ypres district is reported increasing, indicating the probability that General Haig is preparing for another thrust in force from the lines won in the Messines attack last month.

"GATLING GUN" OF THE BUSINESS WORLD

H. L. Fogelman, Efficiency Expert, Part of Redpath Chautauqua Program.

The University club is bringing to Fort Wayne, Harry L. Fogelman, the great lecturer on Business Efficiency, who is said to have the "Billy Sunday Punch." "Gatling Gun Fogelman" is the greatest efficiency expert in the United States. He has recently been designated "Gatling Gun Fogelman" because of his ability to speak three hundred words a minute and to be distinctly understood.

Mr. Fogelman has been called in by the heads of our largest factories to straighten out their business affairs. To show that his lecture was practical he worked one year for the Baldwin Locomotive works and sold more locomotives than any man that company had ever had. Mr. Fogelman has been with the Redpath chautauqua for the past three months. In all the large southern cities big business men have bought tickets for the employes to hear Fogelman as a business proposition.

The Woolworth chain stores have notified all their employes to hear Mr. Fogelman's lecture at the company's expense. The same is true of the Kresge stores. Mr. W. D. Brown, of the Brown Paint company, sent the following letter to his employes:

"Please hear Mr. Fogelman's lecture when he appears in your town. It will not only be to our company's interest but to your interest to hear this man. He has a great faculty of helping one to discover his hidden possibilities. Charge the expense of hearing Mr. Fogelman to me.

"Sincerely yours,
"W. D. BROWN,
"Birmingham, Ala."

Every business man in Fort Wayne would do well to have all his employes hear Mr. Fogelman as a business proposition. Mr. Fogelman will appear in the big Redpath chautauqua tent at the circus grounds, Tuesday evening, July 18.

AN OPEN MEETING.

Robin Hood lodge, No. 216, Order Sons of St. George, will hold an open meeting Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at App's building on Calhoun street, at which time Organizer Ernest Waldrom, representing the supreme lodge, will be present and explain the aims and objects of the order.

NEW CONGRESSMAN IS IN.

Washington, July 3.—Richard Elliott, republican, of Connersville, Ind., today was sworn in by Speaker Clark as successor to the late Representative Comstock, republican, of the Sixth Indiana district.

FURTHER DROP IN FLOUR.

Chicago, July 3.—A further drop in the price of flour was announced here today when family brands of spring wheat flour were cut $1 to $12 a barrel. This is $5.80 a barrel below the high point in May.

Mrs. Harry C. Offutt, of Wildwood avenue, entertained a few friends in a delightful manner this afternoon at her home to compliment Mrs. Olive Doud Ellis, of Wilmington, Del., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Doud, for a few weeks. Bridge was the amusement and details of appointment were extremely pretty.

Dr. Frances H. Turner is in Grand Rapids, Mich., attending the funeral of Mrs. Clark Slocum. She will return the latter part of the week.

Adah Price hive No. 926, Ladies of the Maccabees, will not meet Wednesday evening on account of it being the Fourth.

QUIET FOURTH IS ASSURED

Good Citizens Picnic Will be Big Event of the Day.

MONSTER PARADE IN THE MORNING

Strict Orders Given by Police Regarding Firecrackers.

HOW FORT WAYNE WILL SPEND FOURTH

Picnics galore.

Good citizenship celebration at Swinney park, with parade in the morning.

Red Cross events at Country club.

All-day picnic of socialists at Lawton park.

Members of Robin Hood lodge, Sons of St. George, will picnic at Harry Grosvenor's country home.

St. Peter's indoor picnic.

Members of Precious Blood congregation will picnic at St. Andrew's grove.

Horse racing at Centlivre park.

Two ball games, morning and afternoon, at League park, between South Bend and Fort Wayne.

While Fort Wayne will celebrate the glorious Fourth, it will not be in the boisterous manner of former years. Since the agitation of a safe and sane Fourth inaugurated some years ago, Fort Wayne has been disposed to celebrate in this manner. This year, however, it will be safer and saner than ever before. There will be fewer fireworks and firecrackers.

With the future filled with so much uncertainty, now that the country has been plunged into the world war, the celebration will be carried out with heavier hearts than has marked the observance of this holiday since the days of the civil war.

Merchants bought fireworks this year very sparingly. Many of them are not handling them at all. They rightly figured that there would be no great demand and they also wished to abide by the request of those in authority that the usual display of fireworks and the firing of firecrackers be dispensed with as much as possible.

Police Orders.

No firecrackers over two inches long will be allowed to be discharged in Fort Wayne, Police Chief Lenz ordered Tuesday afternoon. Patrolmen will be ordered to arrest all persons who make use of cannon crackers.

No revolvers, no cannons, no shotguns will be permitted in the celebration of Independence day.

No firecrackers can be shot in crowds or on picnic grounds, it is ordered. Police will be dispatched to all grounds where celebrations are slated and arrests will follow any violation of the edicts, Chief Lenz announces.

At Swinney Park.

The big feature of the celebration of the Fourth in Fort Wayne will be the Good Citizenship picnic at Swinney park. Various organizations have combined to give this celebration for which a program of unusual merit has been arranged.

The day's festivities start with a monster parade in the morning at 10 o'clock. At 12 o'clock a free dinner will be served to the enlisted soldiers by the ladies of the W. C. T. U. Short addresses will be delivered by Col. D. N. Foster and Captain W. A. Kelsey, veterans of the civil war.

At 1 o'clock a concert will be given by the Citizens' band followed by addresses on the work of the Red Cross by Postmaster E. C. Miller, Hon. Alvin J. Rucker, of Indianapolis, on "The New Indiana Constitution," and Mrs. C. S. Ridenour on "Why Women Should Vote."

At 3:30 o'clock there will be a thrilling demonstration of Red Cross work, showing the work of the Red Cross workers on the battlefield and in the field hospitals. The athletic events will take place at 4 o'clock. During the afternoon there will be a drill by civil war veterans and demonstrations of first aid work by the boy scouts.

The evening program includes a concert by the Citizens' band and address by Rev. T. M. Cole, on "Good Citizenship," and others. There will also be special musical numbers.

Other Events.

Many other events have been arranged as indicated by the list published at the head of this column. There will be many picnics by churches, lodges and families.

The socialists are planning for a big time at Lawton park. Socialists from all parts of the Twelfth congressional district are expected to attend. Able speakers will be present and a general good time is assured.

Practically all stores and factories will be closed throughout the entire day.

HON. JOHN W. FOSTER ILL.

Watertown, N. Y., July 3.—The condition of John W. Foster, former secretary of state, ill at his summer home at Henderson Harbor, was reported as improved today. No hope is entertained, however, for his recovery.

The Volunteer Circle class will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Vena Currant, 1234 Fletcher avenue, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Kate Wilds will assist the hostess.

Chiefs Allow Benders to Even Up Series by Losing, 4 to 2

Two Fort Wayne Runners Are Cut Down at the Plate During Game.

South Bend, Ind., July 3.—Fort Wayne played the unselfish act yesterday, allowing South Bend to even up the series and make things interesting for the last game. They lost 4 to 2, although they had hit just as often as the locals. Two visiting runners were caught in the very act of scoring just as they were about to cross the rubber.

The real work of the game was started early, the Benders scoring one in the first inning when Collins gently lifted one over the right field fence and then went through the formality of jogging around the paths and touching all three sacks. In the third Baschang started with a walk, Laross singled and Collins beat out an infield hit, filling the bases. Hoffman was out on a long fly but Baschang came in on the throw. When Aaron singled to left Laross started home ebut was thrown out on a perfect liner by Brown.

In the fifth inning Roberts hit safely but Higbee struck out. Norton then walloped one to center field which Baschang let go through his legs. Roberts scored and Norton landed on second. Siegfried went out on fly, ending the inning.

In the sixth Smith started with a two-base blow, and was followed by Gleich's single. Kelly walked and Brown singled, scoring Smith. Powers grounded to Willis, who caught Gleich at the plate. Roberts was out and the inning ended.

Equal Rights for Women on Links

Suffrage has won a remarkable victory.

Women have been granted equal rights with men at the Calumet golf course at Chicago.

The club will move into new quarters in the near future and the new rules give women a right to play over the course every day.

Under the old rules they were barred from playing on Saturday, Sundays and holidays.

The Calumet is the first club in the Chicago district to grant full privileges to women.

(By Paul Purman).

Even Jim Thorpe and Howard Berry, all round athletes de luxe, will have to doff their chapeaus to this Japanese youth who claims Cleveland as his home, and who doesn't balk at anything in the athletic line except auto racing and poker.

He is Arthur Matsu and he's 13, and he has all the boys in his neighborhood hanging on behind when it comes to athletics.

Here's a partial record of his achievements.

Plays first base on a boy scout team.

Plays first base on an undefeated indoor baseball team.

Plays halfback on a high school football team.

Plays forward on an amateur basketball team.

Has pole vaulted 7 feet 3½ inches, more than a foot higher than any boy of his class.

Star sprinter, holds Cleveland junior record for the 100, 50 and 75 yard dashes.

Plays a fair game of tennis.

A fair broad jumper.

Champion boy swimmer at Cleveland Y. M. C. A.

Caddies at a golf course.

Then when Arthur gets through doing all these things he goes home and cultivates his war garden.

How about it, Jim and Howard? Some boy, what?

SHAMROCKS SLATED TO PLAY AT PAULDING, O

The Fort Wayne Shamrocks will leave at 10:18 o'clock on the Wabash tomorrow afternoon for Paulding, O., where they will meet the semi-pro club which represents the latter place. Freese will pitch for the locals and Hoffer will do the receiving. A hard game is expected as the Paulding outfit always presents a formidable lineup.

SPORTS CHATTER

Lord Byron has chased 22 players this year. If an umpire's ability was measured in that way the Lord would have them all discounted.

Benny Leonard has threatened to enlist in about every branch of the service. He'll probably wind up by joining the home guards.

Trench life ought to be pretty soft for Byron if he chances to be drafted.

One proof of Jawn McGraw's unpopularity is that the Giants draw the biggest crowds in the big leagues.

With Jack Johnson fighting bulls in Spain, maybe we will next hear of Jess Willard wrestling the bears in his circus.

Speaking of Jess, it is reported (unofficially) that when Tom Jones heard Jess had dispensed with his valuable managerial services he forgot himself so much that he bought

Halo for Heine? Yes, He Earned It

John McGraw might make good use of the halo left in New York by Matty by hammering it down so it would fit the lordly brow of Heine the Zim.

Zim is entitled to a halo this year.

Playing with the worst rowdies in the league, Heine, with all his reputation for baiting umpires, fighting and generally making himself a "hard guy," has not had a fight this year, and has not had a run-in with an umpire.

He almost dented this record the other day when he turned hotly on Umpire Bill Klem, but Fletcher got between them and restored peace.

A new road skate with pneumatic tires and provided with ball bearings and automatic brakes, is being tested by its inventor. The wheels of the skate are nine inches in diameter, and are placed on opposite sides of the skate, instead of at the toe and heel. The balancing and steering properties are aided by the inside wheel being set slightly ahead of the outside. Whether running on smooth or rough roads, the pneumatic skate is noiseless and speedy.

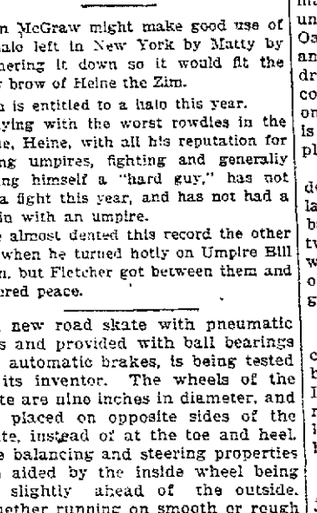
THE SENTINEL'S DAILY CARTOONET



INDIANA KNOWS HOW TO RAISE WORLD CHAMPION PACING HORSES

Le us consider Indiana.

Indiana, oh yes, that's where all the spring poets come from, isn't it? But what's Indiana got to do with getting out the sport page?

Indiana has a lot to do with the sport page if the reader happens to be interested in pacing horses, for Indiana produces more good pacing horses than poets and that's going some.

When they raced the Board of Trade Commerce stake at Detroit last year Indiana got right up and shouted, for the winner, Miss Harris M., was Indiana bred.

The year before Single G., a Hoosier side-wheeler, wiggled away with the same classic. In 1914 King Couchman, who claimed the banks of the Wabash as his birthplace, romped home ahead of the other entries of the B. of C. and if Dick McMahon has luck he will drive a Hoosier wiggler for the big money in that stake this year. Dick will start Peter Look, champion three-year-old pacer last year, and has a very good chance to cop.

And, before all these Dan Patch, the greatest pacer of them all, was born and raised in Indiana pastures and William, the fastest living pacer, also hails from the land of poets and politicians. Alcyfras, who holds the records for mares on twice-arounds, was also Indiana born.

Altogether, Indiana is "there" when it comes to raising side-wheelers.

EIGHTEEN CARS WILL START RACE AT LIMA

Have Five Events Starting With One Mile Time Trials by All.

Lima, O., July 3.—Every detail incident to the third annual auto derby to be staged at the Lima Driving park on July 4 has been attended to and all that is awaiting now is the bomb which will send the eighteen or more drivers after the $1,500 purse money and the silver loving cup offered by the Lima chamber of commerce to the fastest car that day.

Herb Rudy, Lima speed boy, present title holder of the Ohio state championship, is again a favorite, but not so to such an extent as in previous races. He will have a hard time retaining his title on the Fourth than at any time since he won it.

The safety of the drivers as well as the safety of the spectators has been taken into consideration by the management on a bigger scale than ever before owing to the large number of entries. Arrangements are being made to remove the inside fence so that the driver will have a chance to regain control of his machine should it skid into the fence.

Although the entry list is not closed it is believed that enough cars have already entered to stage eliminations for the big events. All cars will drive one mile against time in the last event. The fastest car to be awarded the silver trophy and presented by Mayor Simpson.

Event No. 2 w. be a ten-mile fast car race. Cars starting this will have to qualify in a mile in 1.14. Event 3 will be a ten-mile consolation race for cars not in event 2. Event 4 will be an Australian pursuit race run by the four fastest cars in the time trials. Event 5 will be a fifteen-mile free for all for the largest purse of the day.

Entries include a Stutz Special, Knipper Special, Lightning Comet, two Chevrolet Specials, Sheets Special, three Maxwells, 2-16 valve Ford Specials, two Buicks and a Cole. In all sixteen cars with more are expected. Some of the entries come from St. Louis, Mo., Fort Wayne, Ind., Indianapolis, Cleveland, Toledo, Pittsburg, Paris, Ill., and other cities throughout Ohio and Indiana.

When the races start at 2 p. m. the largest crowd that ever witnessed an automobile race on a half mile track is expected.

Bugsville Notes

(By G. Whiz).

O'Toole, the $25,000 sensation of a few years ago is now with Omaha and pitching good ball. Last week he had two wins to his credit, both six hit games.

Three former Central League stars are in the Denver Western League lineup. They are Kelleher, short stop formerly with Springfield, and Outfielder Butcher and third baseman Wuffli of Evansville.

When President Dickerson took up his new job in the Western League he found some unfinished business to be looked after. The first thing he had to do was "set on" Umpire Mike Jacobs, a former Central League player and umpire. Mike is, or was umpiring in the Western until "Dick" arrived and relieved him of the responsibility of falling by the wayside.

On June 17,, Coney, second baseman for Omaha made a triple play unassisted. Kelleher was on third, Oakes on second, Butcher on third and McCormick, hitting sent a line drive to Cooney, who tagged Butcher coming from first and stepped on second before Oakes could get back. It is said to be the first unassisted triple play ever made in the Western league.

Tutwiler is playing first for Providence and in eight games last week landed 12 hits, three of them for extra bases. Channell and Jack Onslow, two other Ft. Wayne favorites are with Buffalo. Channell is hitting as of old getting eight hits in as many games last week.

Pitcher Tipple, tht American Association sensation that went up to the big league is still going "up" in the International. He is pitching for Toronto and in three games last week, lost two and was knocked out of the box in the third.

Washington is said to be after Lajoie, now with Toronto. Why? Like grapenuts "There is a Reason." Look at the big Frenchman's record for the week. In ten games, he landed 18 safe ones and in 57 chances he booted one. Going some for an old man.

Everett Booe, the little outfielder who went up from Wheeling to Pittsburg is now with San Antonio and had a record of 61 games without a wobble until June 17th, when he missed his first one.

General Dickerson is proving the same good General in the Western League that made a name for him in the Central. The St. Joe Club has been in the rut for a long time and was about to give up the game when Dick arrived on the job, called a meeting of a few business men and in a short time raised $3,000 and put the clug on a business basis.

Williams of Ardmore in the Western Association on June 13th, in nine times at bat got a homer, two doubles, and four singles.

To clean the inside of a water bottle or any glass that is too small to insert the hand into, put into the bottle a small quantity of tea leaves, pour in about one-third of a teacupful of vinegar, shake well, empty and rinse with cold water. A perfectly clear glass will result.

REAL RACING CARD FOR FOURTH OF JULY

Two Pacing Numbers Planned for Classics; Warren Has Races.

The "sport of kings" will be at its heighth at the historic Centlivre training track Wednesday afternoon. The Fort Wayne Amateur Driving club has planned the best sporting card offered in many a day for the matinee affair. Women will be admitted free.

The 2:25 pace is expected to be the feature event of the four-race program. Georgiene Swain, by King Arlington; Alfredo, by Copa De Oro and Black Venus, by Councilman, are as evenly matches a trio as ever turned around together. They are all well along with their work. They divide honors in the Memorial day event.

Can Ebony King repeat? This is a question which will draw many horse race fans to the Centlivre track. The aging pacer has been able to step out and win the special racing numbers for the past three years. There are four good horses to put up a battle in the special Blue Ribbon event on Independence day.

A beautiful race was that of the 2:20 trot which The Reaper won by a nose on Memorial day. The same field, with much developed speed, will race it out on Wednesday. There are six entries in the class D number, a mixed pace and trot. The entries follow:

Class A, 2:20 trot, mile heats:

The Reaper, by Early Reaper. Driver, Chas. Ahr.

John Linwood, by John R. Kurtz. Driver, W. Sperry.

Portia Monbar, by Monbar. Driver, A. J. Compton.

Class B, 2:25 pace, mile heats:

Black Venus, by Councilman. Driver, W. Harber.

Georgiene Swain, by King Arlington. Driver, G. Swain.

Alfredo, by Copa De Oro. Driver, R. Ellson.

Class C (special Blue Ribbon pace, one-half mile heats):

Ebony King, by Atlantic King. Driver, W. Geary.

Beautella, by Red Bell. Driver, C. Freistroffer.

Rossie King, by Rossie W. Driver, M. Laughlin.

Fox, by Red Bell. Driver, T. Finan.

Coasterina, by Coastman. Driver, A. Compton.

Class D, mixed pace and trot:

Mary Alma, by Louisville. Driver, C. Freistroffer.

Moletah, by Elastic Pointer. Driver, H. Hoffman.

Mable Wilkes, by Amber Wilkes. Driver, W. Stapleton.

Miss Hunter, by Inline B. Driver, R. Ellson.

Jennie O, by Notice. Driver, F. Oetterman.

Panda, by Poem. Driver, E. Uhell.

Will Race at Warren.

Warren, which boasts one of the best half mile tracks in the state, is set for a racing matinee on the Fourth. The entry list includes fifty horses to start in the four events of the afternoon. Three of the races will be mile heats. The free for all pace, the 2:30 trot and the 2:30 pace are all for $100 purses. The green road race, half mile heats, is for $50.

INSURANCE MEN PLAY AT CONVOY TOMORROW

Mart Cleary's Lincoln Life club will be the big Independence day attraction at Convoy, O. A celebration is being held in the Buckeye town and the ball game will be a large part of the festivities. A large crowd is expected to witness the game. The club will leave on the Ohio electric at 12:30 o'clock, eastern time.

Next Sunday the insurance men play at Lima and one week from that a double-header will be staged here. The Kendallville Reds and the Fort Wayne Colored Giants will meet in the first game and the winner will play the insurance men.

Balloon ascension July 4th at Robison park. 2-2t

Two hundred carloads of farm machinery have arrived at Savannah, Ga., from the works of the International Harvester company, and will be sent by steamer to Norway and thence overland to Russia. The value is placed close to $1,000,000. The shipment includes reapers, binders, tractors and motor plows. This is the second shipment of this kind by the company via Savannah, the last going to Liverpool.

Bakhmetieff Gives Pledge of Aid in War

In a stirring address at the capitol, Ambassador Bakhmetieff, of Russia's diplomatic mission, gave a solemn pledge that the Russian people and army, "convinced that a separate peace would mean the triumph of German autocracy," are prepared to fight on beside America until the world has been made safe for democracy. The ambassador spoke before the senate, and his reception was almost as enthusiastic as that accorded him in the house.

By Louise Le Noir Thomas.

WHAT would you do if a man were to attack you on the street and try and steal your purse? If you are a man, you would answer, "fight him, of course!"

But if you are a woman? Well, why not fight him anyway?

Learn wrestling if you are a girl--you may need it, and it is a jolly good sport at that.

WERE Hector of Troy or Achilles of Greece to rise from their sarcophagus today, and, looking about them, ask:

"Well, what are the most mooted questions of the present age?" our answer would, doubtless, be, "Woman and war."

"Jove!" those valiant warriors would answer: "Haven't those questions been settled yet?"

And they would be content to return to dust again, where they would rest another 3000 years before recovering from the shock enough to rise a second time.

It is doubtful, however, whether, in still another 3000-year cycle, we shall be any nearer to a solution of the problem than we were in the Golden Age. The poor, defeated Hague may come into its own some day—if human nature changes, but the question of woman must remain the question of the ages; and if there were one Helen in 3000 B.C., there are many Helens today who are equally as coveted and quite as much fought over, but these maidens of our own age, although a vastly different sort from the maidens of Troy, are, none the less, a mystery. Perhaps it is that charm of mystery that makes them ever interesting.

There has been a lot said in the last few generations about "woman's place in the world."

There also have been a lot of followers of the feminist cult who have said that "woman is getting out of her place and usurping the place of man."

Now, just what woman's place is in the world has not yet been determined throughout all the ages that woman has been one of the all-important creatures of earth, and if she is at length put into a groove and labeled, "Woman in her own place," doubtless she will cease to become interesting.

The Question of the Weaker Sex.

Since the law of evolution and reversion are the laws upon which the scheme of the universe was conceived, it must follow that all things and all beings moved in that universe perforce obey that law. Now, in the first place, woman was made less virile than man. It is only reasonable to suppose that hers is the weaker sex since Adam was endowed with twenty-four ribs and poor little Eve didn't even have one of her own, but had to appeal to the generosity of man—and since Eve was made from one of Adam's "false ribs" who can blame her if she is less truthful than her benefactor?

Because of the physical prowess of the man there are many who still believe that his prowess extends into the realm of mentality and idealism. It is true that woman's strength has been latent for many years because of the "place" in which she has been automatically put, and even as late as the nineteenth century Mary Ann Evans-Cross took the name of George Eliot because women writers were not received in the literary world as being on an intellectual par wtih men, and for the same reason Mme. Dudevant, the great French novelist, used George Sand as her pen name.

Women have traveled the cycle the same way as the men—they have been alternately puppets and slaves throughout the generations until they are at last in a state of rebellion and have declared their so-called "rights" in a more or less militant form. Having declared themselves on a par with their opponents in sex, man's attitude has gradually been changing, and instead of the chivalry of the Rococo period there has developed an altogether different feeling between the two sexes.

"Battling" Nelson happened to be in the room when Miss Le Mar decided she would show how to knock out a man on the street by lifting her elbow to the chin. "It takes a woman to do it," said Bat.

In the revolutionary period, the woman belonged to the "protected sex," and her duty was to make herself as charming and as dainty for the gratification of her "protectors" as possible. Our grandmothers were more or less versed in all the gentle arts according to their talents. They sewed "samplers," "tidies" and dainty caps and embroideries; they played the harpsichord and the flute—they sang in a sweet, parlor voice that did not rise to the volume of the opera hall-star of today; they knew something about how to cook and how to do other little homely things that the girl of the present generation considers a "bore."

The athletics were vastly different from the strenuous games that the girl of today indulges in. Croquet was the most popular out-of-door sport, and horseback riding was an accomplishment that most "young ladies" enjoyed—not astride a polo pony, to be sure, but on a gentle creature that bore a side saddle, and did a smart canter through the parks and lanes.

Basket ball, tennis, hockey, polo, baseball and golf were not at that time considered "proper" for the young lady to enjoy; indeed, no one gave her credit for being physically able to join in such a boisterous sort of play. Today there is no game, no sport, no form of athletics known in which the woman is not an enthusiastic participant.

Because of her turning toward athletics, she is becoming much stronger physically than she was a generation or two ago. It used to be "the thing" to faint gracefully, and, incredible though it may seem, the more delicately constituted and anaemic a woman was the more she was admired by men and envied by her sister. Headaches were the most popular ailment, and to lie about on silk cushions in a beautiful languor was truly an accomplishment that was sought after assiduously by the fair and fragile sex, a young girl with the natural lusthood and vitality of youth was not the popular type; indeed, she was almost thought of as a monstrosity.

All of this change in the activities of women has a deeper significance than the mere physical exertion and strengthening of the sex. It has a moral influence that is growing along with the popularity of the sports.

In this feminist rebellion that has been occurring since suffrage was introduced in England, women have been drawn more and more into the business world. They have accepted every sort of remunerative position that take them upon the streets at all hours of the day and night—they have formed clubs that they attend at night sessions and they have innumerable activities and interests that take them out of the snug seclusion of the home and make them subject to the dangers that exist on every highway.

They have refused to be called the "weaker sex," and the "pampered sex," and have shown such aversion to the "protection of the male," so-called, that men have almost begun to take them at their word and treat them as equals in not only intellectuality, but in physical strength.

Athletic Training Needed.

On the street, then—the woman needs her athletic training if she would be efficient in self-protection. That it is unwomanly for a woman to use fists when the necessity arises or to know how to vanquish an attacker by simple movements in wrestling is ridiculous in the nature of the thing. Surely there is no honest man who would not admire a woman who could, by a clever move, overpower an assailant were the occasion to arise. It is not unwomanly to protect herself—rather it is unwomanly to be overpowered by the assailant.

To handle a chance opponent is not, however, an easy thing to do. The hatpin has served in its day, but where the hatpin fails there must be other means of protection from the thief or ruffian. Woman was not, at the beginning of things, a fighter. She left all the battles to the men while she worked the gardens, made the garments, and if she were a mother cared for the children. It is not, then, instinctive for the woman to fight, and so she must get her training in schools if she would learn to defend herself against an overbearing ruffian.

Albert J. Neist, a former wrestler, has established a gymnasium and training school in St. Louis where he trains women in boxing, wrestling and physical culture. There he has trained several of the "weaker sex" in such strength and agility that they are not afraid to meet the roughest vagabond that ever molested a law-abiding citizen.

His star pupils are Miss Naomi Kerber, who has chosen to call herself "Bobbie La Mar" in the ring, and Miss Alice Lee. These two women wrestlers have shown such skill as to prove that a woman is even more agile than a man at the game, and that physical strength is not at all necessary when one has a quick brain and a knowledge of the holds and the results that one can accomplish with each.

Miss Kerber, or Bobbie La Mar, as she prefers to be called when one speaks of her in fighting terms, has studied under Neist for two and a half years, and is now ready to meet any 122-pound woman wrestler in any state or country that will challenge her. She is going a little beyond the limit that is set for the woman who is merely using a knowledge of wrestling as a means of protection, and is making that form of athletics a profession. Miss La Mar has wrestled in several cities and invariably comes out victor.

Learned to Wrestle When a Child.

Miss Lee has been practicing wrestling with Niest for only a few months, and has not yet become bold enough to challenge any other woman to a match.

When asked why she happened to take up that ancient sport, she said:

"Well, perhaps, the real explanation of the case is that I have six brothers and I learned to wrestle when a child with them. I was pretty good at it, too, and have always been interested in the sport."

In the gymnasium the sportswomen wear woolen athletic tights, so that there is no restraint on the freedom of any part of the body when they exercise. However, both of the young women showed that they could throw a man with as much ease when they were dressed in the extreme of feminism with many a frill and feather as they can in the athletic costume which they wear in the privacy of the gymnasium ring.

"One can never be sure that he is safe on the street or in the home—anywhere, in fact, and it is absurd that one should think a woman less capable of coping with any situation than a man," said Miss La Mar. "There is danger of housebreakers—perhaps there is no man on the place to protect a woman in the case that a burglar selects her house—she surely is not going to stand by and let her treasures be stolen, or, in the instance that she is attacked, to allow herself to suffer at the hands of an unscrupulous fellow. It is wise for every woman to be prepared to meet with such a situation, whether she will ever need it or not—there is no harm in preparedness."

And Miss La Mar proceeded to show how she would deal with a man who dared disturb her peace.

To Throw a Person Down Quickly.

The simplest way of throwing a person down and the quickest way is:

1. The aggressor (being in this case the one who is defending himself against an assailant) grasps the wrist of the defendant with one hand and the arm above the elbow with the other hand.

Brace with one leg back and bend the other at the hip and knee.

Throw the defendant headlong over the leg.

2. After the defendant is thrown to the floor the assailant drops with one knee on the stomach of the downed man and pins his arms to his sides. It is impossible then for the thrown man to rise as long as this position is maintained.

It may seem to those that do not know the rules of wrestling that it would be impossible for a woman to throw a man down. With this grasp, however, and a quick wrenching of the arms, it requires but little strength to hurl a great weight over the knee, braced as one is, with one leg behind.

"Which arm do you grasp, the right or the left?" is a question invariably asked.

"Well, you've not got time to make a selection," Neist answers. "You just grasp whatever arm that presents itself first, and brace with your right or left foot, as the case demands. It makes no difference in the position that you take, except that it is the right or the left hold that one deals with."

Miss Lee and Miss La Mar showed a very simple hold that is none the less effective, and one which a woman can use without any training in the ring or gymnasium.

When an assailant clenches a person around the waist:

1. When an assailant grabs his victim around the waist, standing in front (the victim becomes the aggressor and the assailant the defender). The aggressor takes the chin of the defender between the first and second fingers and places the thumb under the nose. With this simple hold she can easily push the head of the defendant back until he must release the hold in order to protect himself from his aggressor.

2. When the attack has been made from the rear and the assailant grasps the victim around the waist the victim can easily become the aggressor by bending the body forward, reaching between the legs and grasping the foot or leg of the assailant, throwing him backward.

When Man Yelps for Mercy.

In either case, when a woman has a man down by these two simple holds, the hatpin can then be used in conjunction with the feats of wrestling, and unless the ruffian draws a gun, she will, in nine case out of ten, have her fellow yelping for mercy.

If, again, a footpad seeks to attack a woman while she is going on any of a dozen of her necessary missions, and grabs her by putting his arms about her throat, she need only grasp one of her assailant's arms and drop to her knees, the weight of the fellow himself will send him headlong over the woman's shoulder, and she need not exert any great strength in throwing her assailant to the ground.

On one occasion, when the two star pupils of Neist's woman's class in wrestling were having a friendly little bout in the gymnasium, Battling Nelson, whose record as a fighter has been so long and so brilliant, came into the room. He was a bit doubtful as to the ability of the "weaker sex" until he was "attacked" by one of them, and he soon took off his hat to the fair champion of the bout.

"After all, it takes a woman to whip Bat," he said facetiously, but with more than a grain of truth.

Neist explains that a wrestler has more power of endurance than a boxer, for the reason that all of his muscles are developed and that he is not subject to blows that often injures a boxer, internally.

"If a wrestler and a boxer met in a fight in the street," he says, "the wrestler will, in practically every instance, whip the boxer. And the life of the wrestler has been proven by statistics to be longer than the man who fights with gloves."

Wrestling is one of the most primitive of the sports, and it has had a more universal popularity than any other game. Even as long ago as 3000 years B. C. it was a highly developed sport, and ancient sculpture that has been found in the excavations in Greece and Asia depict scenes of wrestling matches in which all the holds that are known today were then used. But wrestling for women has not been known until the present day, when the demand for more athletics for women has led them into every field of sportsmanship.

According to the law of supply and demand, women would not be entering into this field today if there were not a need for it. More and more women are going into the gymnasiums every day and more strength and vigor is being developed in their sex than it was ever considered necessary, or even womanly, for a woman to possess.

The law of the survival of the fit demands that woman be fit today if she would not be outdone, and it should be the aim of every girl to cultivate this strength and grace of body as well as to make herself ready for the occasion on which physical agility and a knowledge of wrestling will be of more value than any so-called woman's accomplishment.

DR. J. M. KELLS DIES IN COLUMBUS

Five Years Medical Examiner for Pennsy Relief at Fort Wayne.

Dr. J. M. Kells, one of the early medical examiners in Fort Wayne for the Pennsylvania Voluntary Relief association, died in Columbus Sunday and will be buried Wednesday. Dr. Kells had been sick over two years, but gave the office of medical examiner for the relief department personal attention until a few months ago, when sickness prevented. Last winter he went to the Mayo brothers' sanitarium at Rochester, Minn., expecting to undergo a surgical operation, but his condition was such that the surgeons refused to operate and he was taken back to his home in Columbus. He is survived by a widow, a son, Charles Kells, soliciting freight agent for the Pennsylvania at Columbus, and a grandson, J. M. Kells, Jr., son of Charles.

Dr. Kells resided in Fort Wayne about five years, coming here when the relief association was less than three years old, and remaining until he was called to Columbus, O., to take charge of the association affairs in that city. He formed many acquaintances in this city and managed to keep in touch with his friends here after he moved away by frequent visits in the capacity of member of the examining board and in a social way. When he was located in Fort Wayne the office of the medical examiner of the relief department was in the west end of the freight house, which was also the home in those primitive days of the ticket receiver, the claim agent and the passenger conductors and brakemen. Some years ago the department moved into new quarters in the old depot building and the rooms vacated were remodeled and fitted up for offices and are now occupied by Cashier C. M. Jones and his clerks. Several of the old friends of the Kells family will go to Columbus to attend the funeral. The wife of Charles Kells, it will be remebered, died about two years ago.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

Transformer Engineers Move to New Factory Office.

Every part of the transformer engineers department of the General Electric works is now in the new quarters in building No. 19, second floor, on the south side of Wall street. The move there commenced last night and was completed before noon today. E. A. Wagner is the chief engineer of the transformer department and with him are twelve or fifteen other engineers and a number of stenorgraphers and clerks, the latter mostly women. Lyman Garman, engineer of the transformer department, with six or eight assistants, and Harry Gargett, of the transformer cost department, with his four or five assistants, also moved this morning the offices being grouped so as to be easily accessable to the employes of each. The vacated room in the big office building on Broadway will now be fitted up for some other department.

NOTHING DOIN' AT SHOPS.

All Will Observe the Fourth of July Tomorrow.

Nothing but "emergency" work will be in progress at any of the shops in Fort Wayne tomorrow, on account of the holiday. All local freight trains on the roads will also be annulled and as far as practicable no work will be done in the freight yards. The freight houses will also be closed to business during the entire day. The employes will welcome a chance to "lay off" a day, for they have been working steadily and hard.

STARTS ON TRIP THURSDAY.

I. Fred Walters, the member of the advisory committee of the Pennsylvania Relief association for the western and Chicago terminal divisions, will start upon the quarterly trip over the territory Thursday morning. He will first go over the western division, finishing up the work on the Chicago terminal division. The membership of the two divisions is over 8,000 and Mr. Walters will aim to meet the greater number of members, consuming about two weeks on the trip.

HAS THE BEST GARDEN.

At least that is the claim of William M. Horstman, chief electrician at the Pennsylvania passenger station. His garden is located on Lafayette street, near St. Martin's, and it is certainly a masterpiece in the way of a "truck patch." Mr. Horstman is proud of it and all who pass that way are attracted by the unique manner in which the various plants are arranged and their advanced stage.

EXCURSION TO CAMP HARRISON.

Agent Roy Phillips, of the L. E. & W., announces a special train to Fort Benjamin Harrison Sunday morning to accommodate those who wish to visit relatives and friends in the camp who have enlisted or are training in the officers' reserve corps.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Pennsylvania Tender Repairman R. J. Hughes is off duty on account of sickness.

E. R. Wadington, teamster at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

W. Ganser, tool room machinist at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

George Albert Reuss, a machinist, is a new employe at the Pennsylvania shops.

A. J. Sordlet, a cabbuilder at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

Motive Power Superintendent T. W. Demarest has gone to Pittsburg on business for the Pennsylvania.

E. Boedecker, an inspector at the General Electric works, is out on a two weeks' vacation.

William Hull has taken employment as a lathe operator at the General Electric works.

J. Diddier, of the small motor department of the General Electric works, is at Lake James for an outing.

James A. Foster, who was out on a vacation last week, resumed charge of the Pennsylvania air brake room yesterday.

New men at the Pennsylvania shops are Tom Mike, a boilermaker's helper, and O. Chebellot, a flue welder's helper.

Gerald Traxler, the Pennsylvania lineman, is still very ill as the result of a paralytic stroke some time ago. It is feared that he cannot recover.

Joseph Gans, a machine operator and a base ball enthusiast, is in Chicago "taking in" the base ball game today.

John J. Muir, superintendent of the engine department of the Bass Foundry and Machine company, is in Chicago on business for the company.

L. R. Little, engineer at the Pennsylvania power plant, has returned from Pittsburg where he spent three or four days with friends.

D. B. Schwarz, who had a foot injured by a car wheel rolling on it last week, reported for duty at the Pennsylvania car machine shop this morning.

E. W. Zimmerman, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop and his wife, have gone to Mansfield, O., to spend the Fourth with her parents, who reside there.

C. M. DeBee, a laborer in the Pennsylvania machine shop, had a foot painfully hurt yesterday by a casting falling upon it. He is at the Lutheran hospital.

Machinist W. C. Tagtmeyer and his wife have returned from Crooked lake, where they spent Sunday. The trip was made in an automobile. Mr. Tegtmeyer resumed work at the Pennsylvania erecting shop this morning.

William Kellermeyer, of the production department of the General Electric works, is out on a two weeks' vacation, starting this morning for Indianapolis. Later he will visit in Chicago.

C. A. Sweeney, a G. R. & I. train dispatcher, entered upon his annual vacation today, when he left for Grand Rapids. Later he will go to Chicago and will be out of the city two weeks.

Ed Koehl, stenographer for General Foreman M. W. Kemp, of the Pennsylvania shops; Paul Meyers, of the tool room, and William Freiberger have planned a motor trip to Rome City tonight and boating and fishing outing tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Flynn, of Chicago, will arrive in the city Saturday to be the guests of Machinist and Mrs. P. E. Bresnahan over Sunday. The trip will be made in an automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn are the parents of Mrs. Bresnahan.

H. H. Lankenau, of the cost department of the Pennsylvania, and Eno Lankenau, general machine shop foreman at the factory of the Wayne Tank and Pump company, have returned from Decatur, Ind., where they attended the funeral of their uncle, yesterday.

A. U. McClain, foreman of the electric welding department of the Pennsylvania shops, is on the job again after three weeks' absence during which he assisted in taking care of his father, a prominent resident of Columbia City, who was recently stricken with paralysis, and who is still quite ill.

The announcement here that the funeral of the late Clark Slocum, foreman of the tin and copper shop of the G. R. & I. at Grand Rapids, would be held Tuesday afternoon caused a number of his old shopmates and friends in Fort Wayne who had arranged to attend it to fail. The funeral was Monday afternoon. A dozen or more of the friends had arranged to go to Grand Rapids this morning to attend it and they were shocked to learn that it was held Monday.

IN THE CHURCHES

FAREWELL RECEPTION GIVEN YOUNG PRIEST

Rev. Vurpillat, Assistant at St. Peter's Church, Honored by Parish.

In honor of Rev. Edward H. Vurpillat, assistant of St. Peter's Catholic church for the past three and one-half years, who has been appointed rector of the church at Portland, a reception was given Monday evening by the parishioners and friends of the young priest. A program of vocal and instrumental selections was given.

Following the program Rev. Charles Thiele, rector of the parish, made a very beautiful speech praising his assistant for the work which he has done, and expressing his appreciation of Father Vurpillat's untiring efforts. Following this he presented the departing priest with a purse, the gift of the various organizations of the church. Father Vurpillat responded to the speech, acknowledging the gift and at the same time bidding his friends good-bye.

Another gift was a beautiful napkin embroidered by the school sisters of Notre Dame, teachers in the school. The napkin was folded and when opened a ticket to Portland and "change to meet his first immediate needs and assure future trips to Fort Wayne."

Church Notes.

The Ladies' Aid society of the St. John Reformed church will meet Thursday afternoon. Hostesses will be Mesdames Sophia Klebe, Wilhelmina Heisler, Wilhelmina Kaufman, Clara Kestmer, Elisa Kopp, Charlotte Lenz, Maria Lissner, Edith Lissner, Dina Mueller, Lisette Meyer.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Simpson M. E. church has postponed its meeting from Thursday of this week, to July 12.

The members of the Altar society of St. Paul's Catholic church are requested to meet at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday evening at the home of the late Mrs. Anna O'Melia whose death occurred recently.

The Ladies' Occult Science society will meet Thursday at 2:30 o'clock in the K. of P. hall on West Washington boulevard.

The social evening of the Young People's society of the Redeemer Lutheran church has been postponed from July 4 until July 11.

St. Vincent's Sewing circle will give a card party Thursday afternoon at the orphanage. Ice cream and cake will be served.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the First M. E. church will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. B. Grosjean, 1026 Lake avenue. Mesdames Brown, Thomas and Ziegler will assist the hostess.

Harriman Heiress to Wed Horseman

Miss Harriman will become the bride of R. Penn Smith, jr., of Philadelphia. She is the youngest daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, financier and railroad magnate, and has been in the forefront in social and charitable activties. Smith is a wealthy horseman, member of the Bryn Mawr Hunt and Chester Valley Hunt. He breeds and exhibits fine horses.

The Greatest Time and Money Saver

We think of railroads, telephones, the telegraph, the wireless—but how about want ads?

They are in the same class. It used to be when a man wanted help he had to ask among his friends where he could get a good stenographer, bookkeeper, etc. TODAY he puts in a want ad and tomorrow he has only to choose from a dozen or more.

He has furniture to sell—a want ad brings many buyers.

He has a house to rent—a want ad rents it—he has a house to sell—a want ad sells it.

They ARE a great convenience, aren't they?

Weisser Park Addition Attracting Favorable Attention

The Entrance to Hamilton Avenue, Looking Across Hanna Street.

Many people are now being attracted to the South Side's newest development, Weisser Park Addition, to see the progress of the paving on Hamilton Avenue, the principal thoroughfare. Others are coming with their friends to show lected, and many others came to make them choice lots which they had selected, and many others came to make a selection before someone else decided on the lot they had picked out.

Weisser Park Addition has a number of features that appeal to those who want improved lots well situated for the east side industries, close to schools and churches, and far enough away from the crowded portions of the city to enjoy Nature's loveliness and fresh air. It is evident, from the number of those who have made selections of lots, that every reservation will have been made within the next week or ten days.

Reservations may be made with the L. F. Curdes Realty Company and other members of the Fort Wayne Real Estate Board.

CLOTURE IS THE THREAT

Nevertheless, the Senate Still Refuses to Set Time for Vote.

FOOD CONTROL IS STILL HELD BACK

Penrose Objects to Having a Vote on Measure at Once.

Washington, July 3.—Holding the new cloture rule in reserve, administration senators today made another futile attempt to get the opponents of the food bill to voluntarily agree on a time for a vote.

Senator Chamberlain in charge of the bill, warned the senate that more than two weeks have already been used up in discussion and that he believed all senators who intended making speeches had done so. He asked for a vote on the bill today at 5 p. m.

Senator Penrose at once objected, declaring that he favored "free and fair discussion" and objected to "the use of the steamroller" in forcing the bill.

Senator Chamberlain replied that it was not his purpose to urge the use of the "steamroller" and he had no desire to "imply that there had been a filibuster."

Senator Jones of Washington, interrupted to say that he hoped the press of the country would not say "that the friends of temperance are opposing the progress of the bill."

A Provision Added.

The provision in the food control bill prohibiting sale to the government of supplies by government agents, employes, officers or those acting in an advisory capacity in which they have a personal interest was added by unanimous endorsement of the senate agricultural committee in response to widespread demand and frequent debate in congress.

At the suggestion of Herbert C. Hoover, the committee agreed to a modification, which would not prohibit employment of persons in an advisory capacity in selling to the government products other than those in which they have a personal interest. With the modification, however, the clause still would prohibit persons acting in an advisory way from selling their own supplies to the government. It may be modified further.

CITIZENSHIP PICNIC 4TH.

Drills, athletic events and base ball. Citizens' band.

TENER HAS REOPENED THE M'GRAW MATTER

Rehearing to Begin Next Friday and it Will be a Moving Trial.

New York, July 3.—President John K. Tener, of the National league, has notified the chairman of the local chapter of the Baseball Writers' association that there will be a rehearing of the McGraw case on Friday, July 6. The meeting will be attended by all the members of the board of directors of the National league and the writers' association has been notified to have present all those necessary in the capacity of witnesses.

Every league club president, who is also a member of the board of directors, has announced his intention of being present and their attendance will in some cases necessitate traveling several thousand miles. According to the report it is the intention of the directors to sift the case to the bottom.

CHICAGO'S COAL COMING AT THE RECORD PRICES

Chicago, July 3.—Despite the agreement for the reduction of coal prices recently consummtaed by the mine operators in conjunction with the commission on coal production, the highest prices for soft coal that have prevailed with one exception, since the civil war, are in effect in Chicago, it was asserted today. The only reductions that have been made apply to coal from the mines in West Virginia and Kentucky, it was asserted. Illinois coal is selling at from $2.25 to $3.00 a ton at the mine and and $3.05 to $4.60 a ton delivered in Chicago.

BIG STRIKE AVERTED.

Lafayette, Ind., July 3.—The threatened strike of allied crafts at the Monon railroad shops in this city has been averted by an agreement reached between P. L. McManus, general superintendent, B. M. Squires, an official from the department of labor at Washington, D. C., and Chas. P. Burgman, superintendent of motive power for the railroad. The company agreed to put Richard Davis, the boilermaker who was dismissed, into the service again and pay him for the time lost. The six hundred employes at the shops threatened a walkout.

MRS. MYRTLE FOSTER CLAIMED BY DEATH

Daughter-in-Law of Col. D. N. Foster Passes Away Friday.

After an illness of several weeks, Mrs. Myrtle Schofield Foster, 449 years old, widow of the late Frederick R. Foster, and daughter-in-law of Col. D. N. Foster, died Tuesday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Schofield, 411 East Jefferson street. Death was due to a tumor on the brain.

Mrs. Foster was born in Elkhart, Ind., in 1868, and had been a resident of Ft. Wayne for about 20 years. The husband died 19 years ago. The only son, Bryan Foster, died in 1913, shortly after his graduation from the Howe Military Academy.

Mrs. Foster had a wide acquaintance in this city, and was highly esteemed by all who knew her.

ROSENWALD COMPLAINS OF MEDDLING CONGRESS

Points to Graft-Free Work of Defense Council in Buying Things.

Chicago, July 3.—Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the committee on supplies of the council of national defense, has issued a statement in which he charges that legislation pending in congress putting members of the council upon the same footing as congressmen in the matter of accepting contracts for the government would practically put the council out of business. He said:

"Congressmen under the constitution cannot be interested in any contracts with the government, and congress now, it appears, has tacked a rider to the food bill, the effect of which, if passed, and not vetoed by the president, would be to legislate the committees of the defense council out of business by putting the members in the same class with congressmen and senators.

"This is stupid, short sighted, nonsensical and foolish. It means a return to the old slipshod days of unloading on the government—the days of rotten contracts in a time of great national emergency."

Mr. Rosenwald said if it had not been for the council "the government would not have been able in this short time to provide supplies for a million soldiers without the slightest suspicion of graft."

PAIR OF OIL INSPECTORS

Indiana Has, State Geologist Discovering, Right to Appoint One.

Adam Felker, a Lebanon Democrat, Latest to Take Job.

Indianapolis, July 3.—Indiana now has two oil inspectors where a few weeks ago there was none. Acting on advice of his own attorney, Edward Barrett, state geologist, today appointed Adam Felker, of Lebanon, a democrat, state oil inspector, and also named a long list of deputy inspectors for the various districts in the state. Governor Goodrich, a few days ago appointed Marion Caldwell, of Indianapolis, a republican, state oil inspector. The governor acted on a legal opinion given him.

The differences of opinion which resulted in a suit in the United States district court here in which oil companies successfully sought an injunction to prevent the operation of the oil inspection law, as it has been during the last few years. Democrats immediately said the oil inspection in this state should continue under another law.

Because the federal court enjoined the collection of fees to pay the inspector and deputies none probably will receive pay until further legal steps are taken. It was said today that court proceedings of some kind probably will be taken to determine whether Caldwell or Felker is the inspector.

COAL PRICES AGREED ON ARE AN ENORMITY

Iowa Authority Declares People Will be Stung for $700,000,000.

Washington, D. C., July 3.—Clifford Thorne, representing the Iowa league of municipalities, told the senate interstate commerce committee today that if tentative coal prices arranged last week between the operators and the council of national defense became permanent they would cost consumers $700,000,000 over last year's soft coal bill.

Should the tentative prices be made permanent, he said, "prices which operators in the Indiana field have been receiving in the last six months would be increased over fifty per cent."

Mr. Thorne declared the tentative coal prices are from 50 to 100 per cent greater than voluntary contracts entered into within the last three months between operators and railroads for the ensuing year.

"We are protesting against even a tentative price fixing agreement," said Mr. Thorne. He wanted prices fixed by a government agency.

DEATH OF SIR HERBERT TREE.

London, July 3.—According to the moring newspapers the death of Sir Herbert Tree was not caused by the recent operation, but it was a case of collapse so sudden that he died in a few moments. Sir Herbert had discussed business affairs daily with Mr. Dana, his business manager, during the last few days. They were thus engaged for some time Monday afternoon. When Mr. Dana left Sir Herbert was in a cheerful mood as he expected to leave his bed soon.

RAILROAD NEWS

Pennsy and Nickel Plate Tell How it Can Be Accomplished.

Plans which are now being worked out in final detail, and will shortly be put into actual operation, will effect a complete change in the methods of receiving, loading and forwarding less than carload freight, of all descriptions, upon all portions of the Pennsylvania railroad lines east of Pittsburg.

The new arrangements will constitute probably the most far-reaching improvement that has ever been attempted, on a large scale, in freight transportation practices. The present custom of receiving less than carload freight indiscriminately, at all stations, at any time of the day, for all destinations, which has been followed since the early days of railroading, will be abolished. In its place there will be substituted a carefully devised plan whereby the acceptance and loading of freight, in less than carload lots, will be conducted according to a regularly established system, and such freight will be automatically concentrated into full loads at the point of shipment.

The two most important features of the new plan for handling less than carload freight are: The inauguration of shipping days—or substantially "sailing dates"—on which cars will depart from various points of origin to specified destinations; freight will be accepted on the proper shipping days, only, and the cars will "sail" as specified.

The designation of particular stations at which freight will be exclusively received for specified destinations; freight for such points will be accepted at the stations named only.

Purposes of Plan.

The purposes of the new method are the elimination of the delay incident to the rehandling of freight under the present methods; the conservation of car supply by effecting better average loading; a reduction in the number of car and train movements required to transport a given volume of freight, and an improvement in the regularity of the freight service by systematizing and simplifying operation.

Under the present method of handling less than carload freight, a shipper having a small consignment to transport from City "A" to City "B" can take his goods to any freight station in City "A" at any time during the ordinary working hours. In the course of the day, or perhaps the next two or three days, the freight will be loaded into a car and run out to a transfer station, which may be a few miles or more than one hundred miles distant. There it will be unloaded and trucked into another car, in which numerous small shipments, from many other points, for City "B" are being consolidated in the effort to make up a full car.

Under the proposed plan, there will be certain days on which less than carload freight for City "B" will be accepted at one or more specified stations in City "A," and such freight will be accepted only on the days, and at the particular station, or stations, named. On the days specified, a car for City "B" will leave the originating station or stations. The service will be daily, tri-weekly, semi-weekly or weekly according to the average volume of the traffic, and freight for City "B" will be taken only in such cars. Under this method there will be no subsequent transferring or re-handling of the freight, and the car will move straight through to City "B" without breaking bulk.

Effects of the Plan.

One important result which the plan is expected to bring about will be a reduction in loss and damage to freight, owing to the greater promptness with which it will be loaded and dispatched.

The simplification of railroad operation, as well as the elimination of rehandling of less than carload freight at transfer stations, will also diminish the amount of freight going astray.

The proposed plan is being worked out on scientific lines. A most careful and elaborate study has been made of the movement of less than carload freight to and from stations.

A conservative estimate shows that the adoption of the proposed plan will result in the saving of at least 1,000 box cars per day in the handling of less than carload freight on the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie.

Fort Wayne is a transfer station for freight moving over the line and something like 125 men are constantly employed in handling the business.

Nickel Plate Makes Statement.

The Nickel Plate has issued to its freight agents a circular bearing upon this question also. In it E. W. Mitchner, superintendent of transportation, makes the assertion that by loading and unloading cars promptly and by loading them to their maximum tonnage or space capacity would be equivalent to adding 200,000 cars to the equipment of the country. Mr. Mitchner urges the company's agents to endeavor to lay this matter before the shippers in the proper light, believing that they will co-operate, and in so doing, render a great service to the whole country. "Hundreds of thousands of cars will be required to move freight for military uses," says Mr. Mitchner, "and the necessities of life must be supplied to the civilian population at home," he continued.

JULY 4th Is a Splendid Time to See Weisser Park Addition

IF YOU are going to spend Independence Day in the city, let us suggest that you take a little time and see how splendidly Weisser Park Addition is being developed into one of the most attractive home places in Fort Wayne.

Many who have come to see how the work is progressing have been so thoroughly delighted with the place that they have immediately reserved lots for home sites or investment.

THE GREAT SALE OF WEISSER PARK ADDITION LOTS OPENS

Saturday, July 7

Visit the Addition in Advance of This Date and Select Your Lot

Weisser Park Addition offers you these splendid inducements:

Location—It is one square south of Weisser Park, which is this year receiving the special attention of the Park Board. Hanna street is west. Rudisill boulevard is just south of the addition.

Street Car Service—The Pontiac car line serves Weisser Park Addition.

Improvements—Hanna street, bordering the addition on the west, is paved. Hamilton avenue is now being paved. All other streets are to be graded. With water, sewer and electric connections, beautiful entrances, ornamental boulevard lighting, shade trees, parkways and homes uniformly located, everything the home-owner could desire is here to be found.

For the Children—Weisser Park, (from which the addition receives its name) forms a great playground for the children. This, together with the nearness of the James H. Smart school makes the place ideal for the family blessed with boys and girls.

Prices—Lots in Weisser Park Addition are to be secured for as low as $475, and on the most attractive terms. You will be astonished to find how much your money will buy here.

Decide Now!—With many lots now being selected, even before the improvements are completed, it is evident that the opportunity to buy will soon be gone. The first thing to do is to see Weisser Park Addition and then make a quick selection of your choice of the lots.

If you would like to have us take you to the Addition, Telephone 622 or 274 and we'll respond promptly.

HANG DRESSES IN BAGS TO KEEP AWAY THE DUST.

If you live in small quarters and your closet is a narrow one, perhaps a space behind curtains, dress bags are very important to keep clothes from becoming dusty.

Making these bags is very simple, takes little time and little money. Buy six and a half yards of white cheesecloth. This will make two bags, one for dresses and one for skirts and suits.

Take half the piece of material, fold it together end to end and cut open one-third down the center. On either side of the opening make a firm facing and put on snappers. Now stitch up both sides and the top. Add bits of tape for hanging straps.

THE MARKETS

HAY RECEIPTS LIGHT AND PRICES GO UP

Eggs Are Also Higher in Both Wholesale and Retail Marts.

Receipts in hay have fallen off considerably around here in the last few days and as a result the prices took a little flier Tuesday morning, advancing $2 and coming to rest at $14.00 to $16.00 per ton. Oats also increased and two loads that were weighed at the city scales sold at 72@75c per bushel. There was no corn and only fourteen loads of hay.

Eggs have also advanced in both wholesale and retail circles. In the former the price is now 30@32c a dozen, an advance of 2 or 4c having been made. The retail prices are from 34c to 36c per dozen. Potatoes are falling steadily and are selling at 70c a peck retail. There is little call for the spuds in bushel lots because of the persistent decrease in value.

Wheat and flour are remaining steady, the former at $2.20@2.22 per bushel, while the bread making substance made by local millers is selling a tfrom $13.60 to $15.00 per barrel. There is practically no wheat coming into the city at all just now, partly because of the fact that the cereal is far from plentiful just now, and partly because the producers are too busy with the new crop to bring in what they have on hand.

WALL STREET STILL IN UNCERTAIN MOOD

Leading Issues of Stock Market Are Yet Under Much Pressure.

New York, July 3.—Leaders were under further pressure at the opening of today's market. United States Steel was the only stock to change hands in more than ordinary amounts, 4,000 shares being offered at an extreme loss of half a point. Studebaker and leather yielded large fractions to over a point. Rails were rather mixed.

The activity of the morning was accompanied by a succession of rallies and fresh declines. Many important stocks fell to lowest quotations of the current movement. Chief among these were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible and Lackawanna Steels, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Reading, Baltimore and Ohio, the prominent metals and American Sugar.

From surface indications the setback was mainly caused by short selling.

Internal Revenue Receipts Fall Off $11,000, However.

There are no slackers in the army of internal revenue payers, says E. B. Thumma, deputy revenue collector, in the Federal building. The first of July found the revenues on all taxed articles neatly tucked away in the office safe. Payments were the most prompt since Thumma has been a collector. He knows no reason why there has been a tendency to hang back on payments in several past years and why taxes are met so promptly this season.

There is a decrease in the amount of revenues collected, however, of $11,000, as compared with the figures of last year. In 1916, $43,472.64 were paid in. This year the receipts show $32,397.17. The falling off comes from the columns of figures for liquors and tobacco. Beer has been the greatest loser, although the revenues from cigars are much below the sums turned in a year ago.

"Spiritual Bride" in "Soulmate" Case

MRS. CHAS. R. HAMSLEY

Mrs. Hamsley is one of the principals in an unusual "soul-mate" case. Her home is in Chicago. Her husband has agreed to divorce so she can wed Elwood V. Matlack, of St. Louis, in the regular way. Just now she is his "spiritual bride" by virtue of a ceremony performed by Prof. David Seabury, Culver Military academy psychologist, after he had decided theirs was a real "soul-mate" case. Mrs. Matlack isn't so cheerful about the matter. She threatens to call in federal prosecutors. Matlack is reported wealthy.

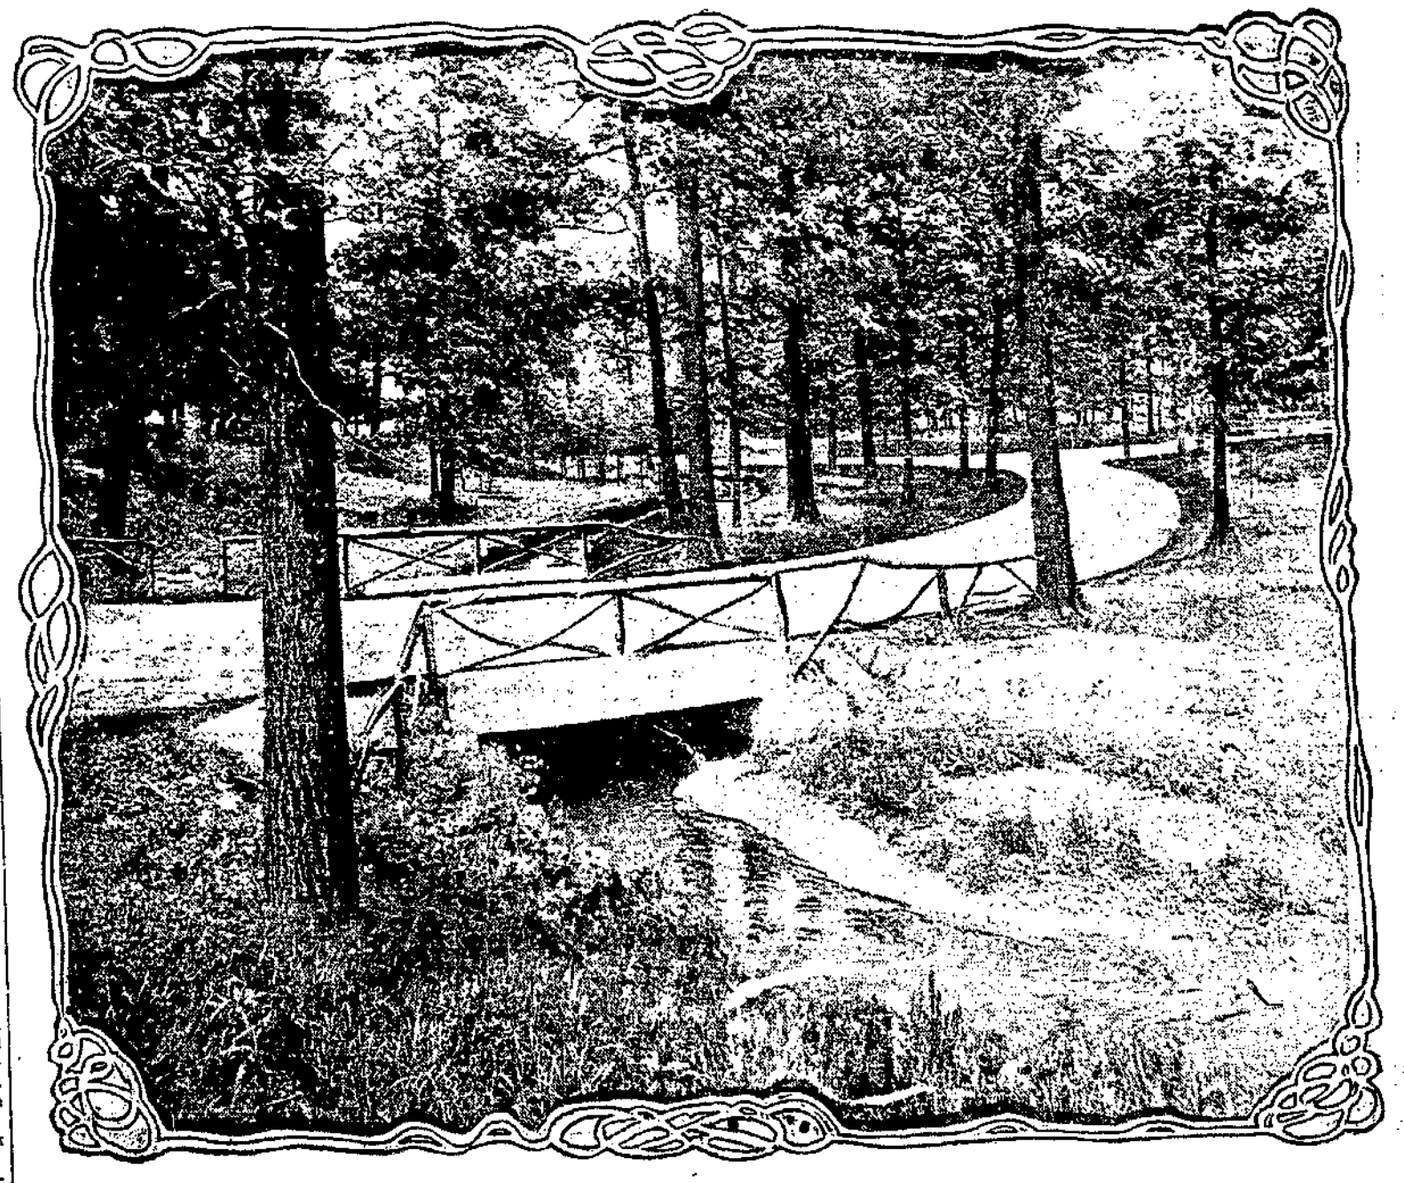
FREE RIDE ALL DAY JULY 4th

TO FORT WAYNE'S BEAUTIFUL NEW RESIDENCE DISTRICT

Shady Brook Park



THIS IS A TYPICAL VIEW IN SHADY BROOK PARK, THE IDEA L PLACE TO LIVE.

SHADY BROOK PARK is the handsomely wooded district lying directly south of the handsome residence properties of Prof. William Miles and Dr. G. A. Ross, on the New Haven Road which is now being paved with concrete (like the Lincoln Highway) to form a new connection with New Haven. Shady Brook Park is twelve minutes from the downtown district either by automobile or electric line—the Ohio Electric Line.

We will not go into detail here, further than to say that we want everyone to see Shady Brook Park July 4, AT OUR EXPENSE.

Call at any time at our ground floor office and receive a free ticket on the interurban line, or, if you prefer, we will take you in an automobile. We don't care whether you are thinking of buying a lot or simply "want a ride." But be sure to call and get your ticket.

AGED 100, BUT REGISTERS.

VEVAY, Ind., July 3.—Onehundred years old today, Mrs. Mary Rous, of Vevay, went to the county clerk's office and placed her name on the list of women who have registered to vote for delegates to the constitutional convention. Her registration was part of the celebration in honor of her birthday.

REDUCE ICE BILL.

To keep milk without ice, fit a fine wire gauze lid to a tin pail, cover with carpet or other coarse cloth and set in a raised shady window. This will be found purer and sweeter than milk kept in majority of refrigerators and will also reduce your ice bill.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

An unsettled condition occupies the St. Lawrence valley and another depression overlies the Rocky mountain region, but under the influence of a high which covers the Missouri valley the weather is assuming a more settled aspect in the sections to the eastward of the Rockies. During the last 24 hours showers occurred in the Atlantic states and in widely separated areas in northern and western districts. While the temperature changes of the last 24 hours have been unimportant, the weather is somewhat cooler in the far western districts and in the sections to the eastward of the Mississippi, but in the northern Rocky mountain states the temprature has risen slightly.

SCHELL BOY'S LIFE HANGS IN BALANCE

Horse Trader to be Charged With Murder if the Lad Dies.

The life of Alfred Schell, the boy who was shot through the head while automobile riding Sunday night, is held by a delicate thread. Attendants at the St. Joseph hospital state that the youth is resting better, Tuesday afternoon. Dr. J Frank Dinnen, in charge of the case, states that the lad has slight chances of recovery.

Louis Franklin Daniels, 61, held in the county jail, will be charged with murder if the Schell boy dies, Deputy Prosecutor John Hoffman states. Daniels, a horse trader, is held on a charge of assault and battery with attempt to kill at present. He denies any knowledge of the shooting of the lad.

Sheriff Gille and his deputies, who have been informed that the shooting victim has but small chance to recover, are making careful investigation of the case. They have questioned the wife of Daniels, who remains at the trader's camp, established near Hesse Cassel. The woman also denies that her husband shot at the members of he automobile party, of which Alfred Schell was one.

Officers have been unable to find any cartridges for the empty chambered revolver which Daniels tossed from his wagon when aroused by the sheriff early Monday morning. It had been expected that the shells would be picked up on the school lot.

There is a theory, which has no substantiation as yet, that some other person, hiding along the side of the Decatur road, fired upon the youthful members of the auto party, Sunday night. The boys were shooting fire crackers along the way. They state that they believe Daniels did the shooting because his horses were frightened by the explosion of the cannon crackers.

NEGRO IS NINETEEN.

Journal Person, the colored youth, who "jes growed," he told in police court last Friday and who had no idea how old he is, has been declared to be nineteen by relatives in Kentucky. A letter was directed to Sturgis, Ky., by Sheriff Gillie last Friday, after Person appeared in court and stated that his folks had lived in Sturgis. A reply is supposed to come from an aunt of Person's. It is an almost unreadable hand. It states that the youth was born in 1897.

CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS UNDER WAY

Woodburn Auxiliary Added to Local Chapter of Red Cross.

Members of the Fort Wayne chapter of the Red Cross are all ready for the demonstration and membership campaign to be held at Swinney park on the Fourth of July, as a part of the patriotic celebration to be given by different organizations of the city. The Red Cross girls who will march in the parade and canvass the park for new members will meet at headquarters on East Berry street. Dr. A. H. Macbeth will be in charge of the first aid demonstration. The recently purchased ambulance will be used in the exercises. The crowd will be canvassed for new members, and all joining the society will be provided with a tag bearing the words, "I have joined the Red Cross, July 4." The loving cup to be donated by Mrs. A. E. Fauve for the girl getting the most members must be won in three campaigns before becoming the permanent possession of the winner.

The membership booth for the Red Cross at the park will be handsomely decorated and provided with shelves for the accommodation of packages and wraps belonging to Red Cross girls.

An auxiliary to the Fort Wayne chapter was established at Woodburn, Monday night, and the people of that town are reported to be very enthusiastic and eager to start their work.

New Classes Formed.

Three new classes in the home care of the sick have been formed by the woman's committee of which Mrs. A. L. Johns is chairman. Others are in process of organization. All told there have been fourteen home care of the sick classes, which are being taught by Miss Frances Ott, expert Red Cross nurse.

A class was formed Monday afternoon at a meeting of the colored Mothers' club at the home of Mrs. Lena Jackson on Holman street. Mrs. A. L. Johns and Mrs. W. S. Morris spoke at the meeting.

MONARCH OF THE AIR!

Carl Haines, Signal Corps Member, Says He Had Only Borrowed It.

Carl Haines, signal corps member, had only borrowed the suit case from one of his comrades, he tearfully told in police court Tuesday. With a voice choked by sobs he explained that he only expected to make use of the carrier, which was left at the signal corps headquarters, third floor, Old National bank block.

Haines has been in petit larceny difficulties before, explained Detective Sergeant W. F. Pappert, who has been engaged in the case. The young man was once convicted of stealing a bicycle and is now on parole from the circuit court, having pleaded guilty to taking a watch.

Haines claims that one of the other signal corps men obtained the gold watch which has also been missed from the headquarters. He is held until Wednesday for more thorough investigation of the case.

Fined for Speeding.

Charles J. Niswander, 1118 Columbia avenue, was taking his wife home from a trip to the doctor's Saturday night. He started to turn his automobile on to Dearborn street from Columbia avenue. There was a flash of light. A crash followed. Niswander's automobile was carried across the curbing on to the lawn, at the northwest corner of the intersection.

Citizens, hearing the smash of the two cars, ran from their homes. Niswander says that they prevented Frank Farra, 1416 Lewis street, from making a get-away after the accident. Ferra was charged with speeding, on the docket, Tuesday morning. He pleaded guilty. He said he was not traveling over twenty miles an hour and did not know that Niswander was going to make a turn. He was fined $25 and costs.

Day of Independence.

Prosecution in the case of Chancy Brokaw, brought back from Decatur to answer a child neglect charge, asked that the trial be postponed until after the Fourth. It was intimated that Margaret Brokaw, the wife, does not wish to have her husband sentenced until after Independence day. Brokaw is at liberty under $200 bond.

Not the Banker.

John Shuler, Paine, Ohio, farmer, had explained to the court Monday that he knows all the bankers in Paine. He referred Judge Kerr to one of the prominent real estate men of the town. Paine authorities were notified that the farmer is held here. The town marshal came for him Saturday morning.

Other Police Court Cases.

Ed Cahill, charged with begging on the streets, said he had not partaken of nourishment since he left St. Louis, several days ago. The judge disbelieved the story. Cahill was fined $5 and costs. So was his companion, George McCaffrey. Bud Owens, another member of the band, is held until July 7.

Cases of public intoxication are: Jesse Felger, fined $1; Herman Bishop, released, and Harry Bassett, too drunk to be tried, the court was told.

William Burton, colored, who has a registration button, but no registration card, is held for investigation.

Case against Earl Nussbaum, charged with issuing a fraudulent check, was dismissed.

MARKET PIRACY MUST NOT LIVE, SAYS JUDGE

Will Stamp Out Every Effort at Short Weight in City Stalls.

Market piracy must not be allowed to prey upon the buying public, at this time of war forced economy and conservation, Judge Kerr made plain in police court, Tusday morning.

The case which called forth the expression from the city judge was that of Max Fichman, 802 East Lewis street, charged with giving short weight on the city market. Harry Payne testified that Fichman sold him a pound and a half of cabbage and represented the vegetable as weighing two pounds, last Saturday, on the the city market.

Fichman explained that he had cabbage at 8 cents a pound and an inferior grade at 6 cents a pound. He charged Payne 12 cents because the citizen took the eight cent grade, Fichman said.

Payne stated that Fichman had told him definitely that the head of cabbage weighed two pounds. Fichman was found guilty and fined $10 and costs. He gave notice of appeal. Sam Fields, merchant, signed his appeal bond of $50.

MOTHER OF JUDGE SOL A. WOOD DEAD

Mrs. Lavina B. Wood Had Lived in Angola for Over Half Century.

The aged mother of Judge Sol A. Wood, of this city, Mrs. Lavina B. Wood, passed away late Monday afternoon at her home in Angola, death being due to the infirmities of old age. Mrs. Wood was 84 years old and had been a resident of Angola for over half a century. She was the widow of Dr. W. A. Wood, who died at Angola in 1866.

The deceased was born May 26, 1833, and moved to Angola when 32 years old. She was a member of the Christian church at Angola and had always taken an active part in church work.

By reason of her long residence in Angola and her genial disposition she had many friends and was well known. All who knew her esteemed her highly. She was a woman of an unusually strong personality and in her younger years particularly was an important factor in the growth and development of the community in which she resided. Judge Wood is the only surviving child.
